CONGRESS TO GIVE FILIPINOS A LIFT.

Senate Will Follow House in Enacting Legislation to Aid the Wards of the Pacific.

FEATURES OF LODGE BILL

Reduction of Tariff on Native Products and Building of Railways and Highways Proposed.

[BY RAYMOND.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Although this will be the short session, and congress at such times is averse to general legislation, it is more than likely several measures of vast importance to the people of the Philippine islands will be passed within a short time.

Last year the house did its duty, and passed several emergency bills which urgently were needed to perfect the government in the islands. The senate, unfortunately, was tangled up over the statehood bills, and confined its work to shipping measures and one or two similar laws, which have proved more of an embarrassment than a help to the insular government.

Fortunately for the Filipinos, the legislation is likely to receive favorable and early action. The house will be occupied from the opening day until the holiday recess with appropriation bills, whereas the senate practically is free handed. It will not get down to actual work on big money measures until January, so there ought to be plenty of time in which to look after the Philippines.

Senate's Turn to Act.

All these insular measures have been passed by the house and are thus ready for immediate consideration in the senate. By far the most important piece of legislation now pending so far as the islands are concerned is embodied in what is known as the Lodge bill, which proposes to reduce the duty on sugar and tobacco imported into the mainland of the United States from the Philippine islands.

Congress already has provided that after July 1, 1906, all commerce between the United States and the islands must be conducted exclusively in American ships. This makes coastwise trade out of commerce out of the Philippine islands, both going and coming. The result will be, of course, to stimulate to an extraordinary degree the construction of American ships on the Pacific, because they will be given absolute monopoly of the carrying trade between these shores and our Pacific islands.

Other Legislation Needed.

It is probable, also, that it will stimulate ship building on the Atlantic coast as well, as there is a certain class of heavy freight originating on that seaboard which can reach the islands profitably only through the Suez canal.

This law, while it may be entirely a wise one from the standpoint of the American shipmaster, would prove disastrous to the Philippines unless succeeded by other legislation. At the last session the house passed a bill removing tariff duties on articles imported from the Philippines. The senate amended this in such a way as to provide the tobacco and sugar should pay a duty of 50 per cent of the Dingley tariff rates. The government of the Philippines does not believe it is just to the people there to treat them first in one way and then in another.

By the extension of the coastwise shipping laws to the Philippines the islands are treated as if they were integral parts of the United States, but by the tariff laws now enforced they are treated as a foreign country.

Sugar and Tobacco Object.

Practically the only objection to free importation of goods from the Philippines comes from the sugar and tobacco interests of this country. The opposition originated in the two great trusts, but it has been agitated skilfully, so that opposition was made apparent in congress from people who were in some cases clearly antagonistic to trusts.

Workers in cigar factories and farmers engaged in beet sugar cultivation have been tortured into the fear that free importations of sugar and tobacco from the Philippines would be disastrous. The result is that the Lodge bill in the senate provides for 50 per cent of the Dingley rates on sugar and tobacco.

If the shipping law goes into effect a year from next July the inevitable result would be to increase freight rates because competition of the merchant marine of other countries would cease immediately. Rates of duty on certain grades both of sugar and tobacco are practically prohibitive as they stand. Freight rates from the Philippines are at the best extremely high.

Could Not Compete with Cuba.

If these rates are raised as a result of the shipping law, and rates of duty are only cut in half, as proposed by the Lodge bill, the result would be, in the opinion of unbiased treasury experts, that the Philippines could not compete with Cuba in either one of these great staples.

This means the United States would put itself in the position of doing more in a commercial way for its nearby independent republic than for its own far away island possessions. This is a complete reversal of the ordinary theory of a preferential tariff—favorable to the mother country and its colony.

For this reason the influence of the administration, and particularly the potent voice of Secretary Taft, will be used to induce the senate to consent to a further reduction in the duty on tobacco and sugar, so as to allow those staples to come in at 25 per cent instead of 50 per cent, of the Dingley tariff rates.

Would Remove Barrier.

The Philippines commission, Secretary Taft, treasury officials generally, and the president himself believe no possible harm would be done if all tariff barriers were removed, but as a concession to the sugar and tobacco interests and to prevent any alarm among people engaged in those industries it is believed a concession can be made, at least for a few years, of one-fourth the Dingley rates, with the existing provision that the receipts shall be returned to the island treasury.

Aside from adjustment of the tariff rates the secretary of war and Gov. Wright are most anxious to secure the inauguration of a liberal policy which will provide for public improvement of the islands. During the generations of Spanish rule the archipelago was made merely a revenue producing colony.

As a matter of course Spain made no attempt to do anything more than to exploit the islands in a fashion characteristically

COLORADO IS IN A STATE OF 'NERVES'

Uncertainty as to Result of Gubernatorial Contest Is Creating Anxiety in Business Circles.

CAPITAL FEARS TROUBLE.

Both Parties Allege Fraud, and Attempt to Defeat Adams May Result in Violence.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Denver, Colo., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Colorado tonight is the center of a commercial and financial unrest that sends its pulsations through every artery of the capital, Denver, to Wall street, though the citizens and politicians assert the talk is all on the surface and means nothing.

Anxiety in business and official circles is intensified by the uncertainty as to who will fill the governor's chair. It is generally believed that Alva Adams, elected on the face of the returns by 10,000 votes, will be seated, but the election contest started by the republicans in the interest of Gov. Peabody is developing surprises. Peabody gained 1,000 votes today on the counting of county precincts.

Adams' Stand for Law.

Gov.-elect Adams' public statement that he will stand for law and order regardless of who is affected came in time to allay some local apprehension, but it is not altogether convincing to business men. It is regarded as too much of a statement in the abstract. There is still the fear that Adams, elected largely by the labor vote, will be subject to the influence of united labor, and this feeling admittedly is on the upward tendency.

Both factions tonight are trying to outshout the other in the cry of election fraud. The result of the contest in this city will depend largely on the decision as to the legality of watchers appointed by the Supreme court on the election commission.

Both Parties Allege Fraud.

The points have been hotly argued today and the decision is in doubt. Both parties have hundreds of affidavits attesting illegal voting. The republicans are said to control the Supreme court on the election contest, and through that body, if it is decided to have jurisdiction, the canvassing board. The canvassing board in Denver, until a decision is reached, is idle, and this creates much dissatisfaction.

Meanwhile the democrats are collecting affidavits of fraud and preparing to submit them to a special grand jury of the West Denver court, which they control. Adams and Peabody are both standing pat, backed by their friends.

Story of Franchise Deal.

There is a story that Gov. Peabody's insistence on a contest of the election is due to a desire of his right hand man, William G. Evans, president of the Denver City Tramway company, to secure the valuable franchise of hauling coal through Denver for a long term of years, but Peabody and Evans say there is nothing in the story.

Business interests are awaiting the outcome with anxiety. On the one hand is the fear that an attempt to keep Gov. Peabody in office will result in violence and the situation is openly compared to that in Kentucky that resulted in a governor's assassination.

On the other is the uncertainty as to the administrative policy of Gov.-elect Adams, whose election, it is conceded, was due to efforts of organized labor in opposition to Gov. Peabody for his policy during the troubles with mining unions.

Capital Fears Upheaval.

Capital fears an upheaval in either case, though every effort has been made here to reassure investors. Real estate is scarcely moving, and other interests are suffering. The anxiety of eastern men who have millions invested in mines and other interests is shown by their sending agents here to secure comprehensive reports of local conditions. One of these agents said today:

"This talk of unseating Adams is disquieting. Unquestionably property interests would be safer under Gov. Peabody, but opposition to him is so pronounced by a lawless element that to raise the issue might result in anarchy.

Claim Returns Guessed At.

"No doubt fraudulent votes were cast for Adams. In one instance, I understand, a ballot box was not even opened. The returns were guessed at and written up to suit the judges. Democrats admit frauds were committed in Denver, but claim that they were offset by illegal republican ballots cast in other parts of the state.

"Adams, though he has served two previous terms as governor, is an unknown quantity this time. It was thought before his election that his success would be a defeat for the law and order policy of the republicans, and this opinion has not altered to any considerable degree. Adams will be compelled by his oath of office to see that laws are enforced in the event of labor disturbances, but his policy is more likely to be passive than an aggressive defense of the law. It is rational to suppose that he will be dominated by the labor interests."

Adams Defines Attitude.

Gov.-elect Adams said tonight that he had nothing to add to the statement given out by him at Pueblo yesterday outlining his policy.

"It is all foolishness to think that I would take sides with labor against capital," said he. "As governor of the state I am bound by my oath to see that all interests are protected. The interests of labor and capital are identical and it is my hope that I may be able to bring them closer together. It is my duty to enforce the law as I find it, and my friends will find that the same law is made for rich and poor alike. When the capitalists and the laboring men realize that there are certain elements binding them together as brothers there will be less trouble.

Hopes for Better Era.

"I do not care to criticise the eighteen months of bloodshed and strife that Colorado has undergone, but I hope with the assistance of the people to bring about a better era of things. Matters have already improved in certain districts, especially in the Telluride district, where five of the mines have been reopened with an eight hour day for the men."

Gov. Peabody said tonight that he was not bothering much over the election contest.

"It is in the interest of good government that honest elections should be conducted," he said.

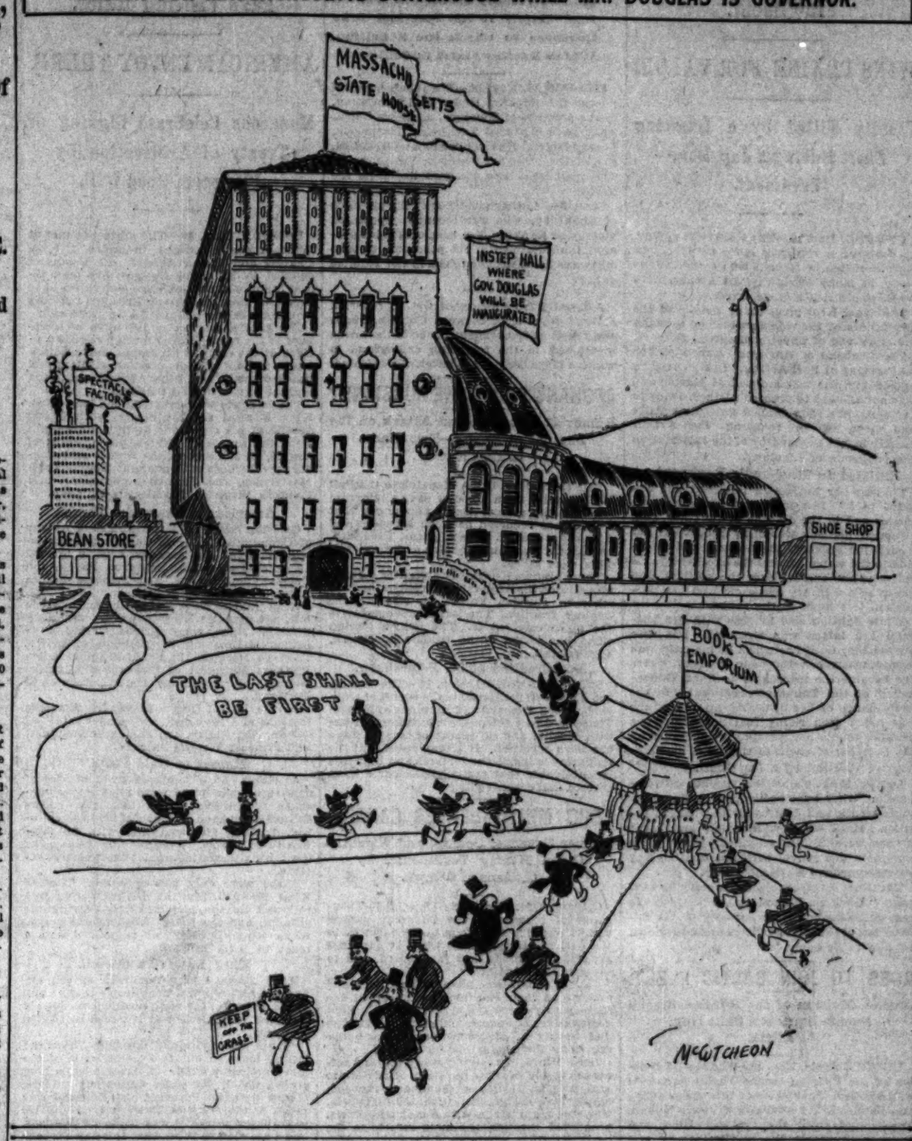
DESIGN FOR MASSACHUSETTS STATEHOUSE WHILE MR. DOUGLAS IS GOVERNOR.



STORMY LIFE NEARING END.

"Major" Sampson, Leader of "Market Street Gang," Dying.

CLOSES A LONG "RECORD."

Career of Violence Is Terminated by a Blow on the Head.

It ain't what I used to be;
It's what I am today.

The stormy life of "Major" John Sampson, apostle of "force" in democratic politics, is believed to be drawing to its logical close at the Alexian Brothers' hospital. His death apparently is destined to be as violent as his life.

"It never was meant that 'Johnnie' should die like peaceful people," a group of his north side friends agreed yesterday.

Sampson is partly paralyzed and delirious. Waking or sleeping, he talks ramblingly of the stirring incidents at primaries and polls in which he and the gangs of desperate men he led participated. It is said his reason has been impaired beyond recovery; and that his escape from death at this time would be an empty victory.

Blow on Head "Does the Work."

An attendant at the hospital said yesterday that a blow on the head had "done the work" for Sampson. On Oct. 26 the "major" was in the employ of Joseph Hanreddy as foreman of a gang of Italian street laborers, at work in Monroe avenue, near Sixty-first street. One of the workmen, Gus Panabas, did not move fast enough to please him. Sampson swore at him.

"You can't loaf on me," he shouted.

The Italian said nothing. An hour later he crept up behind the foreman and struck him on the back of the head with his pickax.

It was a glancing blow or it would have killed Sampson. As it was, it made him unconscious. The flat side of the pickax had inflicted a jagged wound near the base of the brain. Sampson was taken to the Englewood Union hospital.

Vainly Swears Vengeance.

Two days later, when the "major" returned to work, he discovered the Italian had been arrested by the police of the Woodlawn station on the day of the assault, but released by them "for want of prosecution."

Sampson was angry. He is said to have sworn to find the Italian and wreak personal vengeance, but the man had disappeared. The latter knew the kind of person he had to deal with.

The collapse of the foreman began soon afterward. First he complained of dizziness. Then he gave up his work and retired to his dwelling at 126 Chestnut street. His friends saw him infrequently thereafter. He was taken to the hospital last Saturday.

Forces Political Recognition.

In the last few years of his political activity Sampson did not choose to be judged "on his record." In 1900, when he secured the regular democratic nomination for alderman of the old Twenty-third ward, forcing Mayor Harrison and other leading democrats to come out against him with an independent candidate, this was his campaign slogan, printed on cards announcing his candidacy:

"It ain't what I used to be;
It's what I am today."

Much He Wants Forgotten.

Some of the reasons why the "major" wished the public to forget what he "used to be" were as follows:

In 1881 he was sentenced to one year's imprisonment in the House of Correction by the federal court for passing counterfeit money.

In 1889 he testified in the first Cronin case against Daniel Coughlin that the ex-detective attempted to hire him to kill Cronin.

In 1894 he was arrested on fourteen charges growing out of the fall election of that year in the "Market street gang cases." He was tried on several counts, but acquitted each time.

Arrested innumerable times for operating confidence games throughout the country.

In 1900 the democratic executive committee of Cook county adopted resolutions denying his securing the regular nomination for alderman.

Wins Respect of "Big Boss."

Sampson was defeated at the election, and he was beaten two years later when he ran as an independent candidate for state representative. When he engineered campaigns for others he was unusually successful. In such pursuits he made the "big boss," Robert Burke, admit his strength—and Burke hated him.

The "major" was a skilled mechanic, and during many years was employed by Charles T. Yerkes as an inspector of the latter's street and elevated railway interests.

Say He "Never Forgot a Favor."

The news that Sampson is dying has been received in sorrow by his friends in Orleans and Franklin streets. It was a common topic of saloon conversation yesterday, invariably, where friends of the "major" discussed him, these were the sentiments:

"Johnnie's not a bad fellow. He never forgot a favor."

BOY TIED TO RAILWAY TRACK.

Youth Rescued Just Before Express Is Due Says Father and Another Man Planned to Get Rid of Him.

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—An unknown boy about 12 years of age was found tied to the rails on the Southampton branch of the Grand Trunk road, one mile north of Harriston, this afternoon. He was securely tied with his hands behind his back just a few minutes before the 3:50 express from the north was due. A bicycle was found on the track, evidently to throw off suspicion. The boy says he and a man named Jim, with the boy's father, came from New York on Saturday. He states that they tied him there to get rid of him.

VICTIM OF ATTACK IS DYING.

Police Are Investigating Case of Unidentified Man Found Unconscious Under a Viaduct.

The police are investigating the circumstances surrounding the discovery of an unconscious man under the viaduct at the Grand avenue crossing of the Chicago and Northwestern railway last night.

The man was fashionably dressed, but there was no clew to identification. He has a fracture of the skull and internal injuries and probably will not recover.

It is believed by the police that the man was assaulted and thrown from the viaduct. Robbery apparently was not the motive, as the victim's watch and other valuables were in his pockets.

PARKER HANGS OUT HIS SHINGLE

Opens an Office in New York, Where He Will Resume the Practice of Law.

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Alton Brooks Parker, lately of Esopus, Ulster county, opened an office as attorney and counselor at law today at 32 Liberty street. The office adjoins that of William F. Sheehan, but it is announced there will be no partnership. Rosemount will be retained as a summer residence, but otherwise Mr. Parker is through with Esopus, which gave a plurality of 14 for Roosevelt at the end of the recent unpleasantness.

HENRY GASSAWAY DAVIS IS 81.

Candidate Who "Also Ran" for Office with Judge Parker Passes Another of Life's Milestones.

Elkins, W. Va., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Henry G. Davis, who "also ran" a week ago yesterday, was 81 years old today.

HURRY STATUE AND CRILLY.

South Park Commissioners Will Erect McKinley Monument.

BROTHER MEMBER IMPALED.

Had Promised to Pay for the Work of Art, but Is "Too Slow."

By a vote of 3 to 2, the south park board yesterday impaled Commissioner Daniel F. Crilly with a reproachful resolution regarding the commissioner's promise, made verbally and in writing long ago, to pay for a statue of William McKinley.

Trustfully and suspecting no guile, according to the resolution, the board has gone to considerable expense in altering drives and walks in McKinley park to provide a site for the statue, and has made other preparations for its erection. These preparations have cost $18,021.

Now the board chooses to wait no longer for Mr. Crilly to provide the money for the statue. The resolution, which is circumspect and carefully worded, does not say that Mr. Crilly has refused the money. That is left for inference.

Will Erect Statue Anyhow.

The resolution makes known, however, that at least the three members of the board who voted for it have hearkened to the prayers of the people of the McKinley park district for a McKinley statue. Therefore, the board itself will pay for the statue and see that it is put in place immediately.

Later on, by its customary vote of 3 to 2, the board will authorize itself to collect from Mr. Crilly the money it expends.

"Whereas," recites the resolution, "Commissioner Daniel F. Crilly agreed verbally on Sept. 10, 1902, and in writing on Aug. 19, 1903, to furnish money to pay for the statue, provided other expenses were to be met by this board.

"Whereas, acting under this agreement, the board has provided a suitable site for the statue, has given the metal of the old Columbus statue, and has erected a pedestal with ornate accessories.

"Whereas, a delegation representing residents of the McKinley park district has waited on this board and urged that the gift be completed by placing the statue at an early date.

"Resolved, that this board complete the improvement by paying at once for the statue proper, mounting it upon the pedestal at the earliest possible date, and unveiling it."

Crilly Says He Will Pay.

President Henry G. Foreman and his stanch allies in the administration of the board's affairs, Commissioners Best and Walton, voted for this resolution and carried it, as they have carried many resolutions before, over the protests and dissenting votes of Commissioners Crilly and Hodgkins.

"I have nothing to say," said President Foreman later.

Commissioner Crilly had much to say.

"This is just another of Foreman's digs at me," he stated. "Of course I will pay for the statue—a matter of $6,000, by the way—and out of my own pocket, if necessary. All I wanted the board to do was to give me a little more time to collect the money. Naturally it refused. That was to be expected."

JUSTICE YIELDS TO CERES.

Judge Kimbrough at Paris, Ill., Adjourns Court Until After Corn Crop Has Been Saved.

Paris, Ill., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Owing to the lack of corn huskers in this vicinity Judge Kimbrough adjourned court until Nov. 28 to give jurors, litigants, and witnesses a chance to harvest the corn crop.

CZAR HAS SECRET OF PORT ARTHUR

Mystery in Arrival of Destroyer at Chefoo Still Unsolved; Situation at the Fortress Unknown.

WARSHIP IS BLOWN UP.

Dispatches Sent to St. Petersburg Are Not Made Public; Declare Fortress Will Hold Out.

BULLETIN.

CHEFOO, Nov. 17, 8 a. m.—Three Japanese torpedo boat destroyers entered the harbor this morning, satisfied themselves that the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Rastoropny had been sunk, and departed.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Nov. 17, 3 a. m.—The mystery in the arrival of the Russian torpedo boat destroyer at Chefoo and its subsequent destruction by its own commander is still unsolved.

Neither is there any definite news of what has actually happened at Port Arthur since Nov. 6.

Dispatches Sent to the Czar.

Before blowing up the destroyer Rastoropny at Chefoo its commander delivered a batch of dispatches to the Russian consul. These dispatches have been duly received at St. Petersburg, but they have not been given to the public.

Officials at St. Petersburg deny, however, that the dispatches portend a crisis at Port Arthur, or that there is any talk of surrender. They assert that the fortress is well supplied and can hold out.

Sends Message of Hope.

On the other hand, the Daily Telegraph's Chefoo correspondent says he is officially informed that the Rastoropny brought no dispatches from Port Arthur, but that the commander transmitted the following message to the czar:

"The Japanese attacks have been everywhere repulsed. No main forts have been taken."

Conflicting Stories Told.

The stories of correspondents at Chefoo regarding the Rastoropny conflict in some particulars. Some of them are impressed by the heartiness of the optimism of the officers and the crew, while others think their stories have been rehearsed. The well found condition of the vessel also is variously regarded as significant of the comparative prosperity prevailing at Port Arthur, and as having been arranged theatrically to impress outsiders.

The officers are quoted as saying alternatively that Gen. Stoessel has been wounded, and that neither he nor any of his staff have been wounded.

One of the correspondents says that after the boat arrived it was stated aboard the American cruiser New Orleans that Rear Admiral Folger in no case would interfere to preserve the neutrality of the port, which was China's business. This statement apparently was in answer to a question prompted by excited expectation of a repetition of the Ryeshitelni affair.

It is not known whether the other Russian warships made a sortie or tried to. The commander of the Rastoropny is quoted as saying that all the warships have been repaired so far as the limited facilities of the port allowed. It is quite likely that some of them put out of the harbor.

Attack on Nov. 13 Repulsed.

According to the Shanghai correspondent of the Morning Post the garrison at Port Arthur attacked the Japanese on the night of Nov. 13, but were driven back with heavy losses. The Japanese, it is said, have nearly finished the work that was designed to assist them in their attack on the forts. Furious firing was heard Tuesday evening.

The Chefoo correspondent of the Daily Mail says the Rastoropny started from Port Arthur at midnight. The engines were run at full speed, but the destroyer was unable to make more than ten knots, owing to the big seas that swept the deck. The severity of the gale, added to the fear of pursuit, kept the crew under an anxious strain. The gunners did not leave their posts, and the commander remained on deck throughout the passage.

Crew in High Spirits.

The correspondent boarded the Rastoropny upon its arrival and found that its commander spoke English. The other two officers and the crew of fifteen men looked strong, healthy, and in high spirits. They were well clad and neat, but the interior of the vessel was dirty.

The commander alluded to this apologetically, saying: "We have had little time to clean up. The crew has been busily greasing torpedoes and torpedo tubes, anticipating a fight as we left the harbor."

A fat bulldog puppy was walking about on deck. The correspondent saw in the storeroom fresh meat, bottled beer, and packets of tobacco and cigarets.

BLOW UP OWN DESTROYER.

CHEFOO, Nov. 16.—The Russian torpedo boat destroyer Rastoropny, which arrived in this harbor from Port Arthur this morning, was blown up by direction of its commander late this afternoon.

The Russians, with the exception of one man, had left the destroyer during the afternoon. This last man lit the fuses and blew up the vessel.

There were three dull explosions which were scarcely discernible a hundred yards from the place where they occurred. Almost simultaneously the Rastoropny sunk and settled on the bottom. A single spar marks its grave.

Feared a Jap Attack.

It is impossible tonight to secure an explanation of the action of the Russians, but it is believed that they were determined not to allow a repetition of the Ryeshitelni incident.

It was learned later tonight that the Rastoropny carried sealed orders providing that unless there came a highly favorable opportunity to escape, the vessel should be blown up. Sufficient powder for this purpose was secreted before the destroyer left Port Arthur. This powder was placed in each of the five water tight compartments and fuses were laid all ready for the match.

Customs Officer Enticed Away.

Customs Officer Koenig was on board the destroyer and the Russians experienced considerable difficulty in getting him off without arousing his suspicions. The destroyer's cutter, manned by two men, was lying near and the official was persuaded to take a ride around the Rastoropny in order that he might see the injuries the hull was si-leged to have received. No sooner had the customs officer stepped into the cutter than a petty officer drew his watch and urged the rowers to make all speed away. As the cutter was pulling away the other men on board left by another boat, and, the fuses having been lighted, the explosion followed.

The explosion was so subdued and the crew remained so silent that it was some time before the report of affair became current.

It is generally believed that the report that two Japanese torpedo boat destroyers had been sighted off the mouth of the harbor precipitated the action of the Russians in blowing up their own boat.

The Japanese consul, however, said this evening that the Russians had wasted their vessel, as the Ryeshitelni incident would not have been repeated.

The Japanese consul said also that nine of the Russian crew came ashore with their rifles, against which action he has protested to the authorities, as it had been declared that the destroyer had been fully disarmed.

Destroyer Had Been Disarmed.

In fact, the port authorities believed the destroyer had been effectually disarmed. Capt. Ching of the Chinese cruiser Hai Yung in the morning notified the Russian commander that the destroyer must leave the port at the expiration of the twenty-four hour limit.

Later in the forenoon the Russian consul officially notified the taotai that the destroyer had been driven towards Chefoo by a heavy sea, and that it had been decided to disarm it because the machinery had been disabled.

The work of disarmament was then completed according to international usage, and early in the afternoon the taotai had officially notified the Japanese consul that the Russian destroyer had been disarmed, the breech blocks and ammunition having been removed, and the machinery disabled.

No Light on Port Arthur.

The arrival of the Russian destroyer has up to this evening failed to throw any light on the real situation at Port Arthur.

It is certain that Gen. Stoessel or the responsible officer in command at Port Arthur sent the destroyer to Chefoo with dispatches. These dispatches were delivered to the Russian consul and by him transmitted to St. Petersburg.

It is only surmised that the dispatches must have been of tremendous importance to warrant the sacrifice of a warship for their delivery. There is no doubt that the destroyer was deliberately sacrificed.

The Rastoropny sailed from Port Arthur at midnight and arrived at Chefoo seven hours later, steaming rapidly and easily, speeding into the harbor like an arrow.

The destroyer entered the harbor with a music box playing a sprightly air, and the savory odor of a breakfast steak apparently testifying to the fact that Port Arthur still enjoys fresh meat. Later when the newspaper men were allowed on board the Rastoropny a quarter of beef was carefully placed where it was impossible to miss seeing it. This apparently was meant to convey the impression that Port Arthur was snug and comfortable.

Boarded by Chinese Officer.

The Russian destroyer came to anchor a few hundred yards abaft the United States cruiser New Orleans, flagship of Rear Admiral Folger, commander of the cruiser squadron of the Asiatic fleet. The Chinese cruiser Haiyung raised steam within twenty minutes and came close to the Rastoropny. Capt. Ching of the Haiyung went on board and held a brief conference with Commander Pelem.

Ensign Wainwright, Rear Admiral Folger's aid, boarded the Rastoropny immediately, but he and Capt. Ching were not invited to enter the Rastoropny's cabin, although the blizzard was cutting their faces.

Told to Leave or Disarm.

Capt. Ching notified Commander Pelem that twenty-four hours was the limit of the time he could remain armed at Chefoo, after which the Rastoropny would be compelled to disarm.

While the Chinese officer was on board the Russian sailors, who seemed to be healthy and carefree, continued greasing the torpedo tubes, which were loaded.

Following the conference with Capt. Ching, the Rastoropny was moved further in, to the old anchorage of the torpedo boat destroyer Ryeshitelni, where the Russian consul boarded the Rastoropny and brought its dispatches ashore.

Escape from Fortress Described.

Commander Pelem of the Rastoropny declined to make more than a brief, perfunctory statement. He said:

"I left Port Arthur at midnight, in a blinding snow storm. The boat was navigated through all the dangers of floating mines without a mishap. On reaching the open sea we saw a Japanese cruiser and some torpedo boats in the distance, but we were steaming rapidly through the storm, with lights extinguished, and passed them unnoticed. We reached Chefoo without mishap of any kind."

Commander Pelem was optimistic with reference to Port Arthur. He declared that all the forts remained in Russian hands and that the garrison was confident and in good spirits.

The Russian officers were equally reticent, but they said that the condition of Port Arthur is as good as it was two months ago. They also denied the report that the Russian armored cruiser Bayan had been sunk, though they admitted that a shell damaged its engines, which are being repaired. Russian cruisers, they said, come out of Port Arthur daily, the battleships remaining in the harbor.

ST. PETERSBURG WAITS NEWS.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 17, 2 a. m.—There is no official confirmation at this hour of the reported blowing up of the torpedo boat destroyer Rastoropny at Chefoo.

The understanding at the admiralty had been that the vessel would be hauled up on shore to prevent a repetition o. the Ryeshitelni affair, and that it would be disarmed in regular course.

Gen. Stoessel's report has not been given out, but it is understood that it contains no request for instructions regarding the surrender of Port Arthur.

It is intimated that the report goes at considerable length into details of the recent fierce land fighting, but says that the interior line of defenses remains intact.

Ridicules Surrender Rumors.

A high placed general who was with the emperor this afternoon and who knows the contents of Gen. Stoessel's message says that all the talk about Gen. Stoessel asking for instructions to surrender is absolutely false. He said he was not at liberty to disclose the nature of Gen. Stoessel's report, but he remarked:

"Only when the last biscuit is eaten and the last cartridge fired will the garrison surrender the fortress. This I can state positively."

ICE BREAKER YERMAK INJURED.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

[Copyright: 1904: By the New York Herald.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 16.—A strange rumor is current here to the effect that the ice breaker Yermak, which put into Kiel for repairs, was damaged by shots from Russian ships.

QUIET ALONG THE SHAKHE.

MUKDEN, Nov. 16.—It has been generally quiet along the Russian line today, varied by occasional artillery exchanges. There have been fewer skirmishes for some days past. Reinforcements continue to arrive, and one whole regiment was received in a single day.

There is reason to believe that important developments will transpire shortly, and that possibly there will be heavy fighting.

WOMAN WARRIOR AT PORT ARTHUR

Wife Disguised in Male Attire Enlists in Her Husband's Regiment.

WINS PRAISE FOR VALOR.

Finally Killed by a Bursting Shell During a Jap Bombardment.

CHEFOO, Nov. 16.—The Novi Kral of Nov. 12 contains a romantic story of Haritena Korotkiewitch, a woman who served valorously in many fights at Port Arthur, until death closed her strange career.

The Novi Kral gives many details of the adventures of the woman which go to make the story one of undoubted authenticity.

The husband of Haritena Korotkiewitch was serving at Port Arthur. In endeavoring to join him she was stopped at Harbin and was not allowed to proceed further, owing to her sex. She then donned masculine attire and succeeded in reaching Port Arthur shortly before the landing of the Japanese on the peninsula of Liaotung.

Enlisted in Husband's Regiment.

Finding her husband's regiment she enlisted in it. She participated in numerous sorties and in the defense of the forts, and, although her sex was soon discovered her record for bravery, tirelessness, and attention to the wounded, and the excellent moral influence she exerted over the soldiers, who never swore in her presence, won her permission to remain in the ranks.

While fighting side by side with her husband the latter was wounded. His wife nursed him until the crisis in his case was passed, when she returned to the front, where she became the messenger to Capt. Gouzakofsky of the Thirteenth regiment. In the performance of her duties as messenger she was often seen riding fearlessly from one position to another, seemingly unaffected by the bursting of shells or the din of battle.

Killed by a Jap Shell.

On Oct. 16 she visited the trenches with dispatches, when huge shells from the Japanese guns struck and destroyed the Russian position. Haritena Korotkiewitch and eight others were instantly killed. They were buried in one grave, with the Russian flag wrapped around Haritena's body.

The Novi Kral concludes its story by saying: "Haritena Korotkiewitch had won the respect and admiration not only of the soldiers but of the higher officers and had shown all how to die nobly."

GOES TO JOIN BALTIC FLEET.

Second Division of the Russian Second Pacific Squadron Sails from Libau.

LIBAU, Russia, Nov. 16.—The second division of the Russian second Pacific squadron sailed today. It consists of the cruisers Oleg and Izumrud, the auxiliary cruisers Kuban, Terek, and Orel, the cruisers Rion and Dnieper (formerly the St. Petersburg and Smolensk), and the torpedo boat destroyers Liany, Rezity, Gromki, Grozny, and Prozorlivy. The division is expected to overtake Rear Admiral Voelkersam's division by way of the Suez canal.

Free Way Through Canal.

SUEZ, Nov. 16.—The governor has summoned a meeting of the consuls and has asked them to inform shipping agents that during the passage through the canal of the ships of the Russian second Pacific squadron all vessels proceeding northwards will be stopped, allowing the Russian warships free passage, and that all vessels must stringently be ordered to refrain from throwing anything in the canal while the warships are passing, and from engaging in demonstrations of any sort.

MIDDY SINKS A JAP DESTROYER.

Daring Exploit of a Russian Naval Cadet Off Port Arthur Costs Mikado a Warship.

CHEFOO, Nov. 16.—The Port Arthur newspaper, Novi Kral, of Nov. 11, copies of which were brought to Chefoo this morning by the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Rastoropny, prints brief details of a daring exploit which resulted in the sinking of a four funneled Japanese torpedo boat destroyer.

Securing a steam launch from the battleship Retvisan, one carrying a torpedo tube and accompanied by half a dozen volunteers, Midshipman Dimitrieff in the darkness slipped out of the harbor and succeeded in evading the Japanese searchlights.

Circling around the Japanese boats, with the launch moving at top speed, the midshipman came within striking distance from the seaward side and launched his projectile. It sped through to the destroyer. There was a sudden explosion and the destroyer sank.

WILL RUSSIA REJECT TREATY?

London Dispatches from St. Petersburg Say Agreement Over North Sea Affair Will Be Repudiated.

LONDON, Nov. 17, 3 a. m.—The Daily Telegraph's St. Petersburg correspondent, who, throughout, has taken alarmist views regarding the outcome of the North sea dispute, in a telegram printed this morning asserts that the admiralty has gained an ascendency which compels the foreign office to repudiate its agreement with Great Britain.

The correspondent adds that Count Benkendorff, the Russian ambassador to Great Britain, will be made the scapegoat and probably will be recalled.

Meantime, he adds, the negotiations are at a standstill and the matter will be referred to the emperor.

END OF THE INQUIRY AT HULL.

Witnesses Repeat Declaration That There Were No Strange Vessels in the Trawler Fleet.

HULL, England, Nov. 16.—On the resumption and completion of the board of trade inquiry into the North sea incident today, the witnesses merely corroborated the evidence already known.

Dr. Woodhouse, counsel for Russia, elicited from one witness that the Russian warships whose searchlights were turned on the trawlers did not fire.

All the witnesses reiterated emphatic denials that any strange vessels were among the fleet or anything that could be mistaken for torpedo boats.

JAPAN COMPLAINS TO FRANCE.

Alleged Violation of Neutrality in Favors Shown to Russian Fleet Is Made Basis for Protest.

TOKIO, Nov. 16.—The negotiations between Tokio and Paris concerning the alleged violation of neutrality by France in permitting ships of the Russian second Pacific squadron to use French harbors continue. Pending their conclusion the Japanese government is silent.

WAR IN YANGTSE VALLEY.

CHINESE REVOLT AND CAPTURE FIVE PRINCIPAL TOWNS.

Imperial Troops Defeated in Province of Kwangsi and Merchants and Bankers Take to Flight—Newly Appointed Viceroy Ordered to Proceed Immediately to His Post and Take Measures to Check the Rebellion, Which Excites Alarm in Peking.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 16.—The rebels have repulsed the imperial troops at Liuchowenu, in the province of Kwangsi, southern China. They have captured Yuenhsien, Tienhsien, Lochengshien, Hualyenhsien, and Liuchan, five of the principal towns in the province. The merchants and bankers fled from the towns.

Chou Fu, former governor of the province of Shantung, who was recently appointed viceroy at Nanking, has been ordered to proceed immediately to his post and to take measures to check the rebels in the Yangtse valley.

A dispatch from Shanghai, Oct. 13, reported a three days' fight between Chinese troops and rebels at Lochengshien, one of the towns mentioned in the foregoing cablegram, in which a large body of the latter was defeated.

AFGHANS FIGHT THE RUSSIANS?

Rumor at Moscow of an Attack on the Arsenal at Kushk—Two Places of That Name.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—A dispatch to the Pall Mall Gazette from Moscow says a telegram received there from Baku announces that trouble has occurred between Russians and Afghans at Kushk. The Afghans, it is added, exploded a Russian magazine and many soldiers were killed.

There are two Kushks, one situated a dozen miles inside the Afghanistan frontier, and the other in Russian Turkestan, close to the Afghan frontier. The latter presumably is the place referred to. The British foreign office has heard of no trouble at Kushk, Afghanistan.

Not Credited at St. Petersburg.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 16.—The war office here utterly discredits the report of trouble between Afghans and Russians at Kushk. There is direct telegraphic communications with Kushk, and no report of trouble there has been received. It is explained that the magazine is inside the fortress and that it is inconceivable that the Afghans could have entered and exploded it.

LORD MINTO LEAVES CANADA.

Former Governor General and Wife Are Given Hearty Testimonial by Citizens of Ottawa.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Thousands of citizens of the Canadian capital turned out this afternoon to say farewell to the earl of Minto, whose term as governor general of Canada has just closed, and to the countess of Minto.

Cartier square was alive with military and citizens as their excellencies arrived at the armory to receive the civic farewell. Representatives of church and state, the fashion and beauty of Ottawa, crowded the building while the mayor read an address.

Lord Minto in replying made a veiled reference to the Alaskan question. Lady Minto was presented with a handsome brooch, maple leaf design, set with 150 diamonds. The vice regal party, with a mounted escort, proceeded through the main streets to the central station, where amid the firing of cannon, the hurrahs and handkerchief waving of thousands their excellencies bade good-by to Ottawa.

KAISER SEEMS IN GOOD HEALTH.

Rumors of Recurrence of Throat Trouble Not Believed in View of His Recent Activity.

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—The rumors of a recurrence of Emperor William's throat malady and the necessity for another operation are received with the greatest incredulity. The emperor's daily course of life is such as to almost in itself give the lie to the report.

A competent medical authority close to his majesty affirms that the emperor is in the best of health. Today, a wet and raw day, the emperor took a long ride in an automobile, and last Saturday, in similar weather, he delivered a speech to soldiers who were joining the colors which would have been highly injudicious were his throat weak. Mists are so customary at his majesty's constant appearance at open air functions that this climatic condition has won the name of "kaiser wetter."

Only last week the emperor participated in a wild boar hunt and killed fifty-four swine.

LADY CURZON IS GRATEFUL.

Conveys Thanks to Those Throughout the World Who Helped Her in Her Illness with Their Good Wishes.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Lady Curzon, wife of the viceroy of India, asks the newspapers to convey her thanks to those of Great Britain, India, America, and elsewhere in the world who helped her so much in her terrible illness with their good wishes and prayers. Lady Curzon is recovering. She will move to Highcliffe castle, Christchurch, on Nov. 20, where she will pass the winter. Lord Curzon will start for India Nov. 24.

NOTES FROM FOREIGN LANDS.

ST. JOHNS, N. F.—The lifeboat Urad from Aalesund, Norway, which sailed Aug. 7 bound for St. Johns and New York, and thence for St. Louis, with its designer, Capt. Brude, and three others aboard, has arrived here. It was three months and nine days in crossing the Atlantic. The boat was built to compete for the prize for the best lifeboat at the St. Louis fair.

BUDA-PESTH, HUNGARY—Count Albert Apponyi in the diet interpellated Premier Tisza regarding the attitude of the government towards President Roosevelt's proposal to hold another peace conference at The Hague. Premier Tisza said that any endeavor to lessen the horrors of war would be supported. This was loudly cheered.

ST. JOHNS, N. F.—Henry M. Whitney of Boston, president of the Newfoundland Timber Estates company, has transferred to Sir Alfred Harmsworth and brothers, the London publishers, lumber areas in this island, for $500,000. The Harmsworths will spend $2,000,000 next year in erecting pulp mills.

SALONICA—A battalion of troops from Albania has been ordered to proceed in haste to Vodina (forty-six miles northwest of Salonica), where serious disorders are reported.

RIO JANEIRO—Both houses of congress have adopted resolutions declaring that a state of siege will exist at Rio Janeiro and neighborhood for thirty days.

DENY FLAGLER WEDDING SEQUEL

Officers of Louisville, Ky., Church Declare Marriage of Millionaire Not Cause of Pastor's Resignation.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The officers of the Warren Memorial Presbyterian church at a meeting tonight gave denial to the report that the resignation of Dr. Peyton H. Hoge as pastor was a result of his having officiated at the marriage of Henry M. Flagler, millionaire railroad man, several years ago, while his wife was in a sanitarium.

INDIANS ARE FACING DEATH.

Drought Causes Suffering of Tribes in Campora Reservation, Near San Diego, Cal.

San Diego, Cal., Nov. 16.—"Unless relief comes the Indians of the Campora reservation will be dead before New Year's day," said Charles F. Loomis, the author, who has spent a week at the reservation. Drought is the cause of their suffering.

KINGS BANQUET IN ROYAL WINDSOR

Edward VII. Gives Notable Dinner in Honor of Portugal's Visiting Ruler.

AMERICAN ENVOY THERE.

Monarchs Celebrate Signing of Treaty of Arbitration by Pledges of Good Will.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The state banquet at Windsor castle tonight, in honor of King Charles and Queen Amelie of Portugal, equaled in brilliancy the previous magnificent functions at which European rulers have been the guests of Great Britain's reigning monarchs in the historic St. George's hall.

The guests, numbering 166, included members of the royal family, foreign representatives at the court of St. James, cabinet ministers, leaders of the opposition, military and naval officials, and others prominent in the highest circles of Great Britain.

The banquet was served on one long table. King Edward sat the center, with Queen Amelie at his right, and further to the right were the prince of Wales, the duchess of Argyle, Paul Cambon, the French ambassador; the duchess of Connaught, Count Wolff-Matternich, the German ambassador, and Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein.

American Ambassador There.

On King Edward's left were Prince Arthur of Connaught, Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, Ambassador Choate, Prince Louis of Battenberg, Masurus Pasha, the Turkish ambassador, and Princess Louise Augusta of Schleswig-Holstein.

King Charles, with Queen Alexandra at his left, sat opposite King Edward. At King Charles' right were Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, the princess of Wales, Duke de Mandas, the Spanish ambassador; Princess Margaret of Connaught, Princess Beatrice of Battenberg, and the duchess of Portland.

At the left of Queen Alexandra were the duchess of Connaught, Princess Victoria of Wales, Sig. Panza, the Italian ambassador, and Princess Victoria Patricia.

Masses of Gold Plate.

At either end of the hall great masses of celebrated gold plate were piled under hundreds of electric lights, and the guests formed an avenue of the most brilliant coloring, flashing and sparkling with fabulous wealth of jewels. The music by the band of the Irish Guards included Portuguese selections.

There were only two speeches. That of King Edward toasting King Charles was followed by the playing of the Portuguese anthem, and the British anthem was played when King Charles had responded with a toast to King Edward.

King Edward's Speech.

King Edward in a felicitous speech expressed his own and the queen's thanks and gratification for the visit, recalling the hearty welcome he himself had received at Lisbon last year.

"I am glad to think," he said, "that the feeling between our two countries is of the most amicable kind. It dates back a long period, nearly 700 years ago, when the first treaty between Portugal and England was made in the reign of Edward I. About 100 years later a treaty was made at Windsor, and I am glad to think that this day a treaty of arbitration has been signed here. Long may the good feeling continue which now exists. Long may we work together for the cause of humanity and for the maintenance of peace."

Royal Guest's Reply.

The company then drank to the healths of the royal guests, after which the king of Portugal said:

"I am profoundly touched by your majesty's speech. I thank your majesty in my own name and in that of my queen for your most cordial and hearty reception, which we most sincerely appreciate. The words you spoke at Lisbon, which now have become historic, have touched the hearts of all my subjects.

"Our alliance, as your majesty has justly said, is of ancient date, and I am happy to say your majesty will always find the same loyalty and the same class of men as those who, in former times, shed their blood side by side with Englishmen."

After the dinner presentations were made to King Charles and Queen Amelie, in the reception hall in the following order: First, diplomatic corps; second, members of the British government; third, members of the late administration.

The feature of the entertainment of the king and queen of Portugal tomorrow will be a visit to London, a procession through the city and luncheon at the guildhall.

WYOMING POSSE CAPTURES SUSPECTED BANK ROBBER.

Find Booty of Gambling House Raid and May Identify Him with the Cody Crime.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 16. — [Special.]—A Thermopolis posse this evening captured one of the Cody-Thermopolis robbers, near the mouth of Owl creek, in the bad lands, six miles below Thermopolis. On the bandit was found a quantity of the money, jewelry, and guns stolen yesterday morning in the raid on the Edwards gambling house at Thermopolis. The outlaw says he had no accomplices.

The desperado answers the description of the taller of the two bandits that entered the Cody bank two weeks ago and killed Cashier Middaugh.

Several citizens are hurrying from Cody to identify the prisoner. Should he prove to be the right man it is predicted he never will reach the county seat alive. Posses are searching the Big Horn valley for others of the bandits.

MUST FIGHT AGAIN FOR LAND.

Wisconsin Law Calls for Two Trials to Prove Jones Island Ownership.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Although the Supreme court decided the Xavier Jeka ejectment suit in favor of Jeka, a squatter, the question of the proprietorship of Jones Island homestead may not yet be settled finally, after six years in court. There will be further proceedings in the case.

Under the statute, the case can be tried over again. The statute provides that in all actions for ejectment in which real estate is involved either party is entitled to two trials as a matter of right, provided that application is made within a year after the judgment is rendered.

The steel company is now preparing for a new trial.

DIES MARTYR TO HIS CAUSE.

Italian Commissioner Sent to Mexico to Study Yellow Fever Falls a Victim.

City of Mexico, Nov. 16.—Information has been received here that Dr. Sealdo Chias has died at Merla of yellow fever. He was commissioned to study that disease by the Italian government and died a martyr to his country.

ST. LOUIS GIVEN A SHAKE.

Blowing Up of Sixteen Manholes Simultaneously Causes House to Rock and Persons to Fall to Ground.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The simultaneous blowing up of sixteen manholes in the South Broadway district today caused explosions like the reports of great guns, rocked houses as by an earthquake, and threw women and children to the ground.

3 DEAD, 9 HURT IN WRECK

CHICAGOANS VICTIMS OF COLLISION ON PERE MARQUETTE.

Two Passenger Trains in Smashup on "Y" at Elmdale—Failure to Throw a Switch at Junction Results in Fatal Accident—Most of Casualties in Parlor Car of Saginaw Train, Which Is Crushed by Locomotive of Detroit Train.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 16.—Three persons were killed and nine passengers and trainmen were injured in a rear end passenger train collision tonight at Elmdale, on the Père Marquette railroad. Some of the victims are Chicagoans.

The Dead.

SIMONS, M., 315 Seventy-ninth street, New York City.
STRELITZKEY, J. L., 4839 Champlain avenue, Chicago.
UNIDENTIFIED BODY, thought to be that of porter.

The Injured.

Botsford, baggageman, slightly injured.
—, Charles, Cuba, N. Y., cuts and burns.
Deneen, —, Grand Rapids, slightly injured.
Lanchis, B. A., Bay City, Mich., burns; not serious.
Lee, Allen, 1633 Marquette street, Chicago, slightly injured.
Pickett, C. L., Boston, scalded knee.
Savoye, R. C., 183 South Union street, Grand Rapids, Mich., burns and leg fractured.
Smith, J. L., 131 Washington street, Grand Rapids, cuts and burns; not serious.
Watkins, express messenger, slightly injured.

Collision on a "Y."

The collision occurred twenty-two miles east of Grand Rapids. Both trains were east bound, No. 6 for Detroit and No. 34 for Saginaw. The Saginaw train had preceded the Detroit train out of Grand Rapids by a few minutes and was standing on a "Y" at Elmdale, where the Saginaw division branches off from the Detroit division. Through some mistake the switch was not turned behind the Saginaw train and the Detroit train also ran upon the "Y," the engine of the Detroit train crashing into the rear of the parlor car of the Saginaw train.

The passengers injured were in the parlor car of the latter, and the trainmen who were hurt were on the Detroit train. The Père Marquette officials at Detroit state that the Detroit train was running slowly, as it was approaching a station.

No Explanation as to Blame.

No explanation has been made as to where the responsibility lies for failure to throw the switch behind the Saginaw train when it had turned from the Detroit division. Ordinarily there is twenty minutes time between the two trains, but tonight the Saginaw train was held at Grand Rapids to wait for passengers from a train on the Chicago division. Through this arrangement the Detroit train was following close behind the Saginaw train as far as Elmdale.

RESCUED IN OPEN SEA AFTER PERIL IN THE GALE.

Eight Sailors Cling to Mast of a Half Sunken Vessel During Sunday's Hurricane.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 16.—After having been lashed to a mast for over twenty-four hours and with hope of being rescued almost abandoned Capt. Fisher and crew of seven men of the brig C. C. Sweaney were taken from their perilous position Tuesday afternoon by the steamer Hawaiian, from Hololulu, for this port.

The brig left Charleston early last week for Philadelphia with a cargo of lumber, and encountered the southern hurricane on Sunday off the Virginia coast and broke in two, but did not sink.

Four Lost Off Carolina Coast.

Washington, N. C., Nov. 16.—Capt. Charles Williams and three others left here on Saturday on the schooner Missouri for their home in Hyde county. Stormbound at Indian Head, they anchored off the shore, but after dinner on Sunday the wind blew them from their anchorage, and the boat was capsized and all on board drowned.

Drowned on Maine Coast.

Machias, Me., Nov. 16.—That three residents of Rogue Bluffs lost their lives in the storm Sunday night seemed certain today when an auxiliary fishing schooner was found sunken in six fathoms of water near Spruce Island, five miles from Rogue Bluffs.

Rescued from a House Boat.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 16.—Capt. Jack Bensten of the Norfolk tug Grit, arriving here today from Pimlico sound, reports the rescue by his tug of Capt. Hutchins and Mrs. Hutchins from the houseboat Drift Lodge on Saddle harbor shoals in the sound Sunday. Capt. Hutchins is a Washington newspaper man.

Thirteen Saved, One Drowned.

Portland, Me., Nov. 17.—The Boston fishing schooner Brigham was run down and sunk by a tug last night. Of the crew of fourteen on board all but one were saved.

W. C. P. BRECKINRIDGE IS STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS.

Former Kentucky Congressman in Serious Condition, Although Reported Slightly Improved—Unable to Speak.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge, who was congressman from the Ashland district for ten years, and who is one of the best known orators and lawyers in the south, was stricken with paralysis at his law office this morning, and is seriously ill.

Several weeks ago, while in Marquette, Mich., trying a law case, Col. Breckinridge contracted a severe cold, and upon his return to Lexington suffered the second attack of illness of his life. He had not recovered fully from that illness.

While seated at his desk today he was stricken, but succeeded in getting to the telephone and summoning his son, Desha Breckinridge, publisher of the Lexington Herald, and physicians. They worked over Col. Breckinridge in his office for several hours, after which he was removed in an ambulance to his residence. Tonight he is slightly improved, though he is not yet able to speak.

FAIRBANKS LEAVES THE FAIR.

Vice President-Elect Speeds Departure of Liberty Bell and Makes Final Rounds of Exhibits.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 16.—Vice President-elect Charles W. Fairbanks, on his second day at the world's fair, visited several exhibit palaces and attended the farewell exercises for the liberty bell at the Pennsylvania state pavilion, where he made a short address, and then, with President Francis of the exposition and the Hon. Joseph Cannon, speaker of the house of representatives, he rode to the Philippine reservation. At the Igorrote village the visitors were entertained by two of the native boys, who sang "America" and "My Old Kentucky Home."

Mayor Weaver of Philadelphia, Mayor Wells of St. Louis, and Speaker Cannon were among others who made addresses prior to the departure of the bell on its return to Philadelphia. The Philippine constabulary acted as guard for the relic on the way to the transportation palace, and forty councilmen of the Pennsylvania city accompanied it on the train, which will make twenty stops en route for the benefit of the school children.

Mr. Fairbanks left the St. Louis Union station at noon for Indianapolis.

Suit for Alleged False Arrest.

Charges of false arrest are made in connection with a suit for $25,000 damages, begun in the Circuit court yesterday by David O. Gallear, proprietor of the Lincoln Park livery, Clark street and Webster avenue, against Burton D. Nichols, a real estate agent. Nichols caused Gallear's arrest on a charge of obtaining money by false pretenses.

HANECY CAN FREE O'DONNELL TODAY.

Judge Grants Habeas Corpus as Jury Bribing Charge Was Going to Trial.

TAKES IT FROM CHETLAIN

Attorneys for State Call Proceeding Trick and Bond Is Forfeited.

Patrick H. O'Donnell, former public administrator, and already once convicted of bribing a jury, may go scot free today. Judge Hanecy may release him on a writ of habeas corpus.

O'Donnell sought yesterday to evade a new trial on the jury bribing charges by securing the writ from Judge Hanecy just at the moment when his case was being called in the criminal court before Judge Chetlain.

Judge Hanecy at once issued the writ, returnable for hearing this morning at 10 o'clock. If the decision is favorable to O'Donnell the process will release him from liability to punishment.

Same Plea Once Overruled.

The Cook county Appellate court reversed the judgment of the lower court on the first conviction, which had assessed a fine of $2,000, and the case was remanded for a new trial. Then O'Donnell and his attorney sought to secure a quashing of the indictment before Judge Brentano on the same grounds on which they have now gone before Judge Hanecy for the writ of habeas corpus. Judge Brentano, after denouncing the petitioners for "not coming into his court with clean hands," overruled the motion to quash the indictment, and the case was set for trial.

Then, yesterday, speedily followed the effort of the defendant, O'Donnell, to avoid trial at the last moment. The manner of his doing it so aroused the indignation of Assistant State's Attorney Barnes, who was waiting in Judge Chetlain's court for O'Donnell to appear, that he openly charged him with employing subterfuge in order to trick the court. Mr. Barnes and State's Attorney Deneen spent several hours together last night trying to build up an argument to prevent the indicted man from gaining his release in this way.

John Goes and Does Likewise.

Following his brother's lead, John O'Donnell, involved in the same jury bribing case, surrendered himself late in the afternoon to the sheriff and then secured his release on a writ of habeas corpus issued by Judge Honore.

The same petition which his brother used served John O'Donnell, and the same bondsmen gave bonds for the same amount. The difference is that the Supreme court has ruled against John O'Donnell, confirming the judgment of the Criminal court imposing a fine of $500 for conspiracy in the jury bribing case.

John O'Donnell has been a fugitive for the last two weeks, and a capias for his arrest has been in the hands of the sheriff. It was not served until he voluntarily surrendered himself yesterday afternoon.

"Pat" O'Donnell's Efforts Traced.

When "Pat" O'Donnell's case was called by Judge Chetlain at the opening of court Daniel Donahue, one of his attorneys, declared that, although they were ready for trial, O'Donnell himself was not in court because he had not expected to have the case called so soon, and pleaded for a short time in which to find his client. Not a word was said about the proceedings which at that moment were being heard by Judge Hanecy. Judge Chetlain acquiesced, and allowed ten minutes for O'Donnell to appear.

In the meantime O'Donnell and his other attorneys, Howard O. Sprogle and James Hartnett, were presenting their petition for the writ of habeas corpus to Judge Hanecy, and secured a writ, returnable this morning at 10 o'clock.

Plea to Judge Hanecy.

The petition presented to Judge Hanecy charges that this case has been continued from term to term on illegal and insufficient showing, and further charges that the indictment was secured on the perjured testimony of Homer Michaels. It was against this same showing that Judge Brentano several weeks ago overruled the motion to quash the indictment.

While waiting in Judge Chetlain's court for the ten minutes of delay to elapse State's Attorney Barnes obtained information of what was going on before Judge Hanecy on the south side, and he hurried before the Criminal court and asked that O'Donnell's bonds be forfeited. The bonds were for $5,000 and were signed by Andrew J. Toolen and Edward T. Lavin. More than ten minutes had elapsed, and Judge Chetlain ordered the clerk to call the case and produce the bond that it might be forfeited. The bond could not be found. While the clerks were busy rummaging through papers trying to locate the missing instrument Donahue reappeared in court and made the official announcement that the habeas corpus writ had been granted.

Attorney Announces New Move.

"I wish to inform the court that my client is in the hands of the sheriff," he said, and added that he had just received this information over the telephone.

Immediately Mr. Barnes demanded to know how this surrender had been effected.

"A writ of habeas corpus would not surrender the defendant to the custody of the sheriff," he declared. "I insist this court has the right to know just how this surrender has been accomplished."

Barnes Calls It Trickery.

Proof not being furnished by Donahoe, Mr. Barnes continued addressing the court.

"O'Donnell has made no attempt to appear in this court, although he knew the trial was about to begin. His counsel was notified in the regular way yesterday, and Attorney Donahoe appears here in his behalf. Now it develops that trickery has been resorted to and this court is being imposed on. Mean, underhanded work is being done to take this matter from the jurisdiction of this court. While counsel was in court his client was downtown or in some other part of the city, prepared to surrender himself and thus balk trial in this court. It is simply a trick.

"It is the most reprehensible thing I ever have seen for a member of the bar so to impose on this court. Attorney Donahoe innocently appears here and asks the court for a few minutes' delay, which your honor graciously grants. It appears now, however, that this request for time was solely for the purpose of assisting him in taking the case from the jurisdiction of this court by extraordinary means."

O'Donnell Appears in Court.

Mr. Barnes declared that unless the defendant was before another judge he should be produced in court or have his bonds forfeited. Judge Chetlain agreed with counsel for the state in this view, and questioned Attorney Donahoe as to the exact whereabouts of his client. Donahoe replied that he had no personal knowledge of O'Donnell's whereabouts, and Barnes then asked for forfeiture of the bond. At this juncture O'Donnell entered the court, accompanied by Attorneys Sprogle and Hartnett.

O'Donnell and his friends were jubilant over the issuing of the writ, and openly boasted that Judge Hanecy would release the prisoner on the hearing today.

State's Attorney Deneen refused to discuss the action of Judge Hanecy in granting the writ, and said that, while he would combat the freeing of the prisoner, he could not say anything about the case as long as it was in court.

Judge Chetlain's Comment.

Judge Chetlain's comment on the case after adjournment was: "The whole question of whether Judge Hanecy or I have jurisdiction in this O'Donnell case rests on the time that the writ of habeas corpus was issued. If Judge Hanecy signed the writ before 10 o'clock I have no jurisdiction, but if it was after 10 o'clock, then I retain jurisdiction, and I shall see to it that this matter is thoroughly investigated tomorrow."

"O'Donnell has been clamoring all along for a trial," said Mr. Barnes. "Now he has waited until the last moment, when he knew the case was coming up and he could have a trial, and, instead, he is now doing everything in his power to avoid arraignment. I will not comment upon the action of Judge Hanecy, but I will say that, whatever the outcome, Mr. O'Donnell is not in an enviable position before the public, practically admitting, as he has, that he is afraid to stand trial upon the charges, although he has been so loudly maintaining his innocence."

Protest Against Bond Forfeiture.

After O'Donnell's appearance in Judge Chetlain's court he and his attorneys protested against the forfeiture of his bonds. In order to secure his release from the custody of the sheriff under the habeas corpus writ he had been obliged to furnish another bond of $5,000 signed by John Galligan and Francis E. Croarkin. The objection raised before Judge Chetlain was that O'Donnell was in the custody of the sheriff before his case was called in the Criminal court, and they denied that Judge Chetlain had jurisdiction. This defense again aroused the ire of Attorney Barnes, and he arose once more to condemn both O'Donnell and his attorneys.

"I will inform the court that this man O'Donnell has been loudly demanding trial, and yet each time that the case has been called in court he has secured a delay by subterfuge. I hurl back into his face and the faces of his counsel that trickery has been used to avoid trial."

A delay was asked until 2 o'clock that the law on the point whether the court had lost jurisdiction might be looked up. Later, by agreement, and because Mr. Barnes informed the court that he had been unable to find a law bearing upon this particular point, it was decided that the case should remain on the call until after the habeas corpus proceeding had been disposed of.

Attorney Hartnett, for the defense, accused the lawyers for the state of trying to send O'Donnell to the penitentiary on perjured testimony, to which Mr. Barnes promptly replied:

"I denounce that statement as an absolute falsehood, which has been promiscuously circulated by the defendant, and already thrashed out before this court."

Although he asked many questions concerning the time that Judge Hanecy had granted the writ, and the time O'Donnell had surrendered himself to the sheriff, Judge Chetlain was unable to determine the matter to his own satisfaction. Mr. Barnes was insistent that Sheriff Barrett should be summoned into court to testify, but it was finally decided to leave the whole matter in abeyance, pending the hearing before Judge Hanecy.

John O'Donnell Tries Same Plan.

As soon as the P. H. O'Donnell matter had been disposed of, Mr. Barnes went before Judge McEwen and asked for the surrender of the bonds of John O'Donnell, his brother. These bonds were also for $5,000, and were signed by Andrew J. Graham and John Gallagher. The Supreme court has ruled against John O'Donnell, and it sent the mandate to the court below two weeks ago. O'Donnell has failed to surrender himself to the sheriff, and a capias was issued for his arrest. As there was no defense, the court ordered that the bonds be forfeited.

Late in the afternoon John O'Donnell surrendered himself to the sheriff, and immediately afterwards went before Judge Honore, who on a petition exactly similar to that presented to Judge Hanecy in his brother's case, issued a writ of habeas corpus. The same two men who signed his brother's bond, signed that for John O'Donnell, and he walked out of the sheriff's office.

History of the Case.

Patrick O'Donnell was indicted in April, 1902, on five counts on which he was held on charges of conspiracy with William J. Gallagher, John O'Donnell, James T. Brady, Hammond T. Lawrence, Herbert Rothery, and Cyrus Simon. The indictment charges that O'Donnell "fraudulently, maliciously, and wickedly conspired" with Walter C. Jones, Homer Michaels, Clark Loife, and William F. Sheridan to bribe a jury before Justice George H. Woods on April 14, 1902, in a case against the Union Traction company. He was convicted and fined $2,000, but, as stated, the Appellate court reversed the judgment and remanded the case.

The investigation of the office of State's Attorney Deneen, which P. H. O'Donnell instigated before Judge Carter, was continued yesterday by agreement for an indefinite time.

MISS PECK SETS RECORD.

CHICAGO MOUNTAIN CLIMBER REACHES HIGHEST MARKS.

Returns from South America After Ascending Nearly to Top of 25,000 Foot Peak of Sorata and Other Heights Never Before Attained by Man—Has Narrow Escape from Death in Crevasse Through Fright of Male Companion.

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Miss Annie S. Peck, the mountain climber, arrived today from Colon on the Panama railroad company's steamship Advance. Her face was bronzed and she had the bearing of an athlete after an experience of five months among the South American peaks. Among Miss Peck's feats was the ascent of Sorata, the Bolivian mountain whose height is variously estimated at from 20,000 to 25,000 feet.

Miss Peck, who is a Chicago girl, said she did not reach the summit of either peak, but that she got within 600 or 800 feet of the top of Sorata, which, from Sir Martin Conway's description, is a greater height than that attained by Sir Martin, and therefore is a new record. Miss Peck went 19,000 feet up the east slope of Huascaran and 18,000 feet up the west side, which excels the best previous marks on both sides by at least 1,000 feet. The daring climber is greatly pleased at her success and also is enthusiastic over the scenery, people, and things of interest which she saw in South America.

Men Balk at Danger.

Although Miss Peck was on Sorata for five days in August she thinks she might have reached the summit had not the men of her party refused to go higher on account of the danger. At the height they reached they were obliged to climb icy slopes. Once Miss Peck found herself at the brink of a dangerous crevasse and the man who should have been attached to the other end of the rope was so frightened for his own safety that he let go, leaving Miss Peck without a safeguard. In this climb the party spent the nights in tents. The temperature was at the highest altitude they reached was 20° below zero.

Miss Peck had intended to climb the Bolivian volcano Sehama, but on account of its uninteresting surroundings and her lack of time she went back to Perus for the ascent of Huascaran. From Lima she went over the range of the black Cordelleras into the Huaylas valley to Yungay, at the foot of the mountain, which she reached early in October. The scenery in this valley, Miss Peck said, is the most beautiful she ever has seen in all her travels about the globe.

Encounters Many Difficulties.

The ascent of Huascaran was more difficult than that of Sorata, because it is steeper and involved some most difficult snow climbing. Her difficulties were increased by the fact that the rainy season had just set in. At the Labyrinth crevasses the men again refused to go higher, and Miss Peck agreed with them that to proceed farther would be recklessly dangerous.

MRS. CHAPMAN TELLS COURT HER HUSBAND DECEIVED HER.

Aurora Business Man Is Declared by Wife to Have Obtained Control of Income and Misbehaved.

Mrs. Helen Leet Chapman testified yesterday in Judge Windes' court in her suit for divorce from Matthew Thomas Chapman, the Aurora business man. She said she had been married four years ago because she believed her husband would be a companion for her old age. She declared she loved and trusted him, but he deceived her and obtained control of her $1,000 a month income. She also suspected him of being untrue.

After Mrs. Chapman had told of lending her husband money while they were on their wedding trip she related how she had suspected Abbie Esser, her maid, of impropriety. Chapman, she asserted, also had been too friendly with two of his nieces, Edna and Jessie Chapman, who reside in Fox street, Aurora. He told her his visits were only to keep "saloon bums" away from the young women.

Harry Griffin, a detective, told of following Chapman and of a seven mile chase after a buggy containing the Aurora man and Miss Jessie Damon. He said he was kept busy. One of his assistants testified, and an adjournment was taken until today.

Mrs. Anna Elch Again in Court.—Mrs. Anna Elch, whose separate maintenance suit against Nicholas Eich, 252 Wells street, several weeks ago, ended with the declaration by the court that she had been married to the man for his wealth, now seeks an absolute divorce. SPRINGER IS TO LOSE MORE.

Judge Kavanagh Orders Sale of Property at 214 South Clinton Street to Satisfy Creditors.

Another piece of Warren Springer's property was ordered sold by Judge Kavanagh yesterday in connection with the litigation brought by creditors. Upon report of Master in Chancery Victor Elting in the case of John J. Townsend, as trustee for Catharine R. Townsend, finding $1,015 due from Springer and other defendants, the property at 214 South Clinton street is to be disposed of.

In the testimony before Master Elting, according to the report, when Mr. Springer was asked regarding the valuation of the property in controversy he replied:

"Well, if the railroad company wants it it is worth a great deal."

A quitclaim deed from Thomas B. Brougham to the Chicago Title and Trust company to the property at 171-173 Canal street, for a nominal consideration, was filed for record during the day. The property is a part of Springer's holdings and was conveyed by him to Mr. Brougham a few weeks ago in connection with the negotiations for the sale of Springer's properties.

The transfer to the trust company is another step in the same direction.

SAYS CANAL WILL HELP TRADE.

Clinton B. Evans Addresses Credit Men on Results of Panama Waterway.

The benefits Chicago will reap from the opening of the Panama canal were told last night by Clinton B. Evans at a banquet given by the Chicago Credit Men's association at Kinsley's.

"Chicago has a large export trade with the far east," said Mr. Evans. "With the cheapening of transportation traffic following the opening of the Panama canal we have reason to expect greater increase in commerce than was made by the Sues canal in the commerce of its neighboring countries. Chicago banks will profit by handling much more money."

Albert N. Eastman urged the remodeling of the exemption laws in order that all states may be on the same basis.

COAL BILL CAUSES SHOOTING.

TO FORCE TRACTION ISSUE

JUDGE GROSSCUP GOES EAST WITH AN ULTIMATUM.

Tires of Waiting for the New Yorkers to Reach Decision Regarding Purchase of the Chicago City Railway Company—Plans to Have a Plain Talk and Bring About a Settlement in Some Manner—Insists on Unification.

Judge Peter S. Grosscup went to New York yesterday to have a plain talk with the owners of the Union Traction company. He took with him John S. Miller, special counsel in the traction cases, and Marshall P. Sampsell, his personal representative among the Union Traction receivers. He intends to tell the eastern financiers they must "fish or cut bait."

If the easterners do not show at once an ability to take over the Chicago City property so he can treat with the city for franchise renewals on the basis of a unified system, then the Judge will seek negotiations for a settlement of the Union Traction lines alone. He is not going to wait longer.

The judge said he was "tired of this patience exhausting delay." He had been told, as had all Chicago, that the Union Traction company was going to absorb the Chicago City, and with all the street car systems of Chicago under one control an ideal settlement with the city would be possible. He listened to this talk and delayed action until he began to doubt.

Judge Makes a Statement.

Before going east Judge Grosscup made this statement for publication:

I have felt all along that a final settlement of the traction question on any basis other than a complete unification of the street railway lines would be inadequate. This also is the view of the city authorities having the matter in charge. Chiefly for this reason negotiations with the city have been held off, but although movements toward unification have from time to time been announced, one hitch after another has occurred until patience is nearly exhausted.

The parties understood to have this matter in hand are nearly all now in New York. They have not requested my presence, but I am going down to tell them in person that the court will not wait longer—that if negotiations with the city are not to proceed on the basis of a unified system for the whole city we will see what can be done in the way of proceeding on the basis of the Union Traction lines separately.

Would Leave Details to Others.

Judge Grosscup admitted that he had formed no definite plan of unification, but was willing to leave the details to others.

"It is not my place to formulate a plan as between the companies," he said, "either as regards ownership or operation. It must come from the men who own the property and are prepared to put in the new $20,000,000 or $30,000,000."

Hears the Truth from Govin.

As told in THE TRIBUNE yesterday, the court finally summoned R. R. Govin to Chicago and put the question to him squarely.

"What are the chances of your acquiring the Chicago City?" Mr. Govin told the judge the truth. He said the chances were not good. The New Yorkers had not yet given up the project, but they had small faith in its being worked out. It did not promise well.

Then Judge Grosscup laid down the rule. He said that if the easterners could show a reasonable chance of getting hold of the south side property he would wait a reasonable time, although in his opinion this meant a short time. If not, then he would go ahead and open negotiations with the city for Union Traction alone. That the easterners did not want this done was no news to the judge.

The judge had a report from John C. Fetzer, the managing receiver of the Union Traction, after the latter came back from New York, where he went to get the money to pay for the new cars ordered to improve the Union Traction service. The purchase had been opposed by the easterners on the ground they would add to the obligations of the company and by the underlying corporations because they would take money needed for rentals. Judge Grosscup held the public had some rights and the cars were a necessity.

Fetzer Has an Experience in East.

Then came the question of getting money to pay for the cars. Under the amended leases these properties were a charge against the Union Traction company, and car trust certificates were issued to pay for them. Somehow or other they could find no market in New York. Finally Judge Grosscup sent Mr. Fetzer there himself to see what could be done about it.

Mr. Fetzer went to New York but did not go near Hollins & Co. or the Guarantee Trust company. He never notified them he was in the city. Instead, he went to the Standard Trust company and there made arrangements for floating the car trust certificates. When it was all done Harry Hollins heard of it. It was late at night, but he hunted up Mr. Fetzer in a hotel and when he found him wanted to know what the receiver had done. He was told, and Mr. Hollins observed: "What are you trying to do?"

"Earn my salary," replied Mr. Fetzer.

Would Make People Desperate.

"You can earn your salary easily enough by leaving things as they are," remonstrated Mr. Hollins. "Our advices from Chicago are that if the present service is only continued long enough the people out of desperation will clamor so loudly for a settlement of the traction question that we can get almost any kind we want. This putting on of new cars is only delaying a settlement. The way for you to earn your salary is to keep quiet and do nothing."

"I am under orders and am doing as I was told," was Mr. Fetzer's reply, and this he reported when he got back. This, among other bits of information, was in Judge Grosscup's mind when he suddenly decided to go to New York. In order to do so he had to ask Judge Kohlsaat to take his place on the bench, and he left much unfinished business behind him.

YERKES ON CITY OWNERSHIP.

Says on Arrival from Europe That Builders of Railroad Lines Are Entitled to Profits.

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—On his arrival today from Europe, Charles T. Yerkes in an interview declared he was opposed strongly to municipal ownership of street railroads. With such an end in view, he said, the builders of Chicago traction lines would not have gone ahead as they did with the development of the various systems. Municipalities, he declared, should not take over such properties without paying market value for them, as well as for the stock issues.

"Private ownership makes good citizens," said Mr. Yerkes. "It is the prospect held out of large gains that prompts men to build railroads, city or national. Those who are to benefit by city ownership of an established railroad should fairly compensate those who made that benefit possible.

"While I am against municipal ownership, I also am against the great inflation of stock carried by big corporations. If certain men take the chance, at a time when a certain city or town is in the infancy of its development, of building a traction system, enlarging it as the growth of the community demands, and putting thousands upon thousands into the venture, I candidly believe those men are entitled to make their money in after years without the fear that within a limited period they will be deprived of the result of their enterprise and see their property taken by the municipality at a ridiculously low figure."

POLICE ARREST ALLEGED GANG.

Capture Nine Men Accused of Being Banded for Robbery on the West Side.

In a raid last evening the Maxwell street police arrested nine men, supposed to be organized for the purpose of picking pockets, burglary, and robbing persons on the street. Lieut. Meagher with a squad of policemen had learned that the men were in the neighborhood of Polk and May streets, and hurried to that corner and arrested them. The prisoners gave the names of Edward Williams, Frank Meyers, John Meade, John Hoppa, Edward Collins, Philip Henneberry, William McCormick, John Dooley, and Harry Kelley.

TRANSFER RULE MAKING TROUBLE

New Order Preventing Union Traction Conductors from Offering Them Is Bane.

MANY FORCED TO WALK.

Haughty Refusals Often Given to Passengers Who Forget to Ask for the Slips.

The "gentle art of obtaining transfers" has been greatly complicated by a recent decree of the Union Traction company forbidding conductors to "offer" passengers the desired slips at the time of paying their fare. As an arbitrary rule of the company already makes this the only opportunity to get a transfer, those who then forget to ask for them have to depend upon the caprice of the conductors to obtain the tickets, which rightfully are theirs by decision of the Supreme court.

Women especially are the victims of the new ruling, as they are considered less liable than men to "make a scene" to gain their rights.

Some Firmly Refuse Transfers.

A trial trip made yesterday over the north and west side lines by a representative of THE TRIBUNE, who studiously neglected to ask for transfers when paying his fares, was productive of a crop of firm refusals, haughty reproofs, and condescending presentations of slips on the part of the street car employes. It should be said, however, that the milk of human kindness in the traction conductors and their natural anxiety to "avoid trouble" went far to nullify the practical effects of the company's stern decree. But even the employes admitted that one ill natured man in charge of a car has it in his power to make traveling disagreeable and expensive for hundreds of daily passengers.

A peculiarly outrageous instance of the working of the new rule was reported to THE TRIBUNE Tuesday night. A woman passenger boarded a south bound Clark street cable car at Lincoln park. Busied with her wraps and parcels, she paid her fare without remembering to demand a transfer. At Schiller street she courteously asked the conductor to give her a slip that would permit her to take the North State street trolley at Division street and save the walk that the Clark street route would make necessary in order to reach State and Indiana streets. The employe refused the request off hand and would listen to no remonstrances. Identical treatment was given a TRIBUNE representative on a Larrabee street trolley yesterday afternoon.

Rule Is Cause of Fights.

"We don't like the new rule," said a Madison street cable conductor, "and most of the boys disobey it. I tried to enforce it during the rush hour Monday evening and I had more fights on my hands than I've had before in eight years' service. Passengers have grown used to having transfers offered them when they pay their fares, and at least a quarter of them forget to ask for the slips until later."

A Halsted street traveler said that the passengers on that line have become so trained to asking for everything that the traction company gives them that the new law produces only occasional rear platform "scraps." Transfer getting is an exact science in Halsted street, anyway. The annoying north and south changes, the frequent crosstown lines, and the diverging cables cause the conductors to carry a bundle of slips that embraces all the colors of the rainbow. Connoisseurs, in paying their fares, obtain the desired transfer by murmuring "purple," blue," or "yellow," as the case may be.

Transfer Etiquette "Boiled Down."

For the benefit of the traveling public a long suffering strap hanger suggested the following rules of transfer etiquette for all who are likely to be deprived of their rights by omitting to ask for tickets when they pay their nickels:

1. Don't try to bully the conductor. It's not his fault and it only makes him mad.
2. Don't say "please" to the conductor or speak as if you were asking a favor of him.
3. Merely ask: "Why didn't you give me that transfer?" and the result will be accomplished.

Conductors are instructed to give the slips to all whose original requests apparently have been neglected.

Fear "Wasting" of Slips.

The traction side of the controversy is that all men are likely to accept anything that is offered them gratis. Therefore, it is declared, a large number of slips would be taken and wasted should conductors offer them to passengers. The "time of paying fare" rule is said by company officials to be necessary to prevent travelers from getting transfers that would enable them to make two trips in opposite directions by the payment of a single nickel.

RELEASE SOUGHT FOR RENZINO.

Friends of Alleged Accessory in Murder Case Begin Habeas Corpus Proceedings—Clews Found.

Friends of Charles Renzino, the lodging house keeper at 415 Clark street who is being held by Inspector Shippy in connection with the murder of Natoli Serafini, began habeas corpus proceedings yesterday afternoon to secure his release.

Notice was served on Shippy to appear this morning to contest the motion. As soon as he learned of the action he booked Renzino, charging him with being accessory to the murder.

Evidence secured by Shippy's men leads them to believe the case is similar in some points to the Cronin murder. A motorman on the Evanston electric line told of having seen two men looking like Italians driving an open wagon east in Devon avenue, near Evanston avenue, at 2 o'clock Monday morning. The body was found at 8 o'clock the same morning, and the police say it may have been taken to Rogers Park in the wagon.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—While George Gould was shooting birds near High-point, this state, today, he accidentally shot Edward Burns, an attendant. Several shot entered Burns' eye. A local specialist says there is small chance of saving the eye.

Mr. Gould showed the greatest sorrow on account of the occurrence. As soon as possible he had an engine attached to his private car and the wounded man was taken at high speed to Greensboro. Mrs. George Gould accompanied him, ministering to him on the way.

At Greensboro a specialist said all his wounds were superficial except that in his eye. Mr. Gould at once arranged for Burns to be taken to New York, and he left for that place tonight. The millionaire says no expense will be spared to save Burns' sight.

Ohio Hunter Is Killed.

Columbus, O., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—One man has been killed and nearly a score injured since the opening of the hunting season in Ohio yesterday.

The Dead.

HERBERT, ROY, St. Mary's.

The Injured.

Kennedy, John, Butler county, bullet wound in legs.

Riley, G. W., Marion county, burned by explosion of powder.

Wolfe, Harmon, Darke county, shot; will die.

Kentucky Physician Shot.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Dr. J. G. Powers, a physician of Fairfield, Nelson county, was shot in the foot today while hunting. His dog in leaping a fence struck the trigger of the gun, causing its discharge.

Hunters' Victim's Body Found.

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The body of Jerry Hapstra of Nebagamon, Wis., was found in the woods near Miller, Wis., where he had been hunting. A bullet wound caused death. He was the third 19 year old victim of hunters' carelessness in this territory this season.

THAW LEAVES PITTSBURG; SAYS HE HOPES FOREVER.

Wealthy Youth Has an Interview with His Mother and Starts Suddenly for New York.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Harry K. Thaw started for New York last night from Pittsburg, vowing he would never return to the town of his birth.

Young "Thaw-Nesbet," as he is now known in Pittsburg, arrived here from the west yesterday morning and stopped off to see his mother. Just what really occurred at the conference between Mrs. William Thaw and her son cannot be learned, but after an hour's talk Harry left Lyndhurst and came downtown to his club.

"Which way, Harry?" asked an acquaintance at the club door.

"To New York as soon as I can get a train."

"When are you coming back?"

"Never."

"How about this?" asked his friend pulling from his pocket a clipping from a Pittsburg newspaper in which the following editorial had been taken:

"Young Thaw-Nesbet declares that all rumors coming from Pittsburg about him are false. O, well, if it is only the mild and inocuous Pittsburg rumors that are false, where does the kick come in?"

Thaw said something that would not look well in print and rushed away.

Those close to the Thaws declare that Mrs. Thaw gave her son the berating of a lifetime for his past actions, and told him if he was not married to Miss Nesbit he had disgraced the family by traveling with her without being married, and that so far as she and the rest of the family were concerned not a penny would be forthcoming to help out his entanglement.

DIVORCES SEVEN, WOULD WED AGAIN

Mrs. Mary Crowther of New York Says She Had a Run of Hard Luck.

SHOW RIBBON FOR MOORE

Chicagoan's Horse, Burlingham, Wins Second Honors in Contest for Waldorf-Astoria Cup.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, New York, Nov. 16.

Seeking a divorce from her seventh husband, Mrs. Mary Crowther, at one time one of the most prominent woman real estate dealers in this city, today said upon obtaining her divorce that she undoubtedly would marry again. In her suit against her present husband, Thomas Crowther, Mrs. Crowther names an unidentified woman named "Hattie."

Freed from Her Seventh Husband, Looks for Eighth.

Mrs. Crowther is only 33 years old, and still feels that the world has opportunities for happiness for her. Here is the list of Mrs. Crowther's husbands and her age at the time she married them:

At 14—Edward Wakeman of Danbury, Conn.
At 18—Henry Saunders of New York.
At 21—Joseph Powers of Danbury.
At 22—John Godfrey of Jersey City.
At 24—William Gay of Bridgeport, Conn.
At 27—James H. Lindley of Meriden, Conn.
At 31—Thomas Crowther of New York.

"I do not regard marriage as a failure," said Mrs. Crowther. "You see, I have merely had a run of hard luck selecting a life partner. But I am willing to try again. I am sure I shall draw a prize next time."

Robert Hunter, a social settlement worker, who married Miss Stokes, an heiress, has just finished a book called "Poverty," in which he says there are 10,000,000 persons in the United States in poverty, that 50,000 children go hungry to school in New York every day, and that there is more poverty in New York than in any other big city in this country.

J. H. Moore Wins Reserve Ribbon at Horse Show.

The chief attraction at the horse show tonight was the Waldorf-Astoria cup for gig horses. Ten horses appeared as contestants. Eben D. Jordan's Hildred was declared the winner, with Burlingham, the property of James Hobart Moore of Chicago, the reserve.

The champion prize of $200 for mares that have been awarded blue ribbons in other events was captured by Queen Welcome, one of the string brought here from England by Robert Whitworth, the reserve ribbon going to Eben D. Jordan's Mistress Marjorie.

The most important prize awarded this week, the Challenge cup, went to Mr. Jordan's black hackney stallion, Gentleman John. As this horse won the cup last year, today's victory gives Mr. Jordan permanent possession of the trophy.

Among the well known people present were the duke and duchess of Manchester, Mrs. George Law of Paris, Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh of Washington, Mrs. Joseph Widener Jr., and Mrs. E. M. Robison of Philadelphia.

Airships are a serious proposition. Since the division of $100,000 among the airship inventors by the managers of the St. Louis exposition and the prophetic hope of Inventor Baldwin that he would soon circle about the atmosphere far above New York's loftiest buildings, aerial navigation has vindicated its right to receive official recognition. Such at least was the opinion of the members of the New York Motor club at their meeting tonight, which perfected a permanent organization in Bretton hall. The purpose of the club as submitted by the committee on constitution and bylaws is "to encourage the interests of motoring on land and water."

Club to Encourage Motors on Land, Water, and Air.

"Why not add in the air?" suggested some one.

There was a blank look of amazement, for the seriousness of the thing was not assimilated in an instant. The question was hotly discussed and defeated once, but on reconsideration was agreed to.

Commander F. de Latour Booth-Tucker sailed from New York today on the White Star liner Oceanic for England. His departure was the occasion for one of the most fervid ceremonies the Salvation army performed. After eight years of work here as commander he has been called to England as foreign secretary of the army. His farewell caused 1,500 Salvationists, including some of the best known officers of the country, to march in parade from the national headquarters in Fourteenth street to pier 48, North river. The commander rode in an automobile, and thousands of persons gathered to witness the parade. Fifty policemen led the procession. At the pier the commander shook hands with all the members of the army and made a short speech, during which many wept. The crowd sang a hymn as the Oceanic worked out into midstream.

Fifteen Hundred Bid Farewell to Booth-Tucker.

Five men who are charged with being "green goods" swindlers were arrested tonight in Brooklyn. The men are George Harley, a salesman of New York; and Charles Wilson, alias "Daniel Creed," a truckman; Albert Sloane, alias "George Primrose," alias "Charles Tiffany," a clerk; Henry Rogers, a salesman; and Elmer Brown, alias "Albert Copper," a commission merchant, all of Brooklyn. Ever since last summer, Inspector Boyle says, the postoffice department has been receiving complaints from victims of the "green goods" swindle, which seemed to locate the operators in Rockaway, Jamaica, or Flushing, but attempts to trace them by decoy telegrams failed. The secret service men finally obtained a confession from a telegraph operator who had dealt with the middleman, and the arrests followed.

Arrest Five Alleged Green Goods Operators.

From twenty-five talesmen examined in the Supreme court criminal branch, only five jurors were secured for the trial of Nan Patterson, who is accused of the murder of Bookmaker Cæsar Young in a cab on June 4 last. The five are: Edward Hendricks, stock broker, foreman; Harry L. Johnson, dry goods; Robert, Henry, and Harvey J. Ubert, billiard room proprietors.

In questioning one of the prospective jurors Assistant District Attorney Rand said:

"I may as well tell you now that the people cannot produce any witnesses who saw the shooting of Cæsar Young."

Three hundred men and girls employed in several manufacturing concerns in a five story building on the Bowery were thrown into a panic by fire today, but by prompt work on the part of firemen and volunteer rescuers all were taken out in safety. The building was practically destroyed. Many women on the third floor who were out of reach of the ladders were taken across a narrow areaway to an adjoining building on a living chain formed by firemen.

JARS ALASKA OFFICIALS.

PRESIDENT OUSTS NOME MARSHAL AN JUNEAU JUDGE.

Acts on Reports of Irregularities, Which Are Confirmed by Investigation of Assistant Attorney General Day — Charges Include Also Gov. Brady and a Second Jurist, but Inquiry Is Believed to Have Exonerated Them.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today summarily removed from office Frank H. Richards, United States marshal for the Nome district, in Alaska, and has called for the resignation of Judge Melville C. Brown of the Juneau district.

For some time the judiciary of Alaska has been in bad repute, and charges were made that some of the judges and marshals were guilty of corruption. President Roosevelt directed Assistant Attorney General Day to make an investigation. This inquiry has been in progress for some months, and recently Mr. Day placed his report in the hands of the president, who decided he was justified in removing Marshal Richards and asking for the resignation of Judge Brown.

Hints of Much Irregularity.

No details as to the charges were given out at the White house, but it is known that Mr. Day found that the officials were deeply involved in scandals before he recommended their dismissal.

Judge Brown was accused of having a pecuniary interest in mining and other properties that were in litigation before the courts and of appointing his secretary as receiver in some of the cases that came before him. Charges of a similar character were made against Marshal Richards.

Gov. Brady Exonerated.

Judge Wickersham of the Third Judicial district was involved in the scandals, but he appears to have been exonerated. Charges of corruption and dishonesty also were made against Gov. Brady, but the investigation did not convince the president that he was guilty, and he will remain in office.

ELECT WOODCOCK AS BISHOP.

Protestant Episcopal Council of Kentucky Diocese Selects Detroit Minister.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 16.—The diocesan council tonight elected Dr. Charles Edward Woodcock of Detroit Protestant Episcopal bishop of Kentucky.

The election of Dr. Woodcock came in the nature of a surprise, as the day had been spent in fruitless balloting, with Dr. Frank Du Moulin of Chicago and Dr. W. T. Manning of New York as the leading candidates. At one time Dr. Du Moulin lacked only one vote of securing the necessary majority of both laymen and clergy.

Dr. Woodcock is at present rector of St. John's church, Detroit. He is a New Yorker by birth, and was assistant rector of Grace church there.

CHARITY REFORMS CALL FOR $500,000

State Conference of Charities Suggests Improvements in Institutions.

RAPS GRAND JURY SYSTEM

Chicago Women's Clubs Notify Superintendents of Intention to Visit Their Places.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Rockford, Ill., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—When the next state legislature convenes it will be informed of a few of the things which charitable institutions and associations of this state consider absolutely necessary. Appropriations amounting to about $500,000 will be needed to secure all the improvements suggested, but the state conference of charities which advocates the reforms will be satisfied with a sum considerably under that, if it can be obtained for the improvements asked.

At the same time that the recommendations were adopted today by the conference of the superintendents of the various state institutions the session was informed by representatives of Chicago Women's clubs that the systematic inspection of state institutions is about to be undertaken by women, and the superintendents were asked to regard the promised visits of women investigators as friendly.

Charity Reforms Needed.

What the conference of charities wants of the state legislature was outlined in brief by the resolutions adopted. Most of the provisions look to legislative action. Some can be obtained without the aid of the general assembly but with the cooperation of the authorities. The resolutions recommend:

The transfer of the Dunning asylum of Cook county from the care of the county to the state.

The transfer of all insane patients from the various county poorhouses to the state institutions.

The substitution of a "more modern system" for the present grand jury system.

The establishment of an epileptic colony and an appropriation for that purpose from the state legislature.

Investigation and correction of all faulty tenements and dwellings in Chicago.

Passage of a bill compelling the disinfection of houses in which there has been death from consumption.

More adequate appropriation for the state factory inspector's office to enable a more rigid enforcement of the laws pertaining to space and light.

Passage of a bill to regulate the surrender, placing, and transfer of children.

Passage of a bill to provide for the visitation of children placed in family homes.

Custody of all feeble minded women by the state.

Tones Down Resolution.

Dr. V. H. Podstata of the Dunning institution made the report of the committee on the care of epileptics in which the establishment of a colony by the state is urged as of extreme necessity. Reports gathered by the state board of charity, he said, indicate that there are about 8,000 epileptics in Illinois. Dr. Podstata displayed plans for cottages designed by the state architect, showing that two story cottages could be erected at a cost of about $300 per inmate. Dr. Podstata recommended single story cottages in preference to the double story plan.

As a beginning for the colony it is proposed to ask the legislature for the appropriation of an amount at least sufficient to purchase 1,000 acres of land for the site. "Such land undoubtedly would have on it buildings which could be used," said the physician, "and in this way a start could be made."

Care of Epileptics.

Supt. John J. Sloan of the Chicago house of correction is chairman of the committee on resolutions, and he toned down the resolution offered by Mrs. Will of the National Council of Jewish Women declaring that there has been "utter disregard of law in the building of tenement houses." He merely changed the wording and allowed the provisions to stand calling for an investigation.

In advocating the elimination of the grand jury system, the conference condemns it as "one of long delays, great expense, and poor results," and urges the substitution of one "which will determine the guilt or innocence quickly and empty the jails of hundreds of persons condemned to idleness and vicious associations." It recommended further that all persons under term sentences be placed in an institution where work is provided.

To Make Friendly Visits.

Mrs. F. P. Bagley of the Chicago Woman's club announced the intention of the club women was to make a systematic inspection of the institutions of the state. She asked the superintendents to consider that women would visit the institutions as friends. The club women propose, if possible, to secure recognition of their work that they may report to the state administration or to the legislature. Mrs. Bagley said that the conditions in the different institutions had not been such that the state could consider them perfect or without fault.

Woman Reformatory Work.

The report of the committee on woman reformatory work and the care of feeble minded women was made by Mrs. George M. Moulton of Chicago.

Prof. J. H. Freeman, superintendent of the institution for the education of the blind at Jacksonville, explained in detail the processes of the school, and spoke of the success attending the instruction of Emma Kubisek, a deaf, dumb, and blind girl, presenting a problem similar to that of Helen Keller. He asked for some provision for the care of feeble minded blind children, asserting that they should not be allowed to associate with blind children of intelligence.

Conference Officers.

The conference reelected President John A. Brown of Decatur and Secretary Frank D. Whipp of Springfield.

The new vice presidents are: M. M. Mallory of Pontiac, Mrs. Emma Quinlan of Chicago, Mrs. Sarah Montgomery of Springfield.

The new executive committee are: Sherman Kingsley of Chicago, Mrs. F. P. Bagley of Riverside, Mrs. J. A. Parsons of Jacksonville, Judge Julien Mack of Chicago, W. L. Cooper of Peoria. The chairmen of the new committees are as follows:

County charitable and correctional work—Fay Lewis, Rockford.

Insane and feeble minded adults—Dr. W. E. Taylor, Watertown.

State factory inspection—Edgar T. Davies.

Compulsory education—W. L. Bodine of Chicago.

Juvenile court laws—Dr. Josephine Milligan, Jacksonville.

Homeless men and nonresident dependents—E. T. Lies of Chicago.

Relation of women's clubs to public charities—Mrs. P. P. Heywood, Chicago.

At the night session, which closed the conference, Dr. George W. Webster, president of the state board of health, made a report of the committee on the care of tuberculosis poor.

A number of Chicago and state physicians explained the work being done to stamp out consumption. Dr. A. C. Klebs and Dr. W. E. Evans of the Visiting Nurses' association outlined the system by which that organization works in Chicago, collecting information, and teaching hygiene.

Secretary Evans of the state health board reported 7,100 deaths from the disease, officially recorded in the state last year. Dr. J. W. Pettus of Ottawa told of experiments in a camp now being conducted at Ottawa. An effort will be made by various preventive associations to secure an appropriation from the next legislature for a consumption hospital.

Forming a Railway Men's Club.

A new railway men's club is being organized among the occupants of the Railway exchange and other office buildings. The prime movers are James A. Donovan, manager of the Missouri River Dispatch, and George Bain, agent of the Erie Dispatch. Apartments will be secured at the proposed Illinois Athletic club.

CONGRESS TO GIVE FILIPINOS A LIFT.

Senate Will Follow House in Enacting Legislation to Aid the Wards of the Pacific.

Castillian because it failed to see that public improvements and especially highways would have added vastly to the revenue producing features of the islands, and in addition would have made the people much more tractable.

Need Better Communication.

In the opinion of people who have been on the grounds, and who have learned their lessons by actual observation and not from irresponsible "students of the Philippines," as did poor Parker, the greatest necessity in the islands today is immediate, and in fact, enormous improvement in the means of communication.

The island authorities are now satisfied that the territory under their control is enormously rich. The Spaniards merely skimmed the surface. There were few goods roads and only one insignificant railroad line, so that the vast mineral wealth, lumber, and agricultural products remain untouched or undeveloped because of the impossibility of getting them to a good market.

In the Philippine bill passed by the house at the last session and now pending in the senate, authority is given to the commission to stimulate building railroads in the islands by direct guarantee of a fair income on the investment. The only alternative to this, in the opinion of Secretary Taft, is for the government itself to build railroads, as has been done to a large extent by the English in India. This is so long a step in the direction of paternalism, however, that few members of congress would care to commit themselves to it.

Terms of Railway Guarantee.

Under the pending bill it is provided that the income guaranteed by the United States at no time shall amount to more than $1,500,000 annually, while the entire guarantee must lapse in thirty years, so that the government will not be led into any such unfortunate entanglements as followed upon the building of the Union Pacific railroad.

Coupled with the development of the railroad system the government of the Philippine islands is extremely anxious to build roads, bridges, harbors, and other means of communication throughout the islands. Current revenues have been drawn on already to a large extent, and it is felt to be unfair to the present generation in the Philippines to burden them with the entire cost of these permanent improvements. It is proposed in the bill now pending to permit the insular government to issue bonds to the extent of $5,000,000, the proceeds of which will be used exclusively for permanent improvements, thus permitting current funds to be used more particularly for policing, lighting, cleaning, and temporary improvements of highways, roads, bridges, harbors, and public buildings.

There are other provisions in the bill now pending before the senate, but these three, reduction of the tariff on Philippine products, development of the railroad system by government guarantee, and the issuance of bonds for needed internal improvements, are deemed to be vitally important for the success of American control in the islands, and all three subjects will be urged upon the attention of congress in the president's message, which is now being put together.

FIX CIVIL RULE IN PHILIPPINES.

Report of Col. Edwards Shows Record of Immigration and the Total Revenues.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—The report of Col. Edwards, chief of the bureau of insular affairs, announces that the work of establishing civil government in the Philippines may now be said to be accomplished. Referring to immigration to the Philippines, the report says:

"The official returns for the fiscal year 1904 show the arrival of 27,988 immigrants, an increase of 3,852 over the previous year. According to nationality, 13,131 were Americans, 9,008 Chinese, 2,770 Japanese, 941 Filipinos, 688 Spaniards, 409 English, and 940 all others. Of the 9,008 Chinese, more than 8,000 possessed certificates entitling them to readmission within a certain period. The remainder of those who entered for the first time were admitted under the exemption clause of the Chinese exclusion act and included, among others, persons belonging to any learned profession."

The total revenues from the American occupation of the islands to the end of the fiscal year were $63,840,326 and the expenditures $56,008,800.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—One more case of smallpox has been found at the University of Michigan, making in all nine student cases. President James B. Angell, however, says the danger is past.

BABIES BANKRUPT CLUB TREASURY.

Each Addition to Members' Families Gets a Prize and Now Money Is Gone.

BAZAAR TO RAISE FUND.

Women of Settlement House Prove Themselves Foes of Race Suicide.

Babies have broken the bank of the Woman's club of Settlement house. But the crowing bank breakers will not be sent as punishment to one of Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman's infant reformatories. The women who live within the influence of Settlement house like babies, and so they resolved yesterday to work with might and main to replenish the club's treasury. And what is more they gave voice to the hope that other babies would break the refilled bank.

It all happened this way:

A year ago President Roosevelt said that race suicide was threatening the nation. The women of Settlement house are patriotic, as is shown by the large American flag and the picture of the signing of the declaration of independence and the portraits of Washington, and Lincoln, and Grant that adorn the walls of the clubroom at 788 Armitage avenue. So they made up their minds to do their duty by their country.

Spoon for Each Baby.

They decided to present to each acquisition to the family of a club member a handsome silver spoon. When they came to this decision there was $1 in the treasury. Now There is none.

On Monday there was $4 left. On Tuesday Mrs. Anna Gillus sent word that if convenient she would be pleased to present a little man one of those silver spoons. That left $2. Yesterday Mrs. Minnie Popp duplicated the message of Mrs. Gillus, and so all the money is gone.

Now the Settlement House Woman's club is holding a bazaar and rummage sale to aid in the good work of refilling the bank. Trousers, suspenders, socks, "rough rider" hats, derby hats, and winter hats that pull down over the ears, shoes and shoestrings, and neckties have been sacrificed by the husbands of the club members and placed on sale for the benefit of the spoon fund. The members themselves have cast last and longing glances upon ruffled skirts, tucked gingham shirtwaists, and embroidered stocks, and then relinquished possession for the benefit of the spoon fund.

Mrs. Ruby Dexter, Mrs. Fannie Karasick, and Mrs. Ida Culp, whose rollicking creepers are trying to grow big enough to eat mush with their silver spoons, are helping to sell all these sacrifices.

Bazaar Making Much Money.

If the money which the bazaar is making is all used for silver spoons it will be a long time before the bank is again broken. But all the money will not be used for silver spoons. The settlement workers have decided to use a large share of it on the settlement itself, so that when the owners of the silver spoons grow up they will have a nice place to take other claimants to silver spoons. Miss Mabel Oison, Miss Myrtle Falkenstein, Miss Henriette Elmstead, and Miss Agnes Dagger have all helped Mrs. Herman Falkenstein, the head resident, in the work of filling up the bank.

When the club met yesterday they were in the booths selling everything from a doll to a tea. A dozen babies were at the meeting, too. Some spent their time kicking black and blue spots on their mothers' knees as if to show their anger that they had been born before the advent of the era of the silver spoon. And others crawled along the floor bewailing as they went the fact that the club decision on the spoon question was not made retroactive.

How to Be Beautiful.

While these babies romped and played and crowed, and while the dolls ranged along the wall sat still waiting to be auctioned off Mrs. James A. Gillies and Mrs. George E. Colby told the club members how to live on a small income and how to be beautiful.

Mrs. Gillies said that a woman could look well dressed on a meager income by always having on hand a black dress and also a dark blue or brown to change off with. She told her hearers to aim always to look neat and to devote ten minutes each day to their complexion. She also said that all women with small incomes should avoid striking clothes and millinery and also conspicuous colors, as they would grow tired of them before they could afford to replace them. She deplored extravagance in dress.

"A woman with an extravagant dress looks as if she had more money than she knew what to do with, and so sewed some on her dress."

Mrs. Colby urged that beauty should not be measured by a woman's face, but by her intellectuality and her culture. She declared that club life is a greater beautifier than massage. She said she wanted the 1,200 club women in the Seventh district to make themselves beautiful. She urged, in contradiction to the plan of Mrs. Gilman, that the home is the best place on earth for the child and that every home should be a nursery.

TILL NOON

Grape-Nuts

See below.

When the Doctor takes his own medicine and the grocer eats the food he recommends some confidence comes to the observer.

A Grocer of Ossian, Ind., had a practical experience with food worth anyone's attention.

He says: "Six years ago I became so weak from stomach and bowel trouble that I was finally compelled to give up all work in my store, and, in fact, all sorts of work, for about four years. The last year I was confined to the bed nearly all of the time, and much of the time unable to retain food of any sort on my stomach. My bowels were badly constipated continually and I lost in weight from 165 pounds down to 88 pounds.

"When at the bottom of the ladder I changed treatment entirely and started in on Grape-Nuts and cream for nourishment. I used absolutely nothing but this for about three months. I slowly improved until I got out of bed and began to move about.

"I have been improving regularly and now in the past two years have been working about fifteen hours a day in the store and never felt better in my life.

"During these two years I have never missed a breakfast of Grape-Nuts and cream, and often have it two meals a day, but the entire breakfast is always made of Grape-Nuts and Cream alone.

"Since commencing the use of Grape-Nuts I have never used anything to stimulate the action of the bowels, a thing I had to do for years, but this food keeps me regular and in fine shape, and I am growing stronger and heavier every day.

"My customers, naturally, have been interested and I am compelled to answer a great many questions about Grape-Nuts.

"Some people would think that a simple dish of Grape-Nuts and cream would not carry one through to the noonday meal, but it will, and in the most vigorous fashion."

DR. MARTIN CAN SAVE YOUR TEETH

This great dental genius has a method that tightens loose and falling teeth, replaces missing teeth, cures pyorrhea, all without plate or bridge. Call and let him examine and advise you; there is no charge.

48-PAGE DENTAL BOOK FREE.

Thousands of persons are wearing false, removable teeth who could still be in possession of their natural teeth if they had followed the suggestions so often made in these columns, that is, to see Dr. G. Gordon Martin of Suite 505 Powers Building, northeast corner of Wabash and Monroe, at the first indication of disorder of the teeth or gums. The teeth and gums are his specialty; he has mastered them thoroughly, has invented and discovered methods and appliances by which most wonderful things in dentistry are accomplished. He is the only dentist using the method, and his is the only office in the world where this class of skilled work can be obtained. However, by going to him you have the satisfaction of being under treatment by the original discoverer.

For, while thousands are needlessly wearing false, removable teeth, yet legions of others, whose discretion prompted them to see Dr. Martin, are today happy in the possession of all their teeth, and those teeth that were missing replaced by teeth that cannot be detected from the original and which are as firmly in the gums as the best teeth in youth. If this seems improbable to you—for methods that are startlingly new often seem improbable to the uninformed—then call at Dr. Martin's office or write him, and he will show you the proof. If you write him he will send you facsimile letters from men and women of prominence whom he has cured of these very dental diseases, and if you call he will give you the addresses of a host of Chicagoans who have been treated by him and who willingly proclaim him the most skilled dentist they have ever come in contact with.

Dr. Martin successfully treats all diseases of the teeth and gums, of the simplest as well as of the most serious kind—loose and falling teeth, missing teeth, pyorrhea, decayed teeth, discharge from the gums, foul breath, broken and irregular teeth, ulcers, boils, abcesses, etc. The man who discovered and holds patent for the Alveolar Method of Dentistry, the system that revolutionized the practice of this profession, can certainly be relied upon to understand and find a means of cure for any dental disease.

The best thing to do is to call on the doctor for a personal chat. Let him examine your mouth and give his opinion of what should be done for you. There is no charge at all for this, and the opinion of so skilled a dentist as Dr. Martin will surely be of value to you. The office is open throughout the day, or you can telephone or write for a special appointment.

All callers, in addition to free consultation and advice, can have a copy of the doctor's 48-page illustrated book describing his system of dentistry and what to do for all diseases of the teeth and gums. This is the largest, most profusely illustrated, and practically the only book in the United States on the subject of dentistry written for the layman. Interested persons living at a distance can also have a copy by addressing Dr. G. Gordon Martin, 505 Powers Building, 156 Wabash-av., Chicago, Ill.

DOCTORS STRIVE FOR UNPAID WORK

Eminent Physicians to Compete for Places on County Hospital Staff.

HARD TASK IS OUTLINED.

Honor Is Incentive Which Places Specialists on a Par with Laborers.

Chicago has attained to the apotheosis of the civil service principle for public service.

More than 150 of the principal physicians and specialists of the city, some of them men of world wide fame, will take pen in hand tomorrow and write the best answers they can to the questions submitted as a test for appointment to membership on the county hospital staff.

Medical experts whose incomes are of presidential proportion and whose time is worth anywhere from $1 to $5 a minute will give up the best part of a day to compete for positions in which they will give their service gratuitously to the public. Their only compensation will be the honor and the opportunity to study diseases under exceptionally advantageous conditions. The list includes:

Frank Billings,	Harold N. Moyer,
William A. Evans,	Isaac Arthur Abt,
Sydney Kuh,	Herman N. Ludwig,
Sanger Brown,	Albert Belcham Keyes.

Examination Is Unique.

This will be the first examination of its kind in the history of civil service. To place the unsalaried members of the county hospital staff on the same footing with the paid employés who take the merit tests for their positions is without precedent.

The men who will sit down to their examination blanks tomorrow will find themselves working under conditions exactly similar to those imposed on the applicants for the lowliest positions in the county service. They will be known for the time being only by numbers which will be affixed to their examination papers and separately registered for reference after the marking of the papers.

Plans Are Carefully Arranged.

Great care has been observed in the arrangement of the examination. A board of twenty examiners, headed by Dr. John B. Murphy and Dr. Hugh T. Patrick, has formulated the questions and will mark the papers. Applications will be received up to the time of the examination, and it is believed that the total number of candidates may reach 200. There are fifty positions on the staff to be filled from those that pass. All papers will be marked on a basis of 100 points.

The plan to extend the civil service principle to the honorary positions on the hospital staff was conceived by President Foreman of the county board soon after his inauguration. It was submitted to prominent physicians and received unqualified indorsement. Dr. Henrotin did considerable missionary work in its behalf, and several months ago the county board definitely adopted it and ordered the examination.

Applications Come in Deluge.

President Foreman in the week succeeding his induction into office received 2,500 letters and 600 calls from physicians seeking appointment to the hospital staff. Not only is it a position of honor in the profession, but the opportunity to observe a great variety of diseases under all sorts of conditions is said to be not surpassed at any other institution in the world.

It occurred to President Foreman that while there was no salary attached to the positions as to other civil service appointments, the opportunity offered physicians was in reality considered as more than monetary compensation. By placing the candidates under the merit system the county would be assured of the best medical service to be commanded and also place a significant example before other branches of the public service.

Rules Governing the Contest.

The examining board has decided on the following, among other conditions, governing the tests:

That all questions will be limited to such subjects as are of practical value in clinical work.

That a chronological statement of education, experience, position, and work tending to qualify the applicant for the position will be asked.

All papers must be rated on a scale of 100, and if a bedside examination be given there need not be identity of patients.

A majority of the departmental examiners must pass on all examinations.

Papers in the three subjects of examination, technical knowledge, experience, and report upon an assumed state of facts much be marked separately, each on the basis of 100.

The examinations probably will be held at the Northwestern University building, Lake and Dearborn streets.

CALLS DIVISION OF FEES UNPROFESSIONAL CONDUCT.

Amendment to Constitution of Chicago Medical Society Proposed by Dr. A. D. Bevan and Published in Minutes.

"Unprofessional conduct" was the label placed upon the "division of fees" practice said to obtain among certain physicians in Chicago and Illinois towns in a proposed constitutional amendment published last night in the minutes of the Chicago Medical society. Dr. A. D. Bevan is the author of the amendment.

No action was taken upon the amendment, but action is looked for at the meeting tomorrow night of the Chicago Gynecological society, where a similar measure will be introduced by Dr. E. C. Dudley of the board of education. Dr. Dudley's resolution, however, will contain a rider requiring all new members to assent to the change by signing the constitution, but leaving it optional whether the older members shall do so or not.

The wording of Dr. Bevan's amendment to section 5, chapter 1 of the Medical society constitution is as follows:

"Any member who is guilty of giving or receiving a commission or of entering into any arrangement for the division of a fee for professional services, which arrangement is not known and fully understood by the patient or party by whom such fee is paid, shall be guilty of unprofessional conduct."

A petition is being circulated among Chicago physicians asking for a special act of congress incorporating the American Medical association. The change is said to be merely a nominal one for the sake of business convenience, as the association is not incorporated in several states in which it has membership.

PAYS HIS VICTIM, NOT COURT

Youth Who by Assault Made Another a Paralytic Must Give Him $125.

Instead of paying a fine, Joseph Phillips yesterday was ordered by Judge Chytraus to pay his victim, John Costello, $100 and court costs of $25.

Phillips and Costello, both of whom are 18 years old, quarreled a few months ago in a downtown store, and Phillips beat his fellow clerk so severely that the latter became paralytic. He appeared in court with crutches, and a physician said he might remain affected all his life.

Assistant State's Attorney Fake found the most severe charge that could be made against Phillips was assault, and, after consulting the judge, he agreed to the unique penalty. Costello lives at 563 North Hamlin avenue.

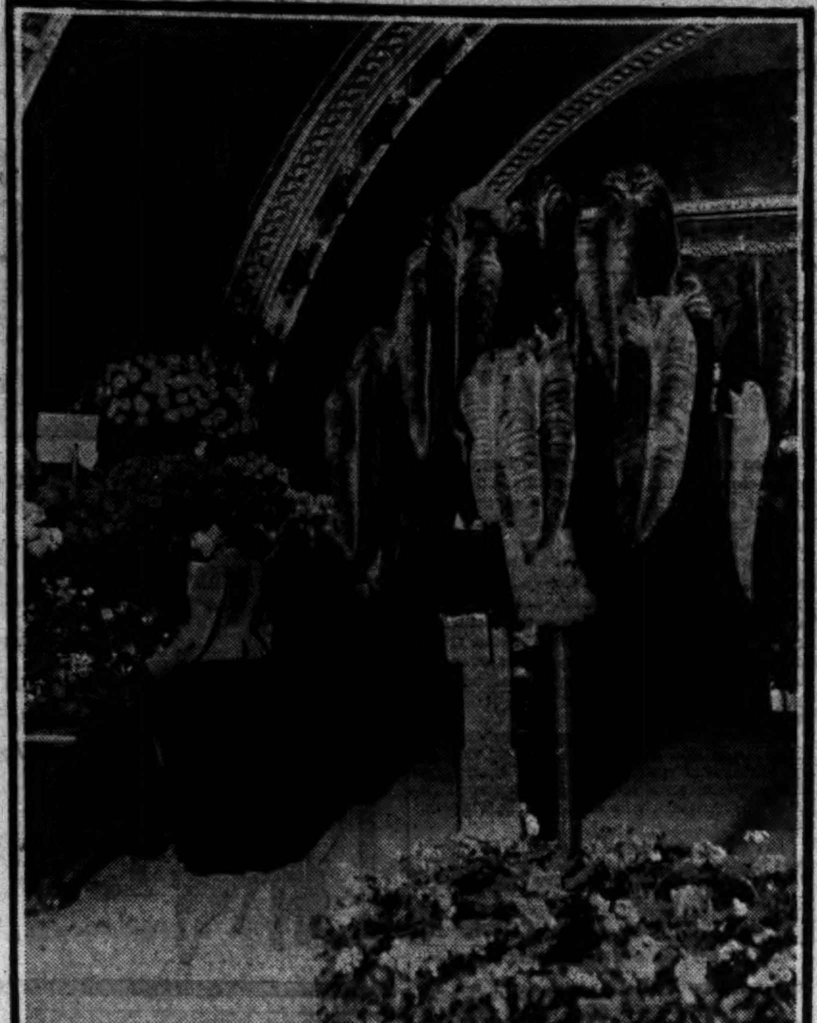
Attractive Corner at the Flower Show.



LARGE PALM GROWN BY PETER REINBERG.

REINBERG'S ROSE IS FIRST

ALDERMAN WINS AT FLOWER SHOW WITH NEW VARIETY.

Chrysanthemums Used as Table Decorations Interest the Women, Who Throng the Halls—Carnations Will Be in Vogue Today and Orchids Reign Tomorrow—Gardenias Are to Be the Attraction on Saturday—Mrs. Palmer's Palms Draw Attention.

Ald. Reinberg was awarded the silver cup for his rose, perles des Gottesburg, as the best new variety exhibited in the Chicago flower show last night.

"Rose day" proved a greater attraction than "chrysanthemum" or "orchid day," and the rooms given to the show in the Fine Arts building were crowded with admirers of the products of Chicago's greenhouses.

Chicago's "carnation alderman" was not satisfied with producing the best new rose. He also won first prize for the best liberty roses, for the best forty kaiserin roses, for the best seventy-five liberty roses, and second prize for several other varieties. Poehlmann Bros. of Morton Grove, Ill., took first prize for American beauty, golden gate, bride, bridesmaid, and Chetanay roses.

Study Dinner Decorations.

Chrysanthemums as dinner decorations and used in color schemes constituted a source of study for the women who thronged the halls. The tables were set with china, silverware, and cut glass, and then fell under the hands of the competing florists. Carnations will be today's decorations, and tomorrow orchids will reign.

On Saturday, however, the flower of greatest interest is to be shown. This is the gardenia, a novelty to Chicago, although grown by the thousand in the south. It is an old fashioned jasmine, difficult to raise in the north during the winter. The market price is $1 a bloom.

When Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt visited Chicago during horse show week she ordered dozens of these gardenias, but was not able to get one in Chicago. As nothing else would do for a properly decorated dinner table in eastern style, several were obtained from New York by telegraph. This flower, it was predicted, will be in fashion this winter.

Carnation Contest Feature Today.

A carnation contest will be the feature today. The chief entries are the H. N. Higinbotham Fiancée, awarded sweepstakes and three prizes by the Horticultural society of Chicago and winner of the Canadian Challenge cup, and blooms from the conservatories of Robert Craig and Mrs. Thomas W. Lawson.

Mrs. Potter Palmer's exhibit of palms attracted much attention, as on the day before. In the evening the judges recommended that a silver cup be awarded to the rose Richmond, by E. G. Hill & Co. of Richmond, Ind., and a certificate of merit to the same company for the rose Roseland or English. The orchids of E. G. Uihlein were much admired.

CANAL BOARD TO ISSUE BONDS.

Decides on $1,500,000 Loan in Preparation for Verdict in Condemnation Case.

The drainage board yesterday afternoon voted to issue $1,500,000 new 4 per cent bonds which will be sold in thirty days. The bonds will be dated Jan. 1, 1905, and one-twentieth of them will mature annually for twenty years.

Explaining the issue President Carter said: "If a verdict should be returned in the Pennsylvania condemnation suit which the trustees wish to settle immediately, the payment of this sum would practically deplete the treasury by Jan. 1, and the result would be that the water power development would be delayed. To meet this contingency another issue of bonds is necessary at this time."

Members of the board are troubled by the claims for damages being filed by property owners in the Illinois river valley as a result of flooded lands. Claims filed reach $3,000,000. All such suits must be brought before Jan. 17, 1905. In the first two suits of this character tried the drainage board won, but the cost of defending the suits was large.

ST. JAMES' TO CELEBRATE.

Entertainment and Reception Tonight to Mark Seventieth Anniversary of the Episcopal Church.

The celebration of the seventieth anniversary of St. James' Episcopal church will begin this evening with an entertainment and reception at the church, Cass and Huron streets, and in the rectory. At 8 o'clock an organ recital will be given by the choirmaster and organist, Mr. Clarence Dickinson.

Following the organ recital there will be short addresses by Bishop C. P. Anderson, Dr. W. H. Vibbert, vicar of Trinity church, New York, and former rector of St. James', and by Dr. James S. Stone. Refreshments will be served at the reception. The philanthropic work of the parish and the necessity of raising an endowment fund of at least $250,000 will be discussed. The celebration will close next Sunday with services at 10:45 a. m. and 4 p. m.

KELLY ENTERS A DENIAL.

POLICE CAPTAIN IS NOT AFTER SCHUETTLER'S SCALP.

Swears He Knows Nothing of Court Proceedings to Revise Result of the Civil Service Examination for Assistant Chief of Police—O'Neill Still Refuses to Act Without Mayor's Advice—University of Chicago Mathematician Finds New Set of Figures.

Police Capt. Peter M. Kelly, who was one of the unsuccessful candidates for Assistant Chief Schuettler's place, filed an affidavit yesterday with the civil service board denying any connection with or knowledge of the instigators of the mandamus proceedings.

The acting assistant chief, who has been holding under sixty day appointments, was notified that he would be retained pending certification and appointment from the eligible list. The chief was given temporary authority to take the action. He insists he will make no permanent appointment until Mayor Harrison returns next Saturday.

L. E. Dickson, professor of mathematics at the University of Chicago, has been busy revising the markings of the civil service examination. These put Inspector Shippy first, Capt. Clancy second, and Schuettler third. The new and revised figures follow:

Clancy	92.81	Melaniphy	80.11
Shippy	90.45	Kanzdie	78.60
O'Brien	87.67	Lavin	76.09
Schuettler	82.24	Mahoney	33.02
Kelly	80.68

The professor declares the markers made several errors.

Prof. Dickson made these new sets of figures at the request of Capt. Clancy. The civil service board has not yet seen them.

BANK DIRECTORS TO DECIDE ABOUT SHOWING BOOKS.

Records Wanted in Court at South Chicago, Where Charge of Arson Against I. N. Perry Is on Hearing.

Roy O. West, attorney for the National Bank of North America, will tell Attorney Moritz Rosenthal today the decision reached by the directors as to whether the books of the bank shall be produced in Justice Foster's court in South Chicago at the hearing of Isaac N. Perry.

The books have been asked for several times by Assistant State's Attorney Lindley in an endeavor to get into evidence on the arson charge the facts in regard to the loan made by the bank to F. M. Pease of $185,000.

"I do not know that there will be any objections," said one director last night. "The bank lost interest in the Pease Car and Locomotive works when Mr. Perry assumed the loan personally, and I do not see how the books will figure. The evidence so far shown by the prosecution has not shaken the faith of the directors in Mr. Perry's innocence."

Attorney William S. Forrest, who is associated with Mr. Rosenthal in the defense, admitted that he had advised Julius S. Pomeroy, former cashier of the bank, and Charles Austin, former vice president, not to answer the summons of Fire Attorney Johnson to appear in his office to explain the loan.

The question to which the prosecuting attorneys seek an answer is why did the bank loan $185,000 on a plant which Perry afterward bought at receiver's sale for $45,000.

DRINK TO DELTA KAPPA EPSILON

Nearly 150 Delegates Gather in Auditorium Banquet Hall, Opening Their Convention.

Two waiters bending under the weight of a huge punch bowl entered the banquet hall of the Auditorium hotel at 9 o'clock last night, and the fifty-eighth annual convention of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity was opened.

In the wake of the punch bowl was a shouting throng of youths, the name of each and his university written on his collar for identification. Many affecting scenes took place when old chums met for the first time since college days.

Forty universities will be represented at this convention by nearly 150 delegates. The convention is under the auspices of the Northwestern Alumni association and Delta Delta chapter. Six hundred and fifty members of the fraternity live in Chicago. Michigan, Minnesota, and Cornell are sending the largest delegations.

This morning at 9 o'clock the annual election of officers will be held. The convention will close tomorrow evening with a banquet.

KILLED AT SCENE OF FIRE.

Man Leaving Car Blocked by the Lines of Hose Falls Beneath Another Trolley.

A fire which destroyed the three story brick building at 889 Milwaukee avenue yesterday morning indirectly resulted in a death. An unidentified man leaving a street car blocked by hose, was crushed under a trolley on the other tracks. The loss on the building occupied by Lewis Feder as a clock factory, was $9,000.

CALDWELL CASE STIRS CATHOLICS.

Directors of University Meet to Consider Founder's Repudiation of Faith.

AWAIT WORD FROM ROME

Statement Due Today May Include Marquise's Action and Waggaman Failure.

Washington D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The directors of the Catholic university held two sessions today to consider the renunciation of the Roman church by the marquise des Monstiers-Merinville and also the Waggaman failure. A statement will be issued tomorrow, but it may not contain any reference to the marquise's action. The question of the excommunication of the marquise is said to have been discussed. Discussion of the Waggaman case related to the means to be taken to protect the university's interest in the bankruptcy proceedings.

Of the marquise the dignitaries said little. Cardinal Gibbons asked to be excused from saying anything, but Archbishop Ryan authorized the statement that no reply from Rome as yet had been received to the cablegram of Mgr. O'Connell, the rector of the university, asking for information on the subject. The archbishop put little credence in a published statement that because of the progovernment feeling of the marquise's husband in the matter of the expulsion of the religious orders from France he had induced her to renounce the Catholic faith.

Wait to Hear from Rome.

One of the members said that the board is opposed to having any member quoted in regard to the marquise's case.

"It is not understood by us," he said, "and until a formal communication comes we should not like to talk about it. The entire matter came as a surprise, and especially to those of us who were familiar with the marquise's physical condition. But please do not misunderstand me in that regard—we do not mean to imply that she was in any way incapacitated to think and act for herself. She is her own mistress. Knowing nothing of what prompted her to take the course she did we must wait until it is made clear."

The building in which the board is meeting is that built with the original contribution from Miss Caldwell. Over the door, carved in stone, is the name of the building, the date erected, and Miss Caldwell's name, together with the announcement that she is the founder of the university. In the main reception room is a magnificent painting of Miss Caldwell, done in 1889, which bears the inscription "Universitatis Fundatrix." Neither the painting nor the name of the marquise over the door will be removed by the board until formal consideration has been given the case.

Church Leaders Present.

The last meeting of the board of trustees was held in April and that meeting was adjourned until today. At that time neither the Waggaman affair nor the withdrawal of the marquise had been suspected. Those present today were Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishops Williams of Boston, Ryan of Philadelphia, Farley of New York, and Keane of Dubuque; Bishops Spalding of Peoria, Foley of Detroit, Maes of Covington, Ky., and Harkins of Providence, R. I., and Charles J. Bonaparte of Baltimore. George E. Hamilton of this city, attorney for the university, also was present.

FIFTY ATTENDANTS AT WEDDING

Classmates of South Chicago Bride and Groom Serve as Maids and Ushers.

So popular was Miss Gertrude Muellar of South Chicago that twenty-five of her classmates insisted upon being bridesmaids at her marriage last night, and the friends of Henry Shuda, the groom, rallied to his support by furnishing him with twenty-five ushers. The wedding party was so large that it took a special trolley car to convey it to the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Eighty-eighth street and Commercial avenue. The bride is 19 years of age and her parents live at 8013 Marquette avenue.

GREAT CROWD OF GOPHER ROOTERS

Many Minnesota Students Plan to Attend the Game Here with Northwestern.

COACH DRIVES MEN HARD

Dr. Williams Keeps Players at Work Until Late Hour Getting Up More Steam.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Excitement reached a high pitch at the University of Minnesota today when it was learned that the railroads had made a $3 rate to Chicago for next Saturday's game. It is now certain that when Dr. Williams' men appear on Marshall field ready to meet Northwestern they will be cheered by a surprisingly large delegation of maroon and gold supporters.

The excursion trains will leave on Friday morning and Friday evening, returning late Saturday night or Sunday. The team will leave on Thursday night and spend Friday resting for the hard struggle. They will be given a rousing sendoff. The players will not return to Minneapolis until after the Thanksgiving day game with Iowa, which closes the season.

Realizing that Coach McCornack's men are capable of putting up a fast game, Dr. Williams kept his men at practice today until a late hour. After a short drill in handling punts the men were given sharp formation practice. The tackle shifts, which proved so effective against Wisconsin, must be executed with more speed and precision. The coaches are exerting themselves to make the players start quicker.

Today's scrimmage work was not wholly satisfactory. The scrubs, knowing the first team's signals, frequently succeeded in stopping the play. Cutting did great work at end on the second team, and may be given a try on Saturday. Dan Smith and Ricker are having a close fight for guard.

Thorpe is rapidly recovering from the injury to his ankle, and in all probability will start the game on Saturday. There is some doubt as to Case being in condition to play before the Iowa game. If not Veta will be at right tackle on Saturday. Both are freshmen, and give promise of developing into wonderful players. Brush is also a freshman. The offensive play of these three reminds one of the work of "Germany" Schacht last year. When these men perfect their defensive play they will make a trio of tackles hard to beat.

The "pony" back field with Hunter and O'Brien at the halves may be given a chance on Saturday. These two are not such able men upon defense as Davies and Kremer, but for ground gaining by quick end runs they are in a class by themselves. O'Brien has been partially disabled all the season as a result of an injury received in the Iowa game last year.

No stones are being left unturned by Dr. Williams and his corps of assistants in their efforts to whip the team into the best possible form. They expect a hard struggle.

RIVAL SCRUB TEAMS TO MEET.

Michigan and Northwestern Reserve Elevens Arrange for Thanksgiving Day Game at Grand Rapids.

Gridiron honors between Northwestern and Michigan will be decided, in one way at least this year. The second teams of the two universities will meet in battle on Thanksgiving day at Grand Rapids, Mich. The season for the Wolverines closed last Saturday, and the purple will play its last game this week, but it is aimed to keep the scrubs in good shape so that the contest between the two elevens, which have been acting as buffers to two good teams all fall, will be worth seeing.

Practice at Evanston yesterday was characterized by the "big four," as McCornack, Delaney, Conner, and Jennings are called, as "snappy, fast, and hard." The scrubs retained the ball almost the entire time of the scrimmage, but were unable to score. They were taught the Minnesota formations and for a time succeeded in plowing through the varsity line, but as soon as the regulars learned the plays the reserves were thrown for losses repeatedly. For the few minutes they carried the ball the first team made large gains, and little "Jimmy" Johnson, whom Lowenthal called "the best field general in the west," covered big distances, finally making the one touchdown of the day.

Some fear is expressed that Ward will not be able to get into the game against Minnesota, as the torn muscle in his side refuses to heal. Simpson was hurt last night, his knee being badly bruised and wrenched by a collision with Jenkins. He suffered a great deal of pain, and unless the leg can be kept from swelling and hardening he will be out of the lineup. Davis' stiff back is loosening up, and Rueber, who was badly beaten up in the Illinois game, will get into shape for Saturday.

The final scrimmage will be held today. McCornack is fact perfecting his defense and probably will be satisfied with the improvement in that branch of the game displayed last night so that he may give a little time to working up his attack. An immense crowd is expected at Marshall field on Saturday. Word from Minneapolis says 4,000 rooters may be expected from that city, and the increasing demand for seats in Chicago threatens to test the seating capacity of the field.

PILE UP INJURIES AT WISCONSIN.

Men Are Hurt So Fast That Practice Is Cut Short—McCornack in Madison.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The hoodoo of injuries to men which has been pursuing Wisconsin all the season was working overtime today. So many men were hurt in the scrimmage practice that the coaches finally ordered the team to the gymnasium after it had been playing only twenty minutes.

Clark injured his bad leg, which has handicapped him all the fall, and Vanderboom and Capt. Bush were both laid out during the scrimmage. Hunt twisted an ankle, which will keep him out of practice several days. In addition Remp, although he is pluckily staying in the game, is still suffering from the attack of tonsilitis which kept him in bed during the early part of last week, and today he had a high fever, but took his place in the line and refused to quit until the practice was over.

Not in all the season have so many men been hurt in practice, and the fact that none of the accidents was really serious does not remove the equally patent fact that every day of practice lost by these men now lessens Wisconsin's chances of beating Chicago.

The presence of McCornack, the Northwestern coach, in town last night gave rise to all sorts of surmises among the few who knew of it. Many thought his coming had some connection with a possible solution of the coaching situation here for 1905, but this is unlikely. It is now understood he came up with the idea of getting some information regarding Minnesota's play. The little Dartmouth man was here incognito, and not over half a dozen men knew of his presence.

Wisconsin has suggested McCornack for referee, Walbridge of Lafayette for umpire, and Lieut. Hackett of West Point for linesman as officials for the game with Chicago Thanksgiving day.

STAGG SUPERVISES PRACTICE.

Maroon Coach Attends to Duties Despite Illness—Parry Makes a Rash Promise.

Coach Stagg met his maroons at Marshall field yesterday and put them through two hours' hard signal drill. The veteran coach said he was feeling as well as he had been for the last two weeks and that he had not been as seriously ill as had been reported. He will try to be on hand every day until after the Thanksgiving game. After that he has as yet made no plans.

Parry and Bezdek alone remained out of practice yesterday. Parry has already removed the plaster cast from his leg and says he will be able to get into the Wisconsin game. Dr. Raycroft, the team physician, is by no means as optimistic as the big tackle and says most favorable progress must result if Parry is to play the game next Thursday. Bezdek was not kept out of the practice because of injuries received in the Michigan game. He is merely celebrating his touchdown against Michigan.

Catlin and De Tray were unable to do any fast work and Speidel, Walker, and Boone played behind the line. This substitute combination worked well and will probably be used a part of the time when the cardinal players come to Marshall field. Boone as a half back is an unknown quantity, inasmuch as he was put out of the game soon after he took that position at Ann Arbor. Walker and Speidel fought as few maroon men have fought and both will probably get into the last game of the season.

Assistant Coach Sheldon says Chicago does not intend to be caught napping and that all the men expect a hard game when they meet the Badgers. Sheldon watched the Minnesota-Wisconsin game and he has much respect for Coach Curtis' men.

AMHERST, 22; WILLIAMS, 6

PURPLE AND WHITE PLAYERS END SEASON WITH VICTORY.

Good Team Work Results in Overthrow of Rivals from Williamstown After the Latter Make an Early Score—Northwestern Military Academy Downs Armour Academy—Shattuck Proves Too Strong for the Carleton College Eleven.

Amherst, Mass., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Amherst won its last game of the season today by defeating Williams, 22 to 6. Amherst won by excellent team work.

After Williams made a touchdown early in the first half the visitors were unable to gain. No long runs were made on either side. The last play made by Amherst fell short of a touchdown by four inches. Hybbard and Rollins did the best work for the home team, while Watson, Murray, and Marshall excelled for Williams. Lineup:

NORTHWESTERN CADETS EXCEL.

Defeat Armour Academy in Their Final Football Game by a Score of Twenty to Six.

The Northwestern Military academy eleven yesterday wound up its season with a victory over the Armour academy team by a score of 20 to 6. The game was played at Highland Park.

The Armour boys were the first to score, receiving the ball on the kickoff and driving it across the field by steady bucking. The cadets, however, braced after this and offered a hard resistance, while their offense was good. In the latter department Quarter Back Meyer excelled, while Gooding, Tomhagen, and Ward were nearly as effective. Gooding ran back a punt sixty yards for a touchdown just before time was called. Marble, Yule, and Stanfield were strong in the line. For Armour, Du Plessis, MacCarthy, and Geist showed up particularly well.

Darkness cut short the second half. Lineup:

WILL DECLINE MICHIGAN GAME.

Yale Football Authorities to Reduce Next Year's Schedule Instead of Increasing It—Final Practice.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The coming visit of Coach Yost, Director Baird, and Trainer Keene Fitzpatrick of the University of Michigan on Saturday is not expected to relate to a game this year, but to a possible contest next season. It can be stated, however, that Yale will arrange no such match. Yale must drop one of its hard games another season. To play West Point, Columbia, Princeton, and Harvard another year seems impracticable, and taking on Michigan is an impossibility.

Yale's football practice for the season of 1904 closed today with a short but sharp half against the second eleven, most of which was in secret. The players appeared to be in fine condition, with the possible exception of Leavenworth, who has a muscle bruise. There is some doubt about his starting against Harvard next Saturday, and Morse, who was certain of right half back when he was injured in the Columbia game, may be given the position.

The advance guard of the Harvard team, consisting of cooks and assistants, is at the Pequot house, Morris Cove, and will be joined by the full squad tomorrow.

Yale hopes are rising solidly and Harvard rooters want such ridiculous odds as 4 and even 5 to 1. Some Yale men have offered odds of 3 to 2, but will not go a notch beyond this.

FINAL PRACTICE AT HARVARD.

Crimson Eleven Starts Today for New Haven Ready for Last Game of Its Season.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The Harvard varsity eleven had its last hard practice of the season today. Tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock they will start for Morris Cove, just outside of New Haven, where the squad will be quartered until a short time before the game with the "Elis."

The work today was light, the varsity being pitted against the freshman eleven. Three touchdowns were made in ten minutes. From present indications Harvard will line up on Saturday as follows:

More than 3,000 students participated in a demonstration this afternoon in the stadium, and all sorts of encouragement was given the varsity. Each member of the squad was cheered, and Harvard's new stock of songs was heard. The squad starting tomorrow for New Haven consists of the following men:

Ends, Randall, Montgomery, Leatherbee, Matthews, Pruyan, and Whitman; tackles, Brill, Meier, Carr, Oveson, Derby, Paul, and Jones; guards, McFadon, Squires, White, and Schoenfuss; centers, Parker, Paskinson, and Cunniff; quarter backs, Starr, Noyes, Kernan; half backs, Capt. Hurley, Sperry, Nichols, Foster, Wendell, and Nesmith; full backs, Mills, Hanley, and Osborne.

NORTH DIVISION PLAYS TODAY.

High School Leaders Will Try to Run Up a Big Score Against English High.

North Division, weakened by last Saturday's championship game with Englewood, will take on the English High team at the West End park, West Madison street and Forty-eighth avenue, this afternoon, and will try to run up a larger score on the west siders than the one made by Englewood a few weeks ago. The game was originally scheduled for the 26th, but the date was changed by agreement.

The English High boys have had a long rest since their game with Oak Park and are now in the best of shape, which gives rise to hopes among the west side rooters that they may be able to show a better total than the Hyde Parkers found possible with the north siders.

Although the game with Phillips Exeter academy has fallen through, Manager Caul is not yet willing to give up hopes for an eastern game. He still has several good offers on hand, mostly from the high schools of Boston and New York. Two good western games are on the north side schedule, one being at Rockford on Saturday and the other with Champaign High for Thanksgiving day. It has not been decided whether the last game will be played on local grounds or at the college town.

Morgan Park academy has challenged North Division to a game to decide the preparatory school championship of the west.

Both teams are undefeated, and the game, if arranged, would create great interest. Morgan Park has defeated the Chicago freshmen by the score of 17 to 0, while North Division succeeded in scoring only one touchdown on the freshmen.

Morgan Park challenged the north siders earlier in the season, but a game could not be arranged because of competing dates. Manager Bergquest has engaged Marshall field for the Saturday after Thanksgiving and both teams have that date vacant.

The showing made by these teams during the last season is about equal. North Division has defeated most of the high schools of the city and play Oak Park next Saturday to decide the championship of the city high schools. Morgan Park plays University High school for the inter-academic honors on Saturday, having defeated all of the other schools in the league. Morgan Park decisively defeated Cleveland University school recently at Cleveland.

BILLINGS MARE TIRES AND FAILS.

Lou Dillon Trots a Mile Against the Watch at Memphis in 2:01¼.

LAST EIGHTH IS SLOW.

Lack of Fitness Prevents Mare from Equaling Her Record of 2:01.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Lou Dillon failed this afternoon by one-quarter of a second to equal her world's record performance of 2:01, made Friday over the local track.

Her time by quarters was :30¼, :59, 1:29¼, and 2:01¼.

The official time on Friday was :30, :59¾, 1:30, 2:01.

Weather conditions were favorable to a record breaking performance, but track conditions were against it. The air was warm, and only a slight wind was stirring. The track, however, was decidedly brittle. The ground froze Sunday and Monday nights, and, as a result, the going was far from perfect. The mare's condition was also a little against the making of record breaking time. She has had a slight cold for nearly a week, and has been coughing a little during her work.

And it was also painfully evident to her supporters during the last eighth of the unsuccessful trial that she was short of work. She had all her speed up to the last eighth pole, and there she quit, with the record apparently well within her reach.

The mare appeared on the track shortly before 3 p. m., and Millard Sanders drove her, as he had done before all of her recent trials, a slow mile the reverse way of the track. Turning when he reached the fifty yard pole, he nodded for the word, and the mare went out against the record. To the quarter she did not seem to have quite her usual speed, but she began stepping out from that point, and covered the second quarter in :29¼. The runner did not pick her up at this point, as usual, but joined in the game at the far turn.

The third quarter was also reeled off in fine style, and the watches recorded :29¾ for this section of the journey. Here the mare was a full half second ahead of her time made on Friday, and was going well. All she had to do was to make the last quarter in :31½ to equal the world's record. But the best she could do was :31¾.

At the head of the homestretch it was evident Lou Dillon had had enough for the day. The shouts of her driver and the sting of the whip alike had no effect on her failing strength, for she wanted to stop. But she kept on and finished out the mile.

The official timers were George James, Ras Eckers, and Lafe Shaffer.

E. E. Smathers' offer of $10,000 to St. Joseph's hospital of this city in case the mare equaled 2:01 did not stand, as the offer was not accepted by Mr. Billings. Mr. Smathers' timers were present, but all of them were not in the timers' stand, in spite of the fact that they were invited to be there by the officials of the club.

Lou Dillon will go again tomorrow or Friday.

GOSSIP OF THE PUGILISTS.

Watita League Makes P. J. Carroll Instructor as Well as Matchmaker—Semi-Windup Booked.

The board of managers of the Watita league yesterday decided to make Manager P. J. Carroll instructor as well as matchmaker of the club, and all the affairs connected with the boxing shows of the club will be in his hands.

These stags will be held every two weeks and the plan is to allow each member of the club to bring three friends. Spectators without such invitations, it is stated, will not be admitted.

The semi-windup for the opening show next Tuesday night was arranged yesterday when Tommy Scully and Jimmy O'Boyle were matched at 112 pounds, 3 o'clock. The windup had already been secured in a match between Tommy Mowatt and Billy Finucane.

Harry Gilmore Jr., representing the Eagles of Superior, Wis., and Duluth, Minn., has arranged two boxing matches for the joint athletic exhibition which the Eagles of those two cities have planned for next month at Superior. The matches are between Mike Schreck and Jim Arnold of Hibbing, Minn., who will meet in the windup of twenty rounds, and Johnny Thompson of Sycamore and Billy Moore of Syracuse, who are to fight fifteen rounds.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Jack ("Twin") Sullivan has arrived in Los Angeles. Sullivan says Boston is a jay town—that they've gone back on him there and the only real place in the world is southern California.

"Twin" said: "This fight is going to be a better one than the first one, unless McCoy falls down. I am going to carry it to him."

"Twin's" brother Mike is with him. Both attended the ball game Sunday. "Kid" McCoy was there and the two men met. "Twin" said: "Hello, 'Kid.' When does the fight come off?" McCoy looked at him. "How are you? I don't talk shop on Sunday. So long."

Evangelists have frozen the pugilists out of Hazard's pavilion, but the Century club manager has secured quarters, although the place hasn't been made public.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Benny Yanger and Maurice Sayers, who fought a whirlwind six round draw here a few weeks ago, have been rematched by the Milwaukee Boxing club for a return engagement on Nov. 25. The conditions will duplicate the agreements of the former bout except that the weight is fixed at 130 pounds at 3 o'clock instead of 4 o'clock. The semi-windup bout will bring together Tom Wallace of Chicago and George Ryan of Milwaukee at 162 pounds.

Edgewater Club Retains Present Links

President J. C. Brocklebank of the Edgewater Golf club announced last night that he had signed a lease for another year on the property at present occupied by the club. This move will insure the club a course to play on next year. While negotiations for a larger course south of Calvary cemetery are going on, it would be difficult to get the new links ready for play next summer. The club will keep open as long as the weather permits, and during the last two weeks there has been a large turnout of members. George O'Neill, who was with the Midlothian club last season, left yesterday for his home in Ohio, before going to Pasadena, Cal.

Canadian Kickers Win at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 16.—The Galt team of Ontario today won the first game in the series to decide the association football championship of the Olympic games, defeating Christian Brothers' college team of St. Louis, 7 to 0. Goals were made by Hall [3], McDonald [2], Taylor [1], and Steep [1].

Carlisle and Haskell to Play.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 16.—Arrangements have been completed for a game of football to be played in the stadium at the world's fair between the Carlisle Indian school of Pennsylvania and the Haskell Indian school of Kansas on Nov. 26. It will be the first time gridiron representatives of the two government Indian schools have met.

Englewood to Play at Moline.

Moline, Ill., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Moline High school closed today with Englewood High school for a Thanksgiving football game at Moline. The game with Oak Park has been called off by the Chicago school's principal.

American Schuett Wins Again.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—At the Oxford freshmen sports today, W. E. Schuett, the Rhodes scholar of Cornell university, last week's winner of the half mile and mile runs, won the two mile run by fifteen yards. Time, 10:24 3-5.

Basketball Contests.

The Winona basketball team of the West Side Y. M. C. A. defeated the Lincoln Browns at the West Side gymnasium, 61 to 12. Baskets—Winonas: Fox [10], Thatch [8], Haber [6], Wilson, and Hoch [2]. Lincoln Browns: Hopes [2], R. Tess. Free throws—Winonas: Fox [6]. Lincoln Browns: Stotley [3], H. Tess [5].

The Hamilton (Ont.) basketball team has canceled games it had arranged with the Crescent Five of Evanston and the Central Y. M. C. A. Tonight the Central Y. M. C. A. will play the Crescents in Evanston, filling the date originally assigned to the Canadians.

The West Side Y. M. C. A. midgets last night defeated Chicago Commons at basketball at the west side gymnasium by a score of 45 to 10. Baskets were made by Garretson [6], Hall [2], Hubbs [3], Sangerman [4], Hitts [6], Narleson [3]. Free baskets were scored by Hitts [5], Narleson [4].

Cincinnati, 35; Tennessee, 0.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 16.—University of Cincinnati football eleven easily defeated University of Tennessee here today by a score of 35 to 0.

ABE FRANK IN TRAINING.

ONCE GREAT COLT IS SENT SOUTH WITH BENNETT STRING.

Shannon, the New Trainer for the Memphis Turfman, Thinks This Horse and Also Au Revoir and Aladdin Will Face the Starter—Jockey C. Phillips' Leg Is Broken—Bombardier Causes Surprise by Defeating Stroller in the Mud at Oakland.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—George C. Bennett's winter string, comprising everything he has ready to race in the near future, arrived here this morning in charge of their young trainer, Michael J. Shannon.

Shannon has brought back to usefulness a lot of horses that fell ailing in the hands of his predecessor. Abe Frank, Aladdin, Dan McKenna, and Au Revoir, supposed to be hopeless cripples, have been going soundly at Montgomery park, and are with the Bennett consignment. Abe Frank, whose get will be racing a year from now, never looked better. Bennett has named him for all the big handicaps. Little Scout is himself again, and Aladdin apparently has grown a new set of legs. In the lot are nine homebred coming 2 year olds, chiefly the get of King's Council and Lucky Dog.

Although the list of stakes of the Crescent City Jockey club has been reduced from twenty-two to seventeen, the aggregate of entries will be as great as last year. Yesterday's mail brought the average up to 110, against 83 last year. Morris Hayman of New York is the most liberal nominator. He will be represented by 109 entries. George Bennett has 82, Mose Goldblatt 80, John W. Schorr 36, and Barney Schreiber, who has never before raced here, 35.

Jack Phillips lost the temporary use of a promising jockey when his son Clyde went into the fence and came away with a fractured leg.

BOMBARDIER BEATS STROLLER.

Handicap at Oakland Produces a Surprise—Andrew B. Cook a Good Sprinter.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Owing to the early morning downpour of yesterday, mudlarks had an inning at Oakland today. The wise division fell hard when Bombardier smothered Stroller in the mile handicap.

The reputation of Brinkworth's horse as a mud runner preceded him to California, and the bettors jostled one another to get aboard. Bombardier, who has rounded into shape, raced out with Stroller for half a mile, and there was nothing to the contest after that. Bombardier won in the easiest possible style. It was Stroller's first start out here, and the horse was clearly not ready.

Big money was lost on Honiton, who was never able to catch Andrew B. Cook in the five furlong dash. The latter horse is showing to be a wonderful sprinter. He is a bay 3 year old colt by Brutus.

Conger caused a flutter of excitement by winning the first race at 30 to 1.

Weather clear; track slow. Summaries:

First race, 6 furlongs—Conger, 97 pounds [Herbert], 30 to 1, won; Blackthorne, 106 [J. T. Sheehan], 7 to 1, second; Molto, 102 [Knapp], 6 to 1, third. Time, 1:17¼. Libbie Candid, Lady Athling, Shorty Kane, Box Elder, Mosketo, Myrtle H., Karabel, and Vulcain ran.

BOWLERS BREAK SEASON'S RECORD

Choco Team Scores 1,129 Against Unos in the Lake View Tournament.

Rex Players Win Odd Game from Bensingers in the Chicago League.

Choco rollers of the Lake View league last night elevated the high team mark for the present season to 1,129, the best previous figures being 1,106, by the Columbian Knights team in the Chicago league.

The performance of the Choco men was meritorious, as they were the visiting teams on Rogman's alleys, which are generally considered hard. H. Medwtzky was the main factor in the big score with 279 and three other members of the quintet went over the double century. Medwtzky averaged 215, the team notching 983⅓ and twice defeating the Unos.

In the other series the Primas won the odd game from the Wetterhahns. Rex rollers, by taking one game from the Bensingers, caused the latter side to relinquish first place to the Hofmanns, who shut out the Tropics. Scores:

COMMY AND BAN RETURN HOME.

Baseball Nimrods Bring Back the "Limit" in the Way of Deer Meat.

Ban Johnson and C. A. Comiskey, champion Nimrods of the American league, returned yesterday from their hunting trip in northern Wisconsin, bringing with them the "goods" to prove their prowess with the rifle. They brought two deer apiece, the limit of venison allowed by the state, and assured their friends it would have been just as easy to bring a car load apiece if the game laws had permitted. That is how plentiful the deer are in Wisconsin this season, according to all accounts.

One of the four carcasses was immediately shipped to Garry Hermann of Cincinnati, chairman of the national commission, for distribution among mutual friends in Redville, which is President Johnson's former home. The hunters reported little snow in upper Wisconsin and weather so fine that it tempted them to stay longer.

President Johnson announced that the American league's annual meeting would be postponed until the first week in December, but would be held in Chicago, as originally planned.

In the pool tournament at Anson's last night Corbett defeated Church by a score of 75 to 52.

John J. Rooney has arranged a wrestling match with Henderson, a Swedish wrestler, to take place shortly in Waukegan.

Additional interest has been given to the visit of the Galt football team to Chicago by its easy victory over Christian Brothers' college in the Olympic championship at St. Louis yesterday. It looks as if the Canucks will win first honors in the tournament, in which event a win from the Wanderers will be highly creditable. The local eleven which will face the visitors at Parkside will be the strongest the cricketers have put in the field this year, and one of the best matches seen here for a long time is looked for.

SEAT MANGEN IN THE FEDERATION

After Hot Fight Chicago Man Defeats Gompers and Executive Leaders.

SCHARDT CASE UP TODAY.

Suspension of Local Labor Body Is Made Special Order of Business.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—There was a lively fight in the American Federation of Labor convention today over the seating of John Mangen, who came from Chicago, bearing credentials from the Gardeners and Florists' union. Many of the most eloquent orators in the convention took the floor and discussed the merits of the law bearing upon the credentials offered by Mangen, and in the end, by a close roll call vote, the leaders of the federation, embracing President Gompers and most of the members of the executive committee, were defeated, and Mangen was given his seat.

Decides an Old Issue.

The importance of this controversy is shown by the fact that by the seating of Mangen the issue that has been before the federation for four years was practically decided, and also a long step was taken in the direction of victory for the Chicago Federation of Labor, which is under suspension from the American federation.

The seating of William Schardt, president of the Chicago federation, has been put down as the second special order of the day tomorrow, and the action in the Mangen case will have a direct bearing upon it. A hard fight is sure to result.

Chicago Men in Debate.

The debate on Mangen's admission was breezy. A number of Chicago men took a prominent part in it. W. P. Spencer of the Plumbers' International union strongly opposed the seating of Mangen. He reviewed the fight in Chicago between the steamfitters and the plumbers and showed why Mangen, who had been at the bottom of the refusal to affiliate, should not be recognized now, especially when he claimed recognition by using credentials of the Florists and Gardeners' union. D. A. Hayes, president of the International Glass Bottle Blowers' union, also opposed Mangen.

D. G. Ramsey of the Telegraphers' union made a rattling speech in favor of seating Mangen. He said telegraphy was not the only kind of work in which he was versed and he believed that every man had the option of changing his trade whenever he saw fit.

Vote for Mangen Close.

"And they talk about this man being in politics in Chicago," he added, "and urge it as a reason why he should not be seated. Why, Mr. Chairman, if I had my way I would make you president of the United States."

There was a ripple of applause at this sally, but the house came down when Gompers responded: "You wouldn't do anything of the kind."

Fitzpatrick of the Horseshoers' union also supported Mangen. The total vote cast was 15,000, of which 7,652 were yeas and 7,357 nays.

Barney Cohen, who came with credentials of the Kewanee (Ill.) Trades and Labor assembly, withdrew his credentials, as it was apparent that the convention would deny him his seat.

Resolutions Introduced.

After these stirring proceedings the convention adjourned until 9 o'clock tomorrow. During the afternoon the resolutions submitted were considered by the various committees. They covered a wide variety of subjects.

The Upholsterers' International Union of America presented a resolution calling for a boycott upon the furniture manufacturers of Grand Rapids, Mich. The United Garment Workers asked for a reaffirmation of the condemnation of all products of the exchange. Several delegates drafted resolutions calling for the circulation of petitions to be presented to congress in favor of the initiative and referendum.

Charges Against Gompers.

Charges and specifications were filed against Samuel Gompers, president; Frank Morrison, secretary; and the executive council for their action in September, 1903, in issuing a charter to the bridge, stone and iron workers.

The City Firemen's Protective association of Pittsburg, Pa., introduced a resolution instructing the American Federation of Labor to make an effort to organize the fire departments throughout the country. Norris Brown, on behalf of the Central Federated union of New York, introduced a resolution asking the American Federation of Labor to take steps regarding the checking and eradication of tuberculosis.

TAKES NEW UNIVERSITY OFFICE

Many Educators Attend Inauguration of Dr. Charles W. Dabney as Head of Cincinnati Institution.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 16.—The inauguration of Dr. Charles W. Dabney today as president of the University of Cincinnati was largely attended. Presidents of universities and colleges, and leading educators from all parts of the country were present. Addresses of welcome were made by Mayor Fleischmann and others.

Mr. Dabney in his inaugural address discussed "Democracy and the School," holding that the four institutions which make for civilization are the home, the school, the state, and the church.

Other addresses were by John Huston Finley, president of the College of the City of New York; Judge Rufus B. Smith, William H. Welshe of Johns Hopkins university, Henry Smith Pritchard, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and by Jacob Gould Schurman, president of Cornell university.

In the evening 400 guests attended the inauguration banquet at the Phœnix club. Dr. Albert Shaw of New York, Judge Judson Harmon of Cincinnati, and Prof. Charles F. Thwing were among those who responded to toasts.

NEWS PURELY PERSONAL.

COL. SOWTON and Mrs. Sowton, who have been in charge of the Salvation army forces in Chicago, have been appointed by Gen. Booth to take command of the work in Denmark. They will leave Chicago at noon today. Before coming to America, Col. and Mrs. Sowton served twelve years in Denmark, Norway and Sweden. They have been in Chicago four years.

DR. ANITA NEWCOMB McGEE, president of the Association of Spanish-American War Nurses, who for over a year has been caring for sick and wounded Japanese and Russians in the mikado's hospitals, and aboard the imperial hospital ships, has arrived at San Francisco.

J. S. CHAPMAN, superintendent of the American Anti-Saloon league in southern California, declared at the league convention at Columbus, O., that the league would noever succeed until it takes the stand that the liquor traffic is not a business but a crime.

SECRETARY METCALF of the department of commerce and labor has returned to Washington from Oakland, Cal., where he went to vote.

Intended Victim of Court Murder.

MRS. CARRIE SHYCK.

After attempting to murder his wife, her sister, and his infant son, in the West Chicago avenue police court, yesterday morning, Charles Shyck turned his revolver upon himself and committed suicide.

Shyck, who was 35 years old and a saloonkeeper at 585 Holt street, was to have been arraigned on a charge of assault made by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Lillie Sanborn, who in court held his son, Harry, 2 years old. His wife, Mrs. Carrie Shyck, was sitting beside him, as was Mrs. Sanborn.

Just before the case was called Shyck suddenly arose and fired at his wife. The bullet missed her and struck his son in the right hand. Mrs. Shyck fell in a faint. Apparently thinking he had killed her, Shyck turned to Mrs. Sanborn, but she, too, had fainted, falling with the baby to the floor. It is believed Shyck thought he had murdered all three, and when spectators rushed up he placed the revolver in his mouth and killed himself.

The shooting caused a panic in the court. Mrs. Carrie Schwockow, 182 Edgemont avenue; her daughter, Edith Schwockow; and Mrs. M. Horner, 556 Holt street, fainted in the rush for safety, and were trampled upon.

way company, was more explicit concerning the intentions of the governor.

"Gov. Peabody," said he, "is standing pat because it is his duty. But he will not retain the office unless the people are satisfied that he was legally elected. In any case, there will be no violence and no anarchy. There has undoubtedly been grievous fraud in the city election. Gov. Peabody probably carried Denver county by a plurality ranging from 8,000 to 10,000. There was wholesale repeating by democrats, and instances of ballot box stuffing by republicans."

Many Lose Their Votes.

F. A. Williams, chairman of the republican city committee, said that an average of 204 votes had been disfranchised in each of the wards of the city—ten by having their names taken from the register, ten by having their names vetoed by election judges, and ten by having a cross placed fraudulently opposite the name of Adams.

The democrats charge that republicans bought registration clerks and fraudulently registered between 10,000 and 15,000 names on Capital hill, and that they voted between 5,000 and 6,000 names by repeaters. Democrats also allege expenditure of thousands of dollars, intimidation of voters, and coercion of voters employed by the state.

The republicans today engaged Henry J. Hersey, former assistant to the attorney general, to prosecute election frauds. He is regarded as an authority on election laws. He will open downtown offices at once, and inaugurate a series of legal actions against illegal voters.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Takes Over Wholesale Grocery.—Arrangements were completed yesterday by the Steele-Wedeles company, 179 South Water street, to take over the business of the Stevenson & Gross Grocery company, 206 Kinzie street, now in voluntary liquidation. The market price for stock will be paid. W. B. Stevenson will be in charge of a department in the Steele-Wedeles company. His salesmen will be retained. The Stevenson & Gross Grocery company was incorporated several years ago with $100,000 capital. The Steele-Wedeles company absorbed Philip Jaeger & Co. last year.

Heiress Accuses Uncle.—Miss Jeanette G. Campbell, Oak Park, asked the Circuit court yesterday for the appointment of a receiver for the Christoval apartment building, Fortieth street and Cottage Grove avenue. She accuses her uncle, Henry T. Glover, of deceiving her and her sister, Mrs. Howard F. Chappell, as to the value of their interest in the estate left by their father, of which Glover was executor.

Saloon Man Tries Mandamus.—P. J. O'Hare, the saloonkeeper at 963 East Fifty-first street, whose license was revoked on the application of the Hyde Park Protective association, began mandamus proceedings yesterday to compel the mayor to reconsider his action. The man was accused of violating the wineroom ordinance.

"Fainting Bertha" in Asylum.—Bertha Liebeke, known to the police as "Fainting Bertha," was sent yesterday to the Kankakee asylum for the insane. She was arrested on a shoplifting charge. It is said she is an adept at pretending to faint whenever in trouble or in a crowd where it is possible to appropriate small articles.

Commercial Men to Banquet.—Richard C. Hall, 219 Franklin street, in charge of arrangements, announced yesterday that all wholesalers and jobbers, whether they have received invitations or not, will be welcomed at the Chicago Commercial association banquet at the Auditorium next Tuesday.

Fined for Mistreating a Horse.—John Hanley, an expressman at Forty-second and State streets, was fined $5 and costs by Justice Quinn yesterday for mistreating a horse. Miss Eugenie Mason, 6526 Kimbark avenue, a member of the Illinois Humane society, was the complainant.

Newsboys' Dinner Next Week.—Isaac Woolf's annual Thanksgiving dinner for the newsboys of Chicago will be given at the clothing store, State and Monroe streets, next Wednesday evening.

Mrs. W. H. Bartlett Near Death.—Word was received in Evanston yesterday that Mrs. W. H. Bartlett, who was taken to Colorado in a critical condition from pneumonia, is not expected to live.

BIG LABOR WAR MAY OPEN TODAY

Trouble Between Furniture Manufacturers and Drivers to Start It.

ALL TEAMSTERS TO JOIN.

Employers' Association Supposed to Be Backing Fight on Signed Scale.

Strained relations between twenty big furniture manufacturers and their drivers are expected to reach a crisis today and both employers and employés are anxiously watching for a move which may precipitate a great struggle between the Chicago Employers' association and the teamsters' unions of the city.

The situation, which has been serious for three weeks, became more grave yesterday when the Furniture Manufacturers' association failed to comply with the demands of the drivers' union for signed wage contracts for the coming year. Three conferences of the manufacturers were held, the last one ending late at night, without definite results.

Secrecy surrounded the councils of the employers. The only member of the association who would talk, A. P. Johnson of the Johnson Chair company, expressed an opinion which added to the suspicion that the furniture men were preparing for a war on the union organization.

Looks for a Fight.

"While no definite action has been taken, I think that a fight between the employers and their drivers is at hand," said Mr. Johnson.

Secretary Reed of the Furniture Drivers and Helpers' union prophesied a struggle which would affect every union in the city.

"We have been expecting the employers' association to cast the die before this," said he. "If the furniture manufacturers do not grant our demand for signed contracts, the fight will not be confined to our union, but will include all the teamsters in the city."

The membership of the Furniture Drivers' union is scarcely 500, and a strike against the twenty firms in the association would involve no more than 100 men. All the other teamsters' unions, however, are watching closely the attitude of the furniture manufacturers, inasmuch as twenty-five other unions will be attempting to secure signed contracts from their employers within the next two months.

Threats were made by Secretary Reed and Business Agent Cook of the drivers' union that the first move of the employers to place nonunion men on their wagons would be met by concerted action on the part of the various teamsters' locals. Reed declared that blacklists would be furnished every union and that nonunion wagons would have difficulty in moving through the streets.

Secretary Job Talks of Contest.

Secretary Fred W. Job of the Chicago Employers' association, at whose instance the furniture manufacturers were advised not to sign the contracts, was noncommittal on the prospect for a bitter fight.

"I can't say now what will be done, but I do not fear the issue should we enter into a contest with the teamsters. The teamsters are not so strong as they were in 1902, when they carried on an active strike."

Police surrounded the factory of the Johnson Chair company, at Chicago avenue and Green street, to prevent any violence on the part of the teamsters who are now on strike there. Fifty members of the Furniture Drivers' union were picketed about the plant. No attempt was made by the firm to move wagons.

President Shaffer of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers arrived in Chicago yesterday on his way to the convention of the American Federation of Labor now in session in San Francisco.

NONUNION WORKER SLUGGED.

Charles Raymond, Machinist, Attacked by Gang at Clark and Division Streets.

Another nonunion machinist was the victim of slugging last night, when a crowd of assailants, supposed to be striking union machinists, attacked and beat Charles Raymond at Clark and Division streets. Raymond's brother, George, who was with him, was pinioned and made to witness the assault, but was not himself injured. Both men are employed at the plant of the Covell Manufacturing company.

Stating that many of their members were suffering from want of sick benefits, officials of the Livery Drivers' union appeared before Judge Kavanagh and sought to have the injunction tying up the $2,000 funds of the union dissolved. The judge advised the union officials to file an answer to the petition on which the restraining order was granted, and promised an early hearing.

AGED MINISTER NEAR DEATH.

The Rev. Moses Smith, Chicago Pastor in 1869, Critically Ill at 115 South Leavitt Street.

The Rev. Moses Smith, a pioneer minister of Chicago, is near death at his residence, 115 South Leavitt street. Mr. Smith is 74 years old, and his illness is due to exhaustion.

In 1869 Mr. Smith came to Chicago as pastor of the Leavitt Street Congregational church. In 1874 he was called to Jackson, Mich., and from there to the Woodland Congregational church, Detroit. The latter's property was sold under a mortgage, and within two years Mr. Smith raised $27,500 with which to repurchase the church. In 1888 he went to Glencoe, Ill., but in 1897 his sight failed and he returned to Chicago. Mr. Smith a few years ago established and built a church at Garden Prairie, Ill.

The clergyman was chaplain of the Eighth Connecticut infantry during the civil war, and there he contracted eye trouble. He was born in Hebron, Conn., and was graduated from Yale in 1852. Mr. Smith has been a director of the Chicago Theological seminary.

PIONEER BUTTON MAKER DEAD.

John A. Conly, Founder of First Business in Kind in West, Succumbs to Apoplexy.

John A. Conley, a pioneer in the button manufacturing business in the west, died yesterday at his residence, 36 East Forty-second place, from a stroke of apoplexy which he suffered on Tuesday.

Mr. Conly was born in Albany, N. Y., in 1845, and came to Chicago in 1884. He established the first button business in the west, starting in a modest way. The business, the headquarters of which is at 28 Sherman street, now is among the greatest specialty business in this part of the country.

Mr. Conly was a member of the Washington Park club. He is survived by a widow and son, Harry F. Conly, who succeeds to the management of the business. The funeral will be from the late residence at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Removes Postoffice Employe.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—Postmaster General Wynne today removed from office D. M. Monroe of Wisconsin, a stenographer in the office of the first assistant postmaster general. The cause assigned was insubordination and the writing of communications to the late Postmaster General Payne criticising his superiors in the department.

THE VOTE IN ILLINOIS.

The official canvass of the returns of the late election has been completed in all Illinois counties except Cook and Peoria. On these official figures and the unofficial returns from Cook and Peoria Roosevelt receives a plurality of 300,779 and Deneen a plurality of 296,365. The total vote for each, however, shows Deneen received 629,778 and Roosevelt 628,024, Deneen leading by 1,754 votes.

With Peoria and Cook unofficial the charter amendment receives a majority of 130,937.

Using the unofficial returns for Cook and Peoria the total vote of the state was 1,075,734, as compared with 1,131,894 four years ago.

STRIFE FOR WARDS NEAR.

REPUBLICANS TO FIGHT FOR THE CONTROL ON NOV. 29.

Elections of Officers of Campaign Clubs in Each Section of the City Will Determine the Mastery—Old and New Leaders Prepare for Contest — Deneen Forces Win Far Reaching Victory Over Lorimer-Hanecy-Jamieson Combination.

The contests of the bosses that marked the republican precinct club elections Tuesday night were only light skirmishes compared with the real struggles for mastery that will take place a week from next Tuesday at the ward club elections. The precinct elections gave hints of the alignment of the forces, and already the leaders are forming for the fray.

The outcome of the ward club elections is looked upon as establishing the drift of political power in the different quarters of Chicago. While all day yesterday the Blount and Moxley factions in the Thirteenth and Twentieth wards were claiming the victory by a small majority of precincts, both were making plans to capture the ward organizations. Each faction will have a number of precinct contests to file with the ward executive committee. It is likely there will be appeals to the ward clubs, then to the county executive committee, and finally to the full county committee.

Big Victory for Deneen Men.

The day served to impress the leaders that the Deneen forces had won a far reaching victory. The influence of the Lorimer-Hanecy-Jamieson following was obliterated in some spots and decreased in others. Leaders of the old organization will make a last desperate stand around Jamieson when the president of the Sixth Ward club is elected. County Committeeman John R. Thompson announced he had won the precinct fight, but this is disputed.

Judge Hanecy, it appears, came off better than any of the other members of the Lorimer crowd, but there are signs of a hard fight on his faction for control of the Second Ward club. Noble B. Judah will be the Hanecy candidate.

Chairman Reddick of the republican county committee punctured his boom for mayor. He said it was a kind of practical joke.

City Attorney John Smulski was incorrectly reported as being defeated in the Second precinct of the Twenty-eighth ward. His name was not presented. Oscar Torrison was unanimously chosen president.

Burke Case Again in Court.

Acting Corporation Counsel Sexton gave Judge Brentano an opportunity finally to settle the old trouble between the two factions of the County Democracy. Acting for Ernst Hummel, treasurer for both factions, and receiver for the County Democracy, Mr. Sexton filed a petition asking the court to appoint the receiver, or some other disinterested person, to conduct an election of the organization Dec. 4 at the clubrooms. The Robert E. Burke party made objection, however, and the judge postponed his decision for five days.

CANVASS SHOWS M'GOORTY SAFE

His Plurality Over Stewart Is Increased from 209 to 1,623 Votes.

Final official figures from the election board's office remove all doubt whether McGoorty or Stewart won in the Fifth senatorial district. The police returns showed a difference of only 209 votes between them, while the official returns yesterday increased this to 1,623, giving McGoorty 15,117½, against 13,494½ for Stewart.

Changes were made in Roosevelt's figures. He gained 111 in the Eighth and 182 in the Ninth ward. Parker lost 847 votes in the Sixth ward, but despite Roosevelt's increase Parker also gained 106 in the Ninth ward, losing 77 in the Eighth. Debs' vote was reduced again in the Fifth ward by 927 votes, almost half of the votes cast for him in that section. The greatest change in the governor's ticket was a gain of 175 votes for Deneen.

DRINKS LIQUOR ON A BET: DIES, AND THE WIDOW SUES.

Mrs. Mary Mader, 180 West Division Street, Asks $10,000 from Saloonmen Under Dramshop Act.

Mrs. Mary Mader, 180 West Division street, a widow with three small children, is suing nuder the dramshop act in the Superior court to recover $10,000 from the men she charges with causing the death of her husband through intoxication.

Charles A. Churan, counsel for the plaintiff, said yesterday that Julian Mader, the husband, was a hard working man, and, although not altogether temperate, did not drink to excess. Nov. 17 of last year his landlord, Frank Filipski, 19 Clorinda street, was celebrating an event of some kind, according to the lawyer, and he induced Mader to assist him in his brother's saloon at Correll and Holst streets. Here the two drank together, it is said, and Filipski bet his new assistant the latter could not drink a certain quantity of liquor. A large glass was filled, and when it was emptied another took its place, and finally Mader had to be taken from the saloon. The following day, just a year ago today, he died from the effects of the liquor, it is declared.

"The man was given a large beer glass full of whisky, and as soon as that was empty it was refilled," said Churan.

The suit is against John Filipski, owner of the saloon, Frank Filipski, his brother, Joseph Kalas, and an unknown person as owners of the building.

KESNER TO REMAIN AT FAIR.

General Manager Says Rumor of His Retirement in Favor of H. G. Selfridge Is Untrue.

Rumors of changes in the management of the Fair store, involving the retirement of Jacob L. Kesner as general manager and the appointment of Harry G. Selfridge as his successor, are declared by Mr. Kesner to be unfounded.

"Mr. Selfridge is not coming into the Fair management, and I am not going to retire," said he.

"There will be no change in the business other than increasing the size of the building two stories."

CANADIAN AND AMERICAN TARIFFS.

There is to be a general revision of the Canadian tariff. The Laurier government promised one if retained in power, and will keep the promise. It is intimated that duties on American products will not be advanced on the average, but the manufacturers of the dominion are clamoring for higher protection, and their influence as regards the shaping of legislation is increasing.

There will be no haste about the work of revision. A tariff commission has been created which is to investigate the subject and submit a report to the dominion parliament. It hardly will take action before the winter of 1906.

Prior to that time the American tariff should be revised in such a manner as to strengthen that element in Canada which is opposed to the raising of higher tariff barriers against American products. The Canadians assert that the United States customs duties are higher than theirs, and that it would not be surprising if they were to retaliate. The following table giving the respective duties on certain products shows that the assertion is not unfounded:

	United States.	Canada.
Wheat, per bushel	25c	12c
Oats, per bushel	15c	10c
Hops, per pound	12c	6c
Potatoes, per bushel	25c	15c
Butter, per pound	6c	4c
Cheese, per pound	6c	3c
Eggs, per dozen	5c	3c
Corn, per bushel	15c	Free

The effect of the higher American duties has been to drive Canadians to find markets for their agricultural and dairy products in England. In that they have been quite successful. They have been alienated from the United States. They have been led to give tariff preferences to British manufacturers. They would not have done so if they had had more free access to the American market. If that access is not afforded Canadian and British trade and other relations will become more intimate. The Canadians will be more favorably inclined toward Mr. Chamberlain's imperial projects.

The next congress, with or without an extra session, will be able to deal with the tariff question sooner than the dominion parliament can. Congress can, if it pleases, without injuring one American interest, take the wind out of the sails of the Canadians who are crying out for retaliation and ultra protection. By being conciliatory and reasonable it can prevent an upward revision of the Canadian tariff, which cannot be beneficial to American trade.

"The expansion of our trade and commerce," said President McKinley at Buffalo, "is the pressing problem. A policy of good will and friendly trade relations will prevent reprisals." The Fifty-ninth congress will have it in its power to initiate such a policy as regards Canada by an intelligent revision of a few tariff schedules.

THE NEW CHARTER.

The executive committee of the charter convention has appointed three of its members to choose from among the municipal experts of Chicago a number best qualified to draft a comprehensive charter. There are three experts, though they do not pose as such, who cannot properly be passed by. They are Gov.-elect Deneen, Mayor Harrison, and Corporation Counsel Tolman. They are practical, experienced men.

In framing a new charter two things have to be considered. One is whether additional powers shall be granted to the municipal government. The other is: How shall the machinery of government be adjusted and modified so that it may run more smoothly. That is a subject about which those who are most familiar with the working of the existing machinery are best qualified to speak.

Here is where Mayor Harrison's services will be of special value. He knows where there is friction now and how it can most easily be remedied. The administrative methods which should be introduced when the board of education and the parks lose their independent positions can be better devised by the mayor, the corporation counsel, and an experienced alderman who has served on the finance committee than by anybody else.

When the question of organizing municipal courts is taken up few men can speak more authoritatively than Mr. Deneen, not so much because he is to be governor and will have influence with the legislature but because of his legal experience. He has been state's attorney for eight years. He knows the defects of the justice court system, and can outline a petty court's system which will not be too exalted or expensive and will do justice honestly, cheaply, and quickly.

Now, as to the additional powers which it has been suggested shall be conferred on the city. There are some of them which corporations do not desire to see embodied in a new charter, while the people may. If a charter were to be drafted which failed to meet in this respect the reasonable wishes of the people they would be only too apt—even though unjustly—to ascribe the omission to improper motives.

Therefore it is highly expedient that the body to which the drafting of the charter is intrusted shall not be open to attack on that score.

YOUR TURN NOW, SOLID SOUTH.

The following table gives the negro population in 1900 of the southern states which have given Judge Parker solid electoral votes and the number of representatives in congress and presidential electors which each of those states has because of that population.

State.	Negro popu.	Reps.	Electors.
Arkansas	366,856	2	3
Alabama	827,307	4	11
Florida	230,730	1	4
Georgia	1,034,813	5	13
Kentucky	284,706	1	13
Louisiana	650,804	3	8
Mississippi	907,630	4	9
North Carolina	624,469	3	11
South Carolina	782,321	4	9
Tennessee	480,243	4	12
Texas	620,722	3	18
Virginia	660,722	4	12
Totals	7,471,333	38	113

Because 7,471,333 blacks live in the twelve states which voted for Parker those states have 101 representatives in congress instead of sixty-three, and were enabled to give Judge Parker the larger instead of the smaller number of electoral votes. But the south will not permit those to whom it owes so much political or governmental strength to vote for representatives or electors. It takes the ground that they are half within and half without the body politic—within it when representatives are to be "apportioned among the several states," but without it when national elections are held.

At by-elections, at elections where anti-liquor laws are voted on, southerners often have solicited negro votes. Prominent colored clergymen and educators have been urged to take the platform and plead with their people in behalf of prohibition. When national or state elections are held the negro is warned to keep away from the ballot box.

This position is illogical, unconstitutional, unfair. It cannot be defended in the arena of reason. But indefensible as it is, the great majority of the northern people are at this time ready to accept the situation, unfair to them as it is—on one condition. They do not wish to be accused of stirring up sectional strife. They have heard enough of the "race issue" in the last thirty years and are weary of it. They have none but the kindliest feelings towards their southern brethren and wish to live in peace with them even if they have to sacrifice logic and a little political power to do it.

That one condition is that the solid south shall dissolve—that it shall cease being sectional in national and state politics. Since 1876 it has voted persistently for the candidates of one party no matter what the doctrines of that party happened to be. It has been for fiat money, for free silver—for every yellow dog of an ism which has been espoused by the political organization which it has followed blindly and stubbornly.

Sectionalism provokes sectionalism. The sectional attitude of the south necessarily has its reflex effect. Whatever solidity there is in the north is of southern making. The southern method of counting negroes for one purpose and not allowing them to be counted for another is all the more irritating because it is always for the benefit of one and the same party.

All the north asks of the south is that its unwholesome political solidarity shall end and that southerners shall divide on economic and other national issues as northern men do. When the southern states cease to be a unit on national questions the north will recognize the signs of a healthy political life, and will overlook the over-representation of that part of the union.

There will be no legislation which the south can call unfriendly, and it will be let alone in the settlement of its local problems if it will begin to think for itself politically instead of allowing the national convention of one party to tell it what it shall believe and for whom it shall vote.

If the south shall keep on in its old way then assuredly the day will come when the north, unmoved by protests or threats, will put an end to the anomalous position of the blacks of the south. It will say that if they are not to vote they must not be counted as a part of the basis of representation. That will be logical, constitutional, and equitable.

BEATEN BREEDS.

In an article in the Independent on the "Value Rank of the American People" Mr. Edward A. Ross looks with some concern on the flood of immigration which now and aristocracy, in which the native traits are carefully guarded from contamination with vulgar blood; there are the hybrids, the result of selected inter-marriage between noble but rival houses; there are hardy outdoor work-a-day toilers in gardens; and there are hothouse, pampered votaries of idleness with no sense of the value of a dollar. Some flowers are so strangely modified that their humble ancestors could scarcely recognize them, or would care to if they could. Parasites and grafters are there; dwellers of the tropics, denizens of the cold north.

There are chrysanthemums which are fluffy and frousy, with their hair in their eyes, excitable, loquacious, telling all they know; others are tidy and immaculate in coiffure, reserved, wrapped in self-communion. There is Mme. Cahuzac and Merza, white as polar snows, grand dames before whom the hat is instinctively removed. There are blushing brunettes with red or bronze complexions; yellow blondes which shade either lighter or darker than Maj. Bonnaffon; delicate pinks, either darker or lighter in tone than Viviand Morel.

With all the luxuriant colors of the orchids they are yet pathetic with the fatal gift of beauty. While they breathe the romance of southern skies, casement windows, and moonlight elopements, there is a touch of tragedy lurking about that "beauty too rich for use, for earth too dear," which brings to mind the ill-fated passion of Juliet for her Montague. Flowers like orchids are apt to experience sooner or later some sad awakening from love's young dream.

One should go to the show to see what the plants and flowers can make of themselves when provided with private tutors, glass houses, and imported foods, and are carefully brought in off the streets at night when the curfew rings.

The Hon. Tom Taggart is preparing to put in his best French Licks against any scheme of reorganizing the democratic party.

A correspondent of the New York Sun wants to vote for Douglas and Johnson in 1908. There was a Douglas and Johnson ticket in the field something like forty-four years ago, but if we remember rightly it didn't win.

If the returns from Pennsylvania are all in, the man with the lump of chalk will proceed to mark the score on the elevated blackboard.

Pierre, S. D., remains the state capital, but Sioux Falls will continue to be South Dakota's best advertised town.

Col. Watterson, we fear, is not alive to the danger lurking concealed in Mr. Roosevelt's declaration that he will not be a candidate for president in 1908. By that time the presidency will have been abolished, and Roosevelt will announce himself emperor. Up and at him, colonel!

The editor of the New York Herald is doing Jerusalem. If the Jerusalemites find him out they will make his sojourn there one grand, sweet song of backsheesh.

Gov. Dockery makes it plain that his indorsement of the president's Thanksgiving proclamation is merely perfunctory.

It appears to be the idea in European diplomatic circles that John Hay is really too big a man to be a president of the United States.

Football Tragedy.

On the bloody gridiron the two teams, evenly matched, contended for the mastery.
The game was nearly over. The score stood 0 to 0, and the spectators in the grand stand were wild with excitement.
Suddenly a shrill, piercing, agonizing, appalling, insistent shriek rose high above the din.
The people in the grand stand rose to their feet and craned their necks.
Whence came that wild, maddening scream?
None could tell.
Still it pealed through the atmosphere.
The struggling athletes paused an instant and looked around in affright.
All but the self-possessed young man who had the ball.
Seeing the way clear, he ran around the end, scored a touchdown, and the game was won.
Then the agonizing shriek stopped.
But whence came it?
Listen, and you shall hear.
Boys on the outside of the grounds had caught a half grown pig, tied a rope around his hind feet, and strung him up on a stout nail in the fence.
Thus had one lone rooter accomplished what all the others had failed to do.

That's all we was willing to bet when we heard that Bill Bryan was going to make speeches for Parker.
We hain't forgot that we bet a good squirrel dog on Bryan once when he was running for president. We lost. Best squirrel dog in the United States, too. Darn Bryan!
We thought something was going wrong when Clayt Honeysuckle and old John Phillips came to town last Saturday and didn't get drunk, but we didn't think it was going to be as bad as all that.
Last week we said the country might go republican, but there would be one green spot on earth, by ginger! Old Missouri would whoop 'er up for Parker, all right. You could gamble on that. Will some kind friend go out in his punkin patch and see if he can't find a punkin that's been frosted good and hard and has got soft and nice and meller? Will he put that punkin in a gunnysack and come here to our office and swipe us over our blamed head with it?

Exaggerated.

"What's this story about Archie Feathertop taking his automobile apart to see what it was made of?"
"Only partly true. It wasn't working right, and he took it apart—into a fence corner, where he could swear at it undisturbed."

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Copyright: 1904: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

LORD ARDEE, who has just arrived here for a prolonged visit, is the eldest son and heir of Lord and Lady Meath, his father, besides being the head of the illustrious house of Brabazon, enjoying the reputation of being probably the most useful member of the upper house of the British legislature at Westminster. Both the earl and the countess, as well as their younger son, the Hon. Arthur Brabazon, are frequent visitors to the United States, where they have friends sufficient in number to insure a warm welcome to Lord Ardee, who is by profession a soldier and unmarried.

Lord Meath and his countess have originated and organized no end of philanthropic enterprises. Among these are the Young Men's Friendly society, the Girls' Friendly society, each of which has a membership of over 50,000; the Ministering Children's league, with its membership of 100,000 pledged to do at least one act of kindness a day and maintaining a large number of homes for destitute children; the Society for Physical Education, the so-called Metropolitan Public Gardens association, the object of which is to convert plats of waste ground, gloomy churchyards, and desolate squares in London into cheerful playgrounds and shady gardens for the benefit of the poor; the Brabazon Home for Young Women in Business, the Brabazon employment scheme, which finds congenial occupation for those old crippled or infirm inmates of workhouses who are reported as past work and are given over to Lord Meath's society to save them from dying of inertia; the society for providing trained attendants in workhouses, the Meath Homes of Comfort for Incurables and Epileptics, and heaven only knows how many other societies besides.

Lord Ardee, who is a subaltern of the Grenadier Guards and who distinguished himself in the war in South Africa, is actively interested in these societies, many of which have branches in this country. While the headquarters of all these philanthropic enterprises is at the earl's town house in Lancaster Gate, London, his ancestral home is at Killruddery house, near Bray, in county Wicklow, whence Sir Walter Scott, a frequent visitor at Killruddery, took his idea of the novel of "St. Ronan's Well."

Lord Meath, who has served in the diplomacy in his country as well as in the army, is descended from Jacques le Brabazon, surnamed "the great warrior," who, one of the principal lieutenants of William the Conqueror, has his name recorded on the roll of Battle Abbey. The wife of the fourth Earl Meath was the "Countess Doll" of Dean Swift, whose humorous epitaph on her and her second husband, Gen. Richard Gorges, entitled "Doll and Dickey," is well known.

Lady Meath is a daughter of the eleven Lord Lauderdale, a famous admiral in his day, and only distantly related to the present and thirteenth earl of Lauderdale, whose eldest son and daughter-in-law, the Viscount and Viscountess Maitland, have just arrived in this country. The eleventh and twelfth earls left all the property at their disposal away from the title, so that the present earl, who won distinction both as a soldier and as a political agent out in India, is far from being well off.

Viscountess Maitland, the daughter of an eminent judge, is a clever miniaturist, earns a considerable income by painting miniatures, and has, it is said, come to the United States, partly in connection with orders which she has received for the painting of miniatures of well known people on this side of the Atlantic.

The earl of Lauderdale recently came quite prominently before the public in connection with his claim to act as hereditary standard bearer of Scotland at the coronation of King Edward. The claim was not allowed by the coronation court of claims, but has since been awarded to the earl by the Court of Sessions of Scotland as the descendant and heir of the third earl of Lauderdale, upon whom King Charles II. conferred all the honors and estates of the earl of Dundee, these honors including the hereditary office of standard bearer.

King Edward, who always plays bridge after dinner, never permits more than six penny points at Windsor, Sandringham, and Buckingham palace. He does not, however, consider it necessary to adhere to this limit when he is playing at the houses of other people, and at Sir Ernest Cassel's (who, by the way, is now in this country) shilling points are customary when the king dines there. Sir Ernest's daughter, by the bye, Mrs. Wilfred Ashley, is famous as one of the best bridge players in London, and is a favorite partner of the king.

Merton, the old English country house of Great Britain's most famous admiral, Lord Nelson, and standing in some pleasant grounds of about thirteen acres in a picturesque portion of Surrey, is for sale. It was put up for auction last July and bought in, but shortly will come under the hammer again, and unless some steps are taken to prevent it the land will be cut up into building lots and the house demolished.

Yet Merton deserves a better fate. For it was there that Nelson entertained his captains and his friends. Against its mantelpieces he was wont to lean when discussing past experiences and future plans with them, and the staircase is the one up which he flew to take a last fond look at his little daughter Horatia before he started off on his last journey to Portsmouth and to Trafalgar from the place which he described as his "dear, dear Merton." There is still in existence in the grounds the long, broad gravel walk, stretching the whole length of the garden, and called by Nelson his "quarterdeck," and the whole place is full of memories of Great Britain's grandest naval commander, which are only relegated to oblivion owing to the fact that its associations are mingled with those of Emma, Lady Hamilton, who played so important a rôle in the latter portion of his career. But while it is difficult to countenance this particular feature of his private life it is surely carrying the celebrated English prudery too far to permit Merton to be demolished solely because Nelson permitted the lovely Lady Hamilton to act as its chatelaine.

The duke of Manchester is once more up to his ears in financial trouble, and while a number of judgments have recently been recorded against him, notably one by Wilton & Co., the London money lenders, suits are likewise being brought against the young duchess in the Dublin courts. Meanwhile the duke's mother, Consuelo duchess of Manchester, is continuing to spend such large sums in entertainments and in the gorgeous furnishing of her new house in Grosvenor square in London that it is doubtful whether there will be much of the Fernando Yznaga fortune left for her son when she is gathered over to the majority.

Val Prinsep, the Royal Academician, whose death has just taken place, was more famous on the whole as a man about town and in society than as an artist, and, thanks to his marriage with the sister of the late Sir Herbert Naylor Leyland of the former Leyland line of ocean liners, was exceedingly rich and entertained most hospitably. He was a brother-in-law therefore of the beautiful Lady Naylor Leyland, who was Miss Jeannie Chamberlain of Cleveland, O. The late Sir Herbert Leyland died in 1899. He was a good looking and popular man, but his entire life was blighted by the fact that when a young fellow he had the misfortune to kill his father accidentally while out deer stalking in Scotland, which led to his receiving from cynical, callous London society the significant nickname of "Bagdad."

Cards Didn't Match.

[From the Boston Commercial.]

Mrs. Brown, a California lady, had trained a new Chinese servant to wait on the door by having her daughter, Miss Brown, ring the bell and present her card. Next afternoon the bell rang and the Chinaman waited on the door. A lady presented her card. The Chinese servant took her card, then pulling out of his sleeve a card such as Miss Brown had presented the afternoon before, carefully compared the two. He then handed back to the lady her card, exclaiming, "Tickee no matchee, no can come in!" and shut the door.

A LINE-O'-TYPE OR TWO.

THE BATTLE FOR THE DEAD

John Vancise, living on the lake shore ten miles west of Cleveland, clung to the slippery rocks at the foot of an eighty foot cliff all Tuesday night with the dead body of his daughter in his arms to prevent the waves washing the corpse out into Lake Erie.

The furies of the surf ran in as trailing hounds unpent,
Ran in as unleashed hounds that bay upon a new found scent;
They swirled and whirled about his arms,
they snarled above his head;
They beat his clinching hands that clung unyielding to the dead,
And out the wind lashed coursing path,
where foam flecks marked their way,
They sent the call that summoned all to haste and seize the prey.

Across the brooding sky hung clouds that glowed as livid scars;
Their sullen glow died in the dark that framed the silent stars;
The night crept in full silently; it came with stealthy tread,
And whispered, whispered to the surf that waited for the dead.
And, O, the night was pitiless! The stars were far and dim—
(Once he had said her eyes were stars that laughed in light for him.)

The moon went drifting to the west, nor looked where still he clung,
Nor heard the curses and the pleas from his bruised lips upflung.
The stars marched on, unheeding, though his voice went out to them—
(Once she had told a dream she had: that each star was a gem.)
And now the furies of the surf came howling, howling back,
The slaver from their dripping jaws blown white along their track.

The moon sank in the sea of sleep that blurred against the west;
The scarring clouds changed into lace on night's full rounded breast;
The stars looked down as they have looked through all the centuries—
No cry from out the deepest hell may speed to one of these.
The furies of the surf came in with gleaming, hungry teeth—
(The foam they threw about her brow was like a lily wreath.)

And now they dashed against his form, and now they tore his hands,
And now toyed with her hair until it swayed
in golden strands;
They growled at him, they howled at him;
he gave them cry for cry—
(Once he had shown her how the surf held echoes of the sky.)
"Give us our dead," they begged of him, in soft, deceitful whine;
But madly he defied them still, and shouted:
"She is mine!"

And then the night crept out again, her star-blooms trailing down,
Like 'broiderings inwoven with the fabric of her gown—
The night, all silent, sought the sea of sleep far to the west,
That all the while had sung to him a luring strain of rest.
And then the surf-hounds turned and fled;
with night they must be gone—
(Once he had told her how the waves sang welcome to the dawn.)

And he bent low above his dead—his dead that he had kept
Against the surf that sought its prey, against the night that crept;
He bent and kissed the lily lips—he heard the far off whine
Sent back from the defiant surf, and murmured: "She is mine!"
And, O, the dawn came gently on, came chanting low and sweet,
A requiem above his dead that rested at his feet.

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS.

"TURK" is a characteristic novel, by Mr. Opie Read. It is the story of a Kentucky boy, born to the terrible heritage of a mountain feud, himself the last of his line. He grows up, the recipient of some kindness and much neglect, and rises with something like ecstasy to his inheritance of bloodshed and hate. But forces work upon him, softening and sweetening him, and little by little he "finds himself" and becomes a man happy and self-controlled.

Not the least interesting portion of the book is the description of Turk's fight with his inherited taste for liquor, and there is not, perhaps, in literature, a more appalling, and, from a literary point of view, wonderful description of the thirst for liquor than is contained in this volume. Mr. Read interesperses his tale with plenty of good anecdotes. He has humor and homeliness, and though the workmanship is, on the whole, crude enough, still it has a native flavor which appeals to the American. The novel is illustrated. (Laird & Lee, publishers.)

Frederic Isham, author of "Under the Rose" and "The Strollers," has written a third book. The scenario of "BLACK FRIDAY" is laid in times not out of the remembrance of this generation, and many of its characters have not long been absent from their prominent places on Wall street.

The story is the study of two natures; one, the woman's, distinctly feminine, proud, poetic, demanding that chivalric attitude which so many men forget toward their wives; and the other, the man's, his personality absorbed in his wide spreading business, virile, masterful, ardent. And interwoven with the excitement of those days when Mr. Gould and Mr. Fisk were demigods on the street, when men went gold mad and business and love waited on the fortune telling ribbon in the exchange, runs the story of these two natures, working in pride, obstinacy, and proverbially blind love, at cross purposes to each other, and only arriving after pain and grief at complete confidence and understanding.

Mr. Isham has chosen what is probably the most romantic period of our modern commercial history, for it is the reconstructive age which is always the interesting one.

"It was a period of wondrous awakening; the renaissance of America. The dark days of a house divided against itself had been succeeded by a new birth. The reconstruction of the union, and the restoration of the states lately in rebellion to their political rights, had imparted the healing touch to old industries and a strong ingentive for new ones. A wholesome rejuvenescence swept over the land. The reunited states awoke to the railroad age; a glorious, golden period, when many master minds sang their verses in humming wheels."

Mr. Isham does not subjugate his love story to the dramatic situation on Wall street, even if his hero does. And as for his delineation of Eleanor, the wife, it is as fine and subtle as if it had been drawn by Mrs. Ward or Mrs. Wharton. Pictures by Harrison Fisher. (Bobbs-Merrill company, Indianapolis.)

"NEW SAMARIA," by Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, is the title of a small volume containing two short stories, each of them among the best of their kind. The first story, which gives the title to the book, is a humorous one of a man against whom fate seemed suddenly to take a grudge, and transform him in a moment, as it were, from a prosperous banker into a tramp, a village pariah, and a much abused man. The situation threatens to become tragic, but fate relents, and all ends merrily. The story hinges on the fact that a tramp's story is seldom believed, and that a man too often is judged—or, rather, misjudged—by his coat.

The other story, "The Summer of St. Martin," is an entirely different theme. It is a dialogue between a young girl and a general, an old friend of her father's, and these two play for an hour at lovemaking—she as she would behave toward him were he young and truly her lover, and he as he once spoke in all earnest to the sweetheart of his youth. Both of them half forget that it is not play; the conversation holds more than its surface value. The old man is young again in spirit, and the girl half in love and coquetting with the soldier.

The stories are excellent examples of Dr. Mitchell's versatility, both with humorous satire on this world's charity when a man is down on his luck, and with a purely sentimental subject. (Lippincott company, Philadelphia.)

"DEACON LYSANDER," by Sarah Pratt McLean Greene, is a pleasant little story, overflowing with humor of the broad bucolic sort. Kind old Lysander is a lovable character, laughs in plenty in store for the reader of this little book, and, too, a few tugs at the heart-strings.

ter, strong, tender, sympathetic; and his good wife Candace is a motherly person whose words and deeds are reminiscent of some of the best of Mrs. Greene's creations. From the homely luxuries of their New England abode the elderly couple go to the national capital "to see gayety and happiness." Chance leads then to select for their stopping place a typical Washington boarding house, which is also a girls' boarding school, where they meet with some interesting adventures. At first they encounter serious obstacles in their pursuit of "gayety and happiness," but in due course they attain the latter in full measure, and incidentally impart a generous share of their find to others more in need of it than the sweet old couple. There are McKinley's Essay on the Tariff.

G. P. Putnam's Sons have published President McKinley's essay, "The Tariff: A Review of Tariff Legislation from 1812 to 1896," which was originally prepared by him for use in connection with a reprint of Clay's works. It is an able and logical presentation of a subject of which the late president was master, and its publication now is a timely one.

SHORT STUDIES IN SOCIALISM.

——The Essence of Socialism.

SOCIALISM has been so often and widely confused and even confounded with other plans for the reform or revolution of industrial and political systems that a statement of what it is will perhaps be more intelligible if preceded by a statement of what it is not.

It is not anarchy. The anarchist believes that each person is in all things rightfully his own sole sovereign, and that all authority exercised over him, however mild, is an unmitigated evil; and he would immediately overthrow and forever abolish every kind of government. Socialists think, on the contrary, that union and organization of the people are needed to protect the individual and secure the best material and moral interests of society; and when they find an anarchist in their camp they kick him out.

Nor is modern socialism the same as communism, although the two are much alike. Under communism people would own all things in common. There are some things which, under socialism, would be owned by individuals. Socialists also indignantly deny that they favor paternalism. They declare that they do not want governments to help individuals or bodies of individuals, but that they want society so reorganized that every able bodied man and woman will have full and complete opportunity to help him or herself.

A good many people have an idea that what socialists want is to dump the wealth of the world into a big pile and make an equal division of it. A poor man admitted to one of the Rothschilds that he was a socialist. Rothschild took a thaler (72 cents) out of his pocket and handed it to the man, saying: "There is your share of the wealth of the Rothschilds." That was a great banker's idea of socialism.

Socialists do not want all wealth seized by society and owned by its members in common or divided equally between them. What socialists do want is that all instruments for the production and distribution of wealth shall be taken over and owned and managed by the members of society collectively; that the wealth created by and with these instruments shall be apportioned in a more equitable manner than at present; and that, after it has been apportioned, the portion of wealth falling to each individual shall be his sole and absolute property. This is the essence of socialism. Regarding many other principles socialists differ from each other. Regarding these principles they are all in accord.

The first thing to be remarked in elucidation of this definition of real socialism is that it involves democracy of the extremest type. Not only are all public utilities to be owned by the people, but they are also to be managed by the people; and in order that the people may do this it is essential that they shall be entirely self-governing and sovereign. We find, therefore, that consistent socialists everywhere are opposed to every form of monarchy and to all restrictions on the suffrage of persons of legal age, whether men or women, rich or poor; and they generally favor the initiative and referendum as they exist in Switzerland.

But if the people are to manage all these great industrial utilities and manage them successfully, they must be more than perfectly self-governing—they must also be highly intelligent. Socialists frankly recognize this, and they are everywhere ardent advocates of public schools. They believe that all children should be educated at public expense until they are 18 years old; many of them believe that all children should have a chance to get a university education at public expense if they want it. Proper education of children is incompatible with child labor in industry. Therefore, all socialists are uncompromising opponents of child labor.

It should be observed that socialists do not demand public ownership of all wealth. The postoffice in the United States is owned and managed by the people through their national government. In many countries the railroads are owned and run by the public. These utilities are said to be "socialized." The socialists would "socialize" all instruments by which wealth is produced and distributed. Arable land, railroads, manufacturing plants, stores, telegraphs, telephones, street railways, printing houses, mines, sky scrapers—all these things and many more—in short, every form of economic capital, fixed and circulating—they would make public property. But the clothes upon a man's back, his pictures, books, and works of art are not "instruments of production." They are a form of wealth which exists, not to create other wealth with, but to enjoy. Things of this kind socialists would leave individuals to possess as private property.

The centralization of all the utilities of production and distribution in the hands of the public, would, of course, abolish competition. Socialists believe it would also lead to great improvements in the management of these utilities. If this be true, society with a given amount of labor would produce a much larger quantity of useful and ornamental articles than at present, or would get as large a product as at present with much smaller aggregate effort. Socialists believe, therefore, that a reduction in the hours of labor would go hand in hand with a progressive increase in the remuneration of labor.

Socialism in abolishing private capital would make it necessary for every person to work, steal, or starve. Under the new régime there would be no idlers living on inherited fortunes, for nobody would have a fortune to leave them.

It would become the duty of the public—or the "collectivity," as it is usually called in socialist literature—to furnish every able bodied person who was willing to work employment and a living. The abolition of private capital would involve the abolition of the private employer. There would be left no employer but the public, and if the public would not provide a man employment he must come to crime or to want.

In every form of society there will be persons who, because of mental or physical weakness or old age, can work little or not at all. Socialism proposes for these a form of mutual insurance, which will not only safeguard them against absolute poverty, but will secure to them the same comforts and luxuries as are enjoyed by the collectivity's able bodied and efficient workers. There would be no destitution under socialism, its advocates believe, unless it should be that of persons able to perform their share of labor for the collectivity, but obstinately unwilling to do it; and socialists are practically unanimous in believing there would be few or no such persons.

The chief purpose of socialism is distributive justice. Socialists believe that under the existing industrial system the products of labor are distributed with gross inequity—that an altogether disproportionate share of them goes to the capitalist class. They are not agreed as to the system of distribution that should be adopted. Some would give "to each according to his needs." Some would reward the workers according to the quality, quantity, disagreeableness, or dangerousness of their work. Some would reward all equally. But all socialists are agreed that the present system of distributing the wealth created by society should be abolished and that a method should be substituted for it which would give to all who work a larger portion of the products of their toil. They are also agreed that after a man had been given his share of the social income it should be his absolute private property, which he could do as he pleased with.

Those who oppose socialism often declare that the socialistic state would stifle and crush the individual in its efforts to promote the collective good, and would be more insupportably tyrannical than the government of the czar of Russia. The great philosopher, Herbert Spencer, took this view. Socialists believe, on the other hand, that when socialism is adopted the mass of men will get their first taste of real freedom. "The place of government over persons," says Friedrich Engels, "is taken by the administration of things and the management of productive processes."

IN THE SOCIETY WORLD.

ENGAGEMENT OF MISS MARTA STEARNS ANNOUNCED.

Her Fiance Mr. C. Warde Traver, the New York Artist—Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Lake of Evanston Issue Cards to Introduce Their Daughter—Wedding of Miss Mabel Hewes Gates to Mr. Edward C. Kohlsaat at Oak Park.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Marta Helen Stearns, daughter of Mrs. John K. Stearns, 476 North State street, to Mr. C. Warde Traver, the artist, of New York. Miss Stearns is at present traveling in Europe with her mother and sister, Miss Elise Stearns, and it is said that the wedding will take place in Rome in the early spring. Miss Stearns made her début winter before last, but has been in mourning for her father since last winter.

Another engagement announced yesterday was that of Miss Constance Walsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Walsh, 306 Superior street, to Mr. Ralph Aldrich Bond. The wedding will take place after Lent.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Lake, 1708 Ridge avenue, Evanston, have issued cards for Saturday, Nov. 26, from 4 to 7 o'clock to introduce their daughter, Miss Margaret Randolph Lake.

Mrs. Arthur J. Mitchell, 4820 Kimbark avenue, gave a large reception yesterday afternoon to present her daughter, Miss Grace Mitchell. There were a number of assistants in entertaining, and in the dining room a bevy of young girls presided at the table, which was done in green and white.

There will be a number of young women to assist at the reception to be given this afternoon by Mrs. Kreigh Collins, 76 Bellevue place, which will serve to introduce her sister, Miss Flora Comin. Among them will be Miss Marjorie Curtiss, Miss Helen Dupee, Miss Lida Dupee, Miss Inez McClelland, Miss Mildred Rogers, Miss Marjorie Mason, Miss Cornelia Williams, Miss Ethel Kerfoot, the Misses Irene and Ethel Parker, and the Misses Grace and Helen Hatch. The hostess will be assisted in receiving by her sister, Miss Rhoda Coffin, and by Mrs. Robert Dunham and Miss Albertine Flershem.

Mrs. Milward Adams was hostess at a charming affair yesterday afternoon given in her studio in the Fine Arts building. Fifty guests were asked to hear Mrs. Collins F. Huntington of Kenwood present a musical romance written by herself. After the recital tea was served, Miss Elsa Moner and Miss Eleanore Flood presiding at the table. Assisting Mrs. Adams in entertaining were Miss Nell Anguish, Miss Louise Seaverns, Miss Octavia Roberts, and Miss Schaff.

The wedding of Miss Mabel Hewes Gates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ryerson Dudley Gates of Oak Park, to Mr. Edward Christian Kohlsaat, son of Judge and Mrs. Christian Kohlsaat, took place last night at Unity church, Oak Park. The Rev. Dr. Johannot performed the ceremony at 8 o'clock. Miss Edith Gates attended her sister as maid of honor, while the Misses Edith and Helen Kohlsaat, sisters of the groom, and the Misses Charlotte and Helen Rockwood were the maids. Mr. Ernest Kohlsaat was the best man. There were no ushers.

The church was decorated with chrysanthemums, and the general color scheme was of pink and white. The bride wore a gown of valenciennes lace over chiffon and silk, and carried a shower of lilies of the valley. Miss Edith Gates wore pink chiffon, and bore an armful of white chrysanthemums, while the bridemaids wore white net and lace over soft satin, and carried pink chrysanthemums. After the ceremony a large reception was held at the family residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Kohlsaat will be at home in February at 1540 Linden avenue, Oak Park.

At the coming out reception today of Miss Ruby Chapin, the débutante's mother, Mrs. Charles A. Chapin, 555 North State street, will be assisted in receiving by her daughters, Mrs. L. O. Robertson and Mrs. Jerome H. Bishop Jr., and by Mrs. James B. Forgan, Mrs. Robert Hunt, and Mrs. G. H. Scribner Jr. There will also be a number of young women to assist in the dining room.

The Antiquarians of the Art institute have issued invitations for Tuesday morning at 10:45 o'clock in Fullerton hall, when Mrs. Emma Moffett Tyng of New York will give an illustrated lecture on "France: With the Fisherfolk and Lace Makers; and the Hill Cities of Italy."

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Channon, 579 Dearborn avenue, entertained twelve guests at dinner last evening.

The senior class at the University school, Elm street and Dearborn avenue, will give a dance Thursday evening, Dec. 22.

Mrs. Joseph P. Ross, Miss Bessie Ross, and Mrs. William H. Ross, 234 Lincoln Park boulevard, have returned home from Europe.

The wedding of Miss Carrie Frances Pope, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Spencer Pope, 3625 Lindell boulevard, St. Louis, to Mr. George Barnet McBean of Chicago, took place yesterday at the home of the bride's parents at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Miss Edith Moss of Chicago was the bride's only attendant, while Mr. William Pope acted as best man. Mr. and Mrs. McBean will be at home after Jan. 1 at 2017 Prairie avenue, Chicago.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McDonald, 4402 Prairie avenue, will be the scene of a small wedding this evening, when Miss Ada Skelly of Calumet, Mich., will be married to Mr. Robert Lewis of Havre, Mont. The ceremony will be performed at 7 o'clock, the bride and groom to be attended by Miss Blanche McDonald and Mr. Albert Skelly, brother of the bride, as maid of honor and best man. The bride will wear white mousseline de soie and her veil will be of tulle. She will carry white orchids. Throughout the house the decorations will be done in pink, save in the drawing room, which will be lighted with candles and have masses of white chrysanthemums and palms.

Petersburg, Va., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Miss Lucy Lee Hill of Chicago, daughter of the late Gen. A. P. Hill, and Gen. James MacGill of Pulaski, Va., were married this afternoon in St. Paul's Episcopal church. Charles MacGill, son of the groom, was the best man, and Mrs. William MacGill, daughter of the late Gen. William Mahone, was maid of honor. The bride entered leaning on the arm of Gen. Stith Boling, postmaster here. The marriage was attended by A. P. Hill camp of confederate veterans of Petersburg and R. E. Lee and Pickett camps of Richmond. The veterans were all in confederate uniforms, as were also the groom and his best man.

CONFER ON FARSON'S THREAT.

Park Board and Automobile Club's Lawyers See Signs of Conflict at Their Meeting.

The threat of President John Farson of the Chicago Automobile club to apply for an injunction against the new Lincoln park numbering ordinance resulted yesterday in a conference by Mr. Farson's lawyer, Attorney Frank Hamlin for the Lincoln park board, Attorney Hollitt for the south park commissioners, Attorney Dean B. Cole for the west park board, and Attorney Sidney S. Gorham, secretary of the club. It was a "harmony" meeting, but signs of conflicts were in the air. No action was taken.

The proposition of Secretary Gorham was to embody the unobjectionable features of the park ordinances into one ordinance, and the objectionable ones into another, the automobilists abiding by the first and making an attempt to secure an injunction preventing enforcement of the second.

The Automobile club has two factions in the agitation over obeying the city and park ordinances, one believing they should be complied with because they are laws, and the radical element desiring to fight the question to a finish.

"If the south park commissioners do not let up a little in enforcing their speed limit we will all become radicals," said Secretary Gorham. "I predict that if some arrangement is not made whereby we are allowed some discretion in speed in the boulevards, the club members will take off the numbers which they recently put on their automobiles."

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

The Chicago orchestra will in all probability remain two or three weeks longer in the Auditorium, certain indications leading to the conclusion that the first regular concert in the new Orchestra hall will be on Friday, Dec. 16, or 23, instead of Dec. 2, as was originally planned. No definite announcement regarding the matter has as yet been made by the Orchestral association, but it is known from private sources that it is the desire of Mr. Thomas and of the management of the orchestra to have as soloist for the opening concert Paderewski, who is coming to the United States next month on his way home from Australia. The eminent Polish pianist will devote himself entirely to recitals while in this country, and will accept no engagements to play with orchestras, but word has been sent to him which is expected to reach him at Honolulu, and which it is hoped will result in his consenting to appear here at the opening concert in the new hall.

Mr. Thomas and Paderewski are close friends, and the pianist has ever been an admirer of the Chicago orchestra. It is believed he will accept the invitation, and will come here direct from San Francisco. He is not scheduled to land at the golden gate, however, until Dec. 12, and could not, therefore, reach Chicago until Dec. 16 at the earliest. The facts that the management is considering the securing of Paderewski and that the new hall is still in an unfinished condition would seem to justify the conclusion that the orchestra does not now expect to get into its new home before the middle or last of December.

The remaining in the Auditorium is no cause for regret, however, for doing so means just so much more profit to the orchestra, inasmuch as the large audiences now crowding to the concerts can be accommodated, which would be impossible in the new concert room. Seven thousand people were present at the last two concerts and many were turned away, unable to purchase tickets. The same gratifying conditions are to be encountered again tomorrow afternoon and Saturday evening, unless some unforeseen accident prevents. The sale is already unusually heavy, and the presence on the program of Mme. Bloomfield-Zeisler as soloist is a good guarantee of a crowded house both afternoon and evening.

The program tomorrow and Saturday is a highly attractive one. Mme. Zeisler will play the Henselt F minor Concerto, a composition not heard here from a prominent pianist in many years, and the orchestra's numbers will be the Tschaikowsky "Pathetic" Symphony, the Overture to Berlioz's "Benvenuto Cellini," and the Overture to "Tannhäuser."

The rumor has been abroad for the last few weeks that there was a possibility of Mrs. Potter coming to this country next spring and joining issues with Kyrle Bellew in a tour. Mrs. Potter's brilliant failure with "The Golden Light" in London—the most successful and most admirably advertised failure the theater world has produced in a long time—was supposed to leave the actress with little outlook for the remainder of the season, and it was thought that she might be induced to carry out her long contemplated plan of coming back to America for a professional visit of some months' duration. The plan is not to know fulfillment this year, however.

Mrs. Potter has found renewed success and prosperity in London, and Mr. Bellew has completed plans which make any desertion by him of his present play of "Raffles" impossible. He will go to London early next fall, and at either the duke of York's theater or Charles Wyndham's theater will open the autumn season there with "Raffles." Mr. Tyler of Lieber & Co. is now on his way to London to complete arrangements for the playhouse. Mr. Bellew's return to the British capital is already assured, and the joint starring tour with Mrs. Potter is of course thereby rendered impossible.

The annual performance of one of the classic masterpieces of German drama given by the Wachsner company will take place this year on Nov. 28, the Auditorium being the place. Schiller's "Maria Stuart" will be presented. The cast will enlist the services of all the members of the German troupe.

The first performance at the La Salle of the new musical comedy, "His Highness the Bey," is now definitely fixed for next Monday evening. "The Jolly Baron" will reach its one hundredth presentation Sunday night and then will give place to the new piece.

The coming to the Grand opera house on Dec. 5 of Mme. Rejane, the celebrated French actress, is already awakening the interest of the Chicago students and admirers of French. The Alliance Française has arranged for three free lectures and readings which are to be devoted to consideration of Mme. Rejane's art and the plays she is to present during her engagement here. These meetings will be held at 11 o'clock on the mornings of the Saturdays, Nov. 19 and 26 and Dec. 3, the place being the Music hall, and the admission free. M. Maxim Ingres, who is dean of the Alliance and a member of the faculty of the Chicago university, and who knows Mme. Rejane intimately, will lecture concerning her art and the plays and their authors. Mme. Petite of the Conservatoire of Paris, who has but recently arrived to take charge of the elocution department of the Alliance, will follow M. Ingres' lecture with readings from the plays. At the meeting next Saturday morning "La Robe Rouge" and "La Passerelle" will be discussed and read. The Woman's club announces a similar meeting for next Tuesday afternoon, when Mr. Arby and Mlle. Valcourt, both of the Club Française, will tell of Mme. Rejane and her plays.

The Swedish Dramatic club will give its second performance of the season at the Garrick theater next Sunday afternoon. A Swedish version of "The Taming of the Shrew" will be presented. The version is in three acts, and is the one generally in use in Sweden.

Maude Adams will be seen here again in "The Little Minister" before she drops the charming play from her repertory, as she expects to do next month. She is to be brought forward in a new rôle early in January at the Empire theater in New York, but she will come to the Illinois on Dec. 5 for a stay of one week, and during that time will appear as Babbie, the rôle in which she achieved her greatest success and with which her fame is most clearly identified. She is to follow Lulu Glaser, who comes to the Illinois next Monday for a fortnight engagement in "The Madcap Princess"—the light opera version of "When Knighthood Was in Flower."

Household Hints.

BY ADA M. KRECKER.

The Love of Living—

"Near to nature" is instinct in every heart.

But long confinement, illness, or much pressure and exhausting indoor work may deaden our pleasure in out of door life. Or we may be so fascinated with indoor occupations or engrossed with study that we have no energy left for a brisk walk or row or an out of door game.

Or perhaps we have unintelligently grown to think out of door sports only suitable for boys or children.

Yet every normal and healthy woman ought to know the charm and advantage of out door living.

There is no better or easier way to keep both body and spirit in good condition than a regular daily amount of out door exercise.

It is a deplorable mistake to consider walking only a means of reaching a near by neighbor's house or a convenient shop.

Walking is far more than that.

It is a means to obtain health and beauty, and where no other form of athletic exercise is obtainable that surely is within reach of all.

To train our bodies and muscles in regular scientific ways is not only interesting work but makes us healthier women, and health brings more enjoyment in living; and that conduces to beauty, as well as to strength of form and face—always.

Women have special need of all the bodily health and vitality they can get.

The pressing indoor duties of which most of us have our share become easier and are better done when we can bring to them the freshened vigor we have gained outdoors.

Keen breezes and bright sunshine penetrate both the mental and physical being, and open up the entire nature to healthful influences.

Somebody—

Has invented a variation upon the daintily embroidered covers for tumblers used in invalids' rooms.

They usually have had sprays of forget-me-nots or roses wrought on the white linen, and a ring covered with silk crocheted in single stich, pink or blue, to match the flowers, to lift them from the glass.

The new way greatly increases the usefulness when the cover is placed over a tumbler containing medicine which is to be given at stated times. Cut from any art linen a circle half an inch larger than a circle of pasteboard which is large enough to cover the top of a tumbler without fear of falling in; then draw a circle on the linen exactly the size of the pasteboard.

With white silk work a row of buttonhole stitching, the straight edge just on the marked line, the inner one irregular, so that its outline will be waving.

Within this stitching work the figures from one to twelve, seen in the face of a clock, and between these figures straight lines of unequal length to represent the half and quarter hours, the half hour, midway between the figures, being longest, the quarter hours, placed between the figures and half hours, a little less than half its length.

A small brass hand is fastened in the center of the circle with a brass or gilt button.

When the whole is finished the linen is laid on the pasteboard, the edge projecting beyond the edge of embroidery basted securely on, a second circle of the same size also has a covering of the linen basted on in the same way, and the two are stitched together with "over and over" stitch.

Or, the second circle of linen may be basted on without the pasteboard linings, and hemmed down, but this is difficult to get done neatly, save for an unusually skillful seamstress.

By the use of this dainty little cover, not only are the contents of the tumbler kept free from dust and all impurities, but the nurse or patient can mark the hour when the last dose of medicine was taken, or set the hand to fix the time for the next.

The Street Gown—

Is never worn in the house, but is taken off at once, shaken out of the window, and brushed. The waist is hung over a chair, turned inside out to air, and is inspected to see if collar or ruche is mussed or soiled.

Skirts are never allowed to lie around on chairs, but are hung on two hooks, so that there shall be no creasing. When the waists are sufficiently aired they are folded away in drawers or hung on a wire frame.

Within the last two or three years some clever devices have come into use by which the capacity of hanging closets can be doubled.

If the depth of the wardrobe be great enough to allow of them two curtain poles in sockets are fastened at a height which will allow a long skirt to clear the ground.

On these poles are put the wire frames used to hang coats on, and it is surprising how many skirts can be disposed of, arranged side by side, but sufficiently far apart to give each skirt plenty of room.

Above these two curtain poles are two others, a yard higher up, for the waists, over which are also put the wire or wooden frames.

But these are differently arranged, for, of course, it would be impossible to reach so high. All along the poles at regular intervals are put eyes, through which runs a cork that is also fastened to the knot on the frame, and then, in pulley fashion, the frames can be lowered or hoisted as desired. Keeping skirts and waists thus spread out is a great help towards always having them fresh.

A padding of some soft material can be put over the frames, and a small sachet put therein to give a faint perfume, exceedingly faint. Tissue paper inserted in the sleeves will keep them in shape, and if there is danger of dust a covering of cheesecloth can be put over the waists.

Evening waists are best kept in boxes, and must be most carefully covered and kept in shape with white tissue paper. The skirts of evening gowns should not be folded, but are best laid in long trunks or boxes, with white tissue paper between the folds.

Each and every hat should be kept in a hat box, and never put away dusty. Careful brushing every time the hat is put on or taken off keeps it looking fresh a surprising length of time. If feathers come uncurled they should at once be recurled, and when flowers look mussy and frayed the edges must be trimmed with a sharp pair of scissors. The ends of ribbon bows require the same treatment.

Boots, shoes, and slippers must always be put on lasts or stuffed with paper when not in use. A pair of boots put on lasts the moment they are taken off retain their shape and wear twice as long as when thrown into a closet to curl up at the ends as they dry. Rubbers should not be put away mussy, but after they dry should be polished like boots.

The small details of dress, such as gloves, veils, ribbons, and handkerchiefs, must be kept in their respective cases and carefully watched, having occasional overhaulings and sorting outs. Veils with holes in them and frayed edges are an abomination to be classed with soiled ribbons and buttonless gloves, which it is better to go without than have in that condition.

To Sit Down—

And bemoan one's fate is weakness.

Strength gives itself for new endeavors, and confidently walks onward, looking ahead, because in the next hour, the next day, around the next corner, there is something bright, something happy, something prosperous. And it waits for us.

No matter how steep the road, no matter how dark the day, it is part of a cheerful philosophy to say "the best is yet to come." The mere act of looking forward, the mental effort it presupposes and involves, conquers the way in advance.

When the tired pilgrim in Bunyan's allegory trembled to advance lest the lions in the way should devour him, he was told to go on fearlessly, looking neither to the right nor to the left. He obeyed, and the lions were unable to hurt him. Most of our difficulties prove as easily overcome once they are courageously faced.

It is worth while to combat the fog of today with the thought that tomorrow will shine in rose and gold. If the moment be disappointing, never mind, it is only one link in the chain of the days, and it leads to another moment when the mood will be one of triumph and the cup of joy will brim over.

Every thoughtful woman has to combat the temptation to sit down amid the shadows and mourn over the things she did or did not, and fight the intimation that she is a failure and might as well end trying. Almost inseparable from a sense of responsibility is a feeling of discontent with what one is accomplishing. One regrets so much. There was irritation where there should have been repose. The attitude of the heart was not right. The expression of opinion was a blunder. The chance to make the right impression was suffered to pass by and was lost.

The part of honor and honesty, the part of wisdom, and fortitude, and bravery is to look forward, to learn by our mistakes, to put our partial failures behind us, and do better for the experience they have given us.

It is everlastingly true in every vicissitude and change, in every stress of wind and weather, in all phases of good and ill fortune, that according to our faith are our successes or our defeats.

The world receives us as we give ourselves.

The one who pitches expectation low will sit below the salt and will probably remain there through his entire life, while the recognition, the reward, and the seat at the head of the feast are reserved for the man who has self-confidence, backed by resource and equipment, and who has serenely looked forward and attained the natural end and result of his course and endeavors.

One many train one's mind in this direction as one trains one's hand in technical skill or one's tongue in flexibility in the use of a foreign language.

More than some of us suppose temperament and mental habitude are within the province of the will.

WOMEN FIGHT STATEHOOD BILL.

Wisconsin Suffragists Declare Plan for Admission of Arizona Is an Insult to Their Sex.

Janesville, Wis., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The Wisconsin Women's Suffrage association today passed a resolution protesting against the admission of Arizona as a state on the ground that the statehood bill now in the hands of congress sets a seal upon the disfranchisement of women, "insulting them by classing them with idiots, lunatics, and felons, and also defeats the expressed will of the voters of Arizona, and denies them control of the suffrage exercised by the states." The bill further is declared "a glaring injustice to those pioneer women who have given the best of their lives to develop the civilization of the west."

DOG HUNT IN MORGAN PARK.

Police Shoot Stray Canines in Effort to Kill Animal That Gave a Pet Hydrophobia.

Morgan Park police, accompanied by citizens, went on a dog hunt yesterday, and the sounds of cracking rifles and mournful howls disturbed the suburb.

This activity was the result of an attack made Tuesday on Charles Goes Jr., the 12 year old son of Charles B. Goes, president of the Goes Lithograph company. The boy was bitten in the hand by a pet house dog, which is said to have had hydrophobia. He was taken immediately to the Pasteur institute, where it was said last night his condition was not serious.

Neighbors figured it out this way. There was no reason why that little house dog should go mad unless infected by some strange dog running free in the streets. In the search for the stray dog several canine bystanders lost their lives.

Standard of Purity

American Family Soap

Free caustic soda and potash contained in cheap soaps are extremely destructive to cotton and linen and especially to woolen clothes. American Family Soap does not contain a trace of these. Every atom cleanses.

LARGE GAIN IN DEPOSITS.

STATE BANKS SHOW BIG INCREASE IN TWO MONTHS.

Loans, Too, Have Expanded, While the National Institutions for the Same Period Experienced a Contraction in Credit—Comparative Growth of the Two Classes of Banks in Five Months—Local Brokers Have but Limited Wire Service East.

Local state banks in response to the call of the auditor for a statement of their condition at the commencement of business Nov 11 make a much more favorable showing as a class than did the national institutions. Business in the last two months has been more active with the state than with the national banks. The reports yesterday showed deposits to have increased over $19,000,000, and loans to have expanded over $10,000,000.

The difference in character of the two sets of reports can probably be accounted for by the fact that national banks reflect mercantile conditions, while the state institutions have a demand from commission houses dealing in securities and grain. The markets have been active in the last two months. Deposits of state banks have probably been influenced by vigorous efforts being made to attract savings bank business. This has led to the organization and growth of a number of small banks. These latter have been untiring in their efforts to build up deposits.

A summary of the condition of twenty-eight institutions reporting yesterday follows:

	Loans and discounts.	Deposits.	Cash Resources.
Nov. 11, 1904	$160,824,282	$293,325,925	$115,696,423
Sept. 7, 1904	150,623,959	273,437,595	106,319,585
Increase	$10,200,323	$19,888,330	$9,376,838
Per cent	6.8	7.2	8.9

Growth of State Banks.

It is now possible to make fair comparison between the growth of state and national institutions, as the calls have covered identical dates. Since Sept. 7 the national banks show an increase of a little over $2,500,000 in deposits, or less than 1 per cent, while the state institutions show a gain of $19,888,330, or 7.2 per cent. Loans in the national institutions in the same period decreased over $5,000,000, or 2.6 per cent, while the state banks show an increase of over $10,000,000, or 6.8 per cent.

The changes are still more important in the matter of deposits when comparison is made between June 9 and Nov. 11. In that period state institutions gained $30,000,000 in deposits, while the national gained $14,000,000. Following are comparisons:

	Nov. 11, 1904.	Sept. 7, 1904.	June 9, 1904.

Both	$249,849,545	$235,540,853	$224,715,867

Have Gained in Deposits.

The individual showing of the state banks reflects an increase of deposits of $5,100,000 by the Illinois Trust, $5,500,000 by the Merchants' Loan, $3,100,000 by the First Trust and Savings, $800,000 by the Central Trust, $600,000 by the Federal, $600,000 by the Union Trust, $300,000 by the Western Trust and Savings, $500,000 by the Royal, $400,000 by the Hibernian. The newer small banks all did well, including the Drexel, Chicago Savings, Colonial, Jackson Trust, Manufacturers, and Stockyards Savings. The Drovers' Trust, which had an organized run made upon it during the stockyards strike, has substantially recovered all that it lost in deposits at that time, new business taking the place of such temporary deposits as were made by friends of the institution at the time.

The figures of the First Trust and Savings are unusual. The bank was opened Dec. 28 1903, and in the published statement yesterday shows deposits of $15,366,149. This, of course, is less than one year's business. The savings deposits in the meantime reach a total of approximately $5,500,000, this being the extraordinary part of the showing. Doubtless the prestige of the First National, which owns the First Trust, has attracted savings depositors.

Poor Wire Service.

Local stock commission houses had some use of their private wires yesterday, but the companies sought to distribute facilities equally, and in doing so gave each lessor of a wire a limited period for its use. One house which had an exclusive American Telephone Telegraph wire to New York was allowed to operate it during four periods of fifteen minutes each, being one hour's service for the stock exchange day. It was allowed the same period on another wire which it has leased jointly. In a general way all the offices were treated alike. It was difficult, therefore, to verify and clean up trade.

Lehigh Valley.

The Lehigh Valley railroad company gives notice that it will redeem and pay on May 1, 1905, at the banking house of Drexel & Co. all its bonds outstanding under the mortgage and collateral trust deed dated May 1, 1897, made between the railroad and the Girard Trust company, trustee. Interest will be paid to May 1, 1905, and will cease on that date. In accordance with the provisions of the bonds and mortgage a premium of 7½ per cent will be paid on their redemption.

New Japanese Loan.

The American allotment of £6,000,000, being one-half of the amount of the imperial Japanese government 6 per cent sterling loan second series, is offered to investors by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., National City bank, and the National Bank of Commerce in New York. The offering price is 88 and accrued interest, which is approximately the London issue price. The bonds are payable Oct. 5, 1911, at the fixed rate of exchange of $4.87 a pound sterling. After April 5, 1907, the Japanese government has the option to redeem all or any part of the loan on giving six months' notice. The loan is a lien upon the customs receipts of the Japanese government, subject only to the charge upon the previous loan of £10,000,000. The customs receipts of Japan for the last fiscal year were about $8,600,000, while the interest on the present and the previous loan amounts only to $6,428,400. A revision and increased tariff has come into operation since the last fiscal year, which will further largely augment the customs receipts.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. have received the assurance of the Japanese government's commissioner that the proceeds of the loan need not be remitted to London, but will remain on deposit in New York, subject to the requirements of the Japanese government.

Further details of the offering, together with the terms of subscription and payment for the bonds, will be found in another column.

General Financial News.

It is announced that the price of wire products has been advanced by the principal manufacturers $2 per ton. Sheets have also been advanced $2 and tin plate $3 per ton.

Since last Friday the New York subtreasury has lost $416,000 to the banks.

Directors of Swift & Co. will hold their regular quarterly meeting the last of the present month for the purpose of acting on the quarterly dividend.

An advance in sterling at Paris caused the Royal Bank of Canada yesterday to cancel an engagement of $1,000,000 gold for shipment.

The business of the Allis-Chalmers company is reported to be improving at a splendid rate.

The steel billet pool has advanced the price of billets from $20 a ton to $21 a ton. This applies to purchases made prior to April 1, 1905.

It is reported that the net earnings of the Erie railroad for October will show an increase of $400,000.

Chicago Stocks.

American Can preferred was the feature of the local market. The stock was weak under heavy selling by a house which in the past has traded for insiders. However, another house in the same class did large buying, so that the net result was not significant as far as inside business went.

Buying in Biscuit shares continued good. There is no news on the stock. Chicago Edison advanced 3½ points, closing at 173½. The Boxboard issues were active, without special significance.

The following were the sales on the Chicago stock exchange yesterday:

IN THE FOREIGN MONEY MARKET.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Money was in quiet demand and in increased supply today. Trading on the stock exchange opened firm but prices weakened. Consols hardened at first but eased later, partly owing to the expected rise in the rate of discount of the Bank of England. Home rails were depressed on disappointing earnings. Americans opened irregular, advanced by fractions to over parity, reacted later with the general depression and weakness in New York, and closed dull. Imperial Japanese government 6s of 1904 were quoted at 94⅞.

PARIS, Nov. 16.—Prices on the bourse today opened firm, but subsequently weakened and stocks closed feeble. Russian imperial 4s were quoted at 94.55 and Russian bonds of 1904 at 518.

IN THE NEW YORK MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—In dry goods buying is slightly improved and a better tone is noted in certain directions. More business has been done on goods affected by the shut down at Fall River and prices thereon show an advancing tendency. Jobbers report only a moderate business, [illegible] pet sale continued favorable with satisfactory prices realized.

Butter—Quiet, unchanged. Receipts, 4,934. Philadelphia—Steady, good demand. Extra western creamery, 25½c; extra nearby prints, 28c.

Eggs—Strong, unchanged. Receipts, 6,821 cases. Philadelphia—Firm and active. Nearby firsts, 27c at mark; western firsts, 26@27c at mark.

Poultry—Alive, steady; western chickens, 8@11c; fowls, [illegible]; turkeys, 15c. Dressed firm; western chickens, 12@15c; fowls, 10@11½c; turkeys, 18@22c.

LOWER VALUES IN STOCKS

REACTION IN QUOTATIONS FOLLOWS EARLY TRADING.

Close of Business Finds Tone Easy, with Some Issues at Lowest Prices of Day—Steel Shares in Slump—No Real News to Account for Slump in Some of Railways—Rock Island Bonds Are Dealt In to Considerable Extent.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The delay in restoring telegraphic service after the storm and fears of European complications were factors in shaping the character of stock market trading today. There was an early reaction, which was quite disappointing. The close was easy, with some stocks at the lowest of the day.

The advance in the price of steel billets of $1.50 a ton increased the selling pressure on steel and some of the other steel industrials, with resulting losses of a point or more. News of general conditions offered nothing to warrant depression of values. The cancellation of over $1,000,000 of the intended gold shipment to Paris was announced, although most of this was reëngaged later in the day.

The foreign trade statement for October showed a decline of over $8,000,000 in the balance in our favor compared with last October. But an increase in total value of exports of over $2,000,000 with the value of domestic exports alone lower by nearly $10,000,000 than last October, indicates a growth in exports of manufactures of about $12,000,000, in which the extraordinary movement of copper presumably figures.

With total exports of a value of $162,570,893, the October figures are lifted above those for any preceding month since October of 1900, with the exception of December last. The value of imports has also increased to a figure greater than since March of last year, thus reducing the balance in our favor for the month. But the foreign trade total for the month has mounted to an aggregate of $255,000,000, not counting the movement of silver and gold which is in excess of any previous monthly total in recent years.

The features of strength were Amalgamated Copper, the local tractions, and the subsidiary Pennsylvania stocks. They failed to sustain prices at the late recovery.

Rock Island bonds were active and strong, but some of the other active speculative issues were weak. Total sales par value, $10,515,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Close: Money on call steady, 2@2¼ per cent; closing bid and offered 2 per cent; time loans slightly firmer; 60 days, 3¼@3½ per cent; 90 days and six months, 3¾@4 per cent; prime mercantile paper, 4@4½ per cent; sterling exchange easier, closing firm, with actual business in bankers' bills at 486.70@486.75 for demand and at 483.90@484 for sixty day bills; posted rates, 485@487½; commercial bills, 483⅜@483⅝; bar silver, 58¼; Mexican dollars, 46¼; government bonds steady; railroad bonds irregular.

CHANGE IN WHEAT TONE.

DECIDED RALLY FOLLOWS AFTER OPENING DECLINE.

Liquidation Completed and Covering of a Good Sized Line by Armour, with Liberal Support by Gates Houses, Bring About Net Gain of a Cent—Cash Demand Shows Improvement—Corn and Oats Have Sympathetic Advances.

A decided change came over the spirit of both dreams and reality in the wheat pit yesterday. The market started about where it left off, but lost ⅝c quickly on renewed liquidation on stop loss orders and more or less short selling by local traders who thought so sick a market must get still sicker before it could get well. They were encouraged to that opinion by the large increase in the visible supply of 2,940,000 bu for the week.

This break carried May wheat to $1.10⅝, but at $1.11 a big demand developed, Merritt taking 1,000,000 bu or more, buying which was unquestionably for Armour account, covering some of the short sales which started the decline a day or two before. This buying cleaned up the cheap early offerings and steadied the market enough to start covering by scattered shorts.

There was a fair wire service again to the east, and the eastern bulls, who had been out of the market perforce for several days, seemed willing to come in again on the bull side on the break. There was heavy buying by a group of commission houses, which was attributed to the Gates interest, and forced a steady advance by easy stages until the early decline had been wiped out, and at the close May showed a net gain of 1c at $1.12¼ bid. The December was relatively strong, gaining 1⅜c to $1.12⅜. July wheat was even stronger, helped by reports from the southwest of injury to the growing crop by the continued dry weather, and helped also by buying orders from that direction, gaining 1⅛c to 98⅛c. There was a little open Armour selling of May around $1.12 on the upturn, but it was on a small scale, and only checked the advance temporarily.

Some Northwest Selling.

Northwestern markets were even stronger than Chicago, but the heaviest selling here on the bulge was for northwest account through Daggett and others. The buying attributed to Gates was through Pringle-Fitch-Rankin, Shearson-Hammill, Kneeland, and Barrell. Cash markets showed a stronger tone even in advance of the recovery in futures, Minneapolis reporting a good demand for low grades, prices 2c higher, and choice wheats up ½c relatively. Kansas City reported a better demand from interior millers and prices up 2c. The local cash market was firm, sales 110,000 bu. The continued falling off in southwestern receipts was a factor in the upturn. Farmers' deliveries in Kansas were reported small and continued light receipts at Kansas City predicted. Northwestern advices claimed liberal farmers' deliveries and Minneapolis stocks increased 750,000 bu for four days.

The latest war scare, the rumor or hint of a clash between Russia and England on the Afghanistan frontier, helped make shorts uneasy after the market had started up. Bradstreet's report of an increase of 6,500,000 bu in world's stocks for the week, compared with an increase of 3,113,000 bu the corresponding week last year, brought out selling enough to check the advance for a time around $1.12 for May. Primary receipts were 819,000 bu, compared with 1,262,000 bu a year ago. Clearances were 59,000 bu, all flour. Liverpool came ⅛d to ⅝d lower, London ⅜d higher, Paris ⅛c to ½c higher, and Antwerp ⅝c lower. Fine weather was reported in Argentina. It was still dry in the winter wheat belt, with no indications of rain.

Rally in Corn.

Corn responded to the strength in wheat as it had yielded to the weakness of the leading cereal the day before, December in particular showing strength on covering by shorts, who had to bid prices up to find sellers. There was a gain of 1¼c in the nearby month and of ⅜c in May. The weather west continued clear for maturing and moving corn, and advices from this state and Iowa indicated increasing consignments. There were 165 cars in and 291 estimated for today. With nearly 300 cars on the sample tables the cash market was weak, prices ½c to 1½c lower, even the old corn easier, as consumers are trying to wait for the new corn at its sharp discounts. Primary receipts were 463,000 bu, compared with 315,000 bu a year ago. The visible supply decreased 112,000 bu. Clearances were 20,000 bu. The shipping demand was slow, sales 75,000 bu. Buying of May was led by Bartlett and Comstock, the latter covering shorts. Merritt and Armour were sellers. Ware-Leland bought December early, and Cudahy brokers bought it on the bulge. Liverpool futures were ⅛d to ⅜d lower, spot off ¼d.

Firmer Tone in Oats.

In the oats market there was as usual a dull trade and a disposition to follow corn, the market gaining ⅛c for December and May and ¼c for July. Country sales are still small, receipts 69 cars, and only 67 estimated for today. Cash prices were steady, shipping sales 125,000 bu. The visible supply decreased 85,000 bu for the week. Clearances were 11,000 bu.

Higher Close in Provisions.

There was still a small trade in provisions, with most of it from local sources. A steadier hog market and smaller receipts at the yards with the strength in grain were reflected in small grain, pork closing 2½@15c higher, lard 2½@5c higher, and ribs 5@7½c higher. The greater part of the trade was changing, but there was moderate selling by the packers and fair buying by local shorts and commission houses. Hog receipts were 35,000 head here, and 28,000 are expected today. Prices at the yards were steady to a shade lower. The western markets received 99,100 hogs, against 84,100 last year. Cash demand was quiet. There was talk of a smaller run of hogs next week.

Rye was firm for cash and steady for futures. May was offered at 81½c and December at 79¾c. No. 2 spot sold at 85½c f. o. b. Receipts were 2 cars.

Barley sales ranged from 39@45c, with fancy quotably 52c. Feed sold from 38@38½c, and screenings from 26@38c. Receipts were 17 cars.

Flaxseed was unchanged. May was $1.18 asked, December $1.10½, and No. 1 spot $1.10½. No. 1 northwestern was $1.17½ bid. Receipts, nothing here, 53 cars at Minneapolis, and 87 at Duluth.

Timothy seed was steady to 2½c higher, country lots selling from $2.00@2.45. November was $2.65 bid, January $2.72½ bid, and March $2.82½ bid. November clover seed was quoted at $12.00@12.25, and bag lots from $7.00@12.00.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

Cattle Generally Sell 10 Cents Lower, Hogs Are Barely Steady, and Sheep Strong.

Receipts at the Chicago stockyards yesterday were 26,000 cattle, 35,000 hogs, and 22,000 sheep. The market for cattle was dull and prices were generally 10c lower. Only a few of the best steers sold steady. The top was $6.90. Cows sold steady, but the feeder trade was weaker. Hogs sold barely steady, the top being $4.87½. Sheep and lambs were strong.

PACKERS' HOG PURCHASES.

Armour	6,500	S. & S.	2,000
Anglo-Am.	3,000	Roberts & Oaks	500
Boyd & L.	1,500	Butchers	1,500

Hammond	1,000
Morris	2,200	Total	30,700
Swift	5,500	Left	6,000

Cattle.

The market for cattle was oversupplied with the common and medium grades, and prices were mostly 10c lower, yet many sold 10c to 20c lower than last Monday. Some of the choice cattle, which were relatively scarce, sold steady. The demand was not strong from any source. The cow market was steady and the feeder trade was weak and dull. Quotations:

Good to prime steers	$6.00@6.90
Poor to medium	3.75@5.75
Stockers and feeders	3.00@4.00
Cows	1.50@4.50
Heifers	1.75@5.00
Canners	1.50@2.25
Bulls	2.00@4.40
Calves	3.00@7.00
Texas fed steers	4.00@5.00
Western steers	3.25@5.25

Hogs.

There was not a strong demand for hogs, although on account of moderate receipts the market was nearly steady. The tendency was toward a lower level, however, and some of the hogs sold at a fraction less than on Tuesday. The quality was a little poor. The best hogs sold at $4.87½, and the good packing hogs went at $4.70@4.75. Quotations:

Mixed and butchers'	$4.65@4.87½
Good to choice heavy	4.80@4.90
Rough heavy	4.45@4.60
Light	4.60@4.80
Bulk of sales	4.70@4.80

Sheep.

The market for sheep and lambs was a little stronger. Most of the supply consisted of natives and the quality was not good. A few choice lambs sold up to $6.15, but not many reached $6.00. The demand for feeding stock was strong. Quotations:

Good to choice wethers	$4.00@4.75
Fair to good	3.40@4.00
Native lambs	4.00@6.15
Western sheep	3.00@4.50
Western lambs	4.40@5.50

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON 'CHANGE.

Southwestern advices from millers were less unanimously bearish than they were the day before. The following came by way of Kansas City: "Willis Norton & Co., operating a thousand barrel mill at Topeka, Kas., says: 'Have about half as much wheat on hand now as at this time last year. Sold ahead three weeks. Think one-third wheat still in farmers' hands.' Winfield (Kas.) Roller Mills says: 'Wheat is needing moisture badly; fully 75 per cent of last year's crop has moved from this territory.' Halstead Milling and Elevator company, Halstead, Kas., says: 'Marked falling off in farm deliveries of wheat. We are running full time, our output sold 30 to 40 days ahead. No complaints whatever to make in reference to flour trade. In our opinion 60 to 70 per cent of 1904 crop has moved from this locality. Growing wheat is not doing well on account of absence of sufficient moisture.' Kramer Bros.' Milling company, Wellington, Kas.: 'Sold ahead 15 days. Not over 20 per cent to 25 per cent of wheat back in farmers' hands. Growing crop looks poor, seeding late, and it has been so dry that wheat is not coming up well. Some farmers are talking of preparing their ground for spring crop. Wheat acreage 15 to 20 per cent less than a year ago.'"

A few houses reported a better milling demand in the local market, and there were sales of 110,000 bu to millers, 85,000 bu of the total No. 2 hard wheat to a Buffalo miller, the rest in mixed lots. Local millers were out of the market, and the only demand was from outside sources. Prices on the sample tables were about the same as those of Tuesday, but most of the sales were made before the advance in futures, and the close was firm. No. 3 red was quoted at $1.10@1.14, No. 2 hard at $1.11@1.14, No. 3 hard at $1.05@1.10, No. 3 spring at $1.05@1.13, and No. 4 spring at 55c@$1.05. Minneapolis wires claimed the best demand in weeks, with the tables cleaned up, and No. 1 northern in store 1½c higher at $1.15⅝, and Duluth was ⅝c higher at $1.16. At St. Louis there were sales of 50,000 bu No. 3 red at $1.16 and Kansas City reported sales of 100,000 bu to Minneapolis millers. St. Louis prices were 1½c higher and Kansas City ½@1c higher, No. 2 hard $1.05½@1.08, and No. 3 hard $1.04@1.06. There were better sales of corn and oats, wire service being better. Sales of corn were 50,000 bu and of oats 125,000 bu white clipped on private terms.

The directors have just taken action on two cases brought before them, which, while at first seeming to establish a new precedent, really reëstablish an old one. In one case a private warehouse filed charges against a discharged employé, a member, against whom it had an unpaid claim for about $300 growing out of losses alleged to have been sustained through his errors in transmitting orders by telephone. The directors ruled that they could not interfere between employers and employés in disputes not involving violations of rules of the board. Their decision was based on an opinion of Corydon L. Beckwith, one of the legal lights of the last generation, who was attorney for the board some twenty-five years ago. In another case another commission firm wanted action taken against an employé who was no longer connected with the firm, but still owed $600 on his membership, which had been bought for him by the firm. The directors held that as the member against whom the charge was brought was not a member at the time the membership was purchased for him it was not a case for action on their part.

The directors at their last meeting laid on the table the request of Robert H. Thorburn that they take up his case again. This action does not mean that Mr. Thorburn, who was suspended for failing to pay a claim of Harris, Gates & Co. in a case growing out of the July oats deal, will not be granted a rehearing. He made the mistake of asking for a reconsideration of his case, and as the rules of the board provide that cases can only be reconsidered at the meeting at which a vote is taken or at the next subsequent meeting, the directors could not, under their rules, accede to his request. It is presumed the matter will come up again in another form.

Des Moines, Ia., wired Ware-Leland: "There is a good, big movement coming in corn. Yesterday's break loosened them up. One broker bought nearly 100,000 bu before 3 o'clock for prompt shipment on yesterday's bids. Farmers are contracting freely." In Oklahoma conditions seem to be different. An Oklahoma City wire to Logan-Bryan said: "Elevators paying 38@40c for corn at country points to farmers in Oklahoma and Indian territory. Receipts light and difficult to obtain enough to supply local needs. Government report considered to be fairly accurate, but farmers holding for 50c, which they expect to get in the spring."

July wheat felt the influence of messages from the southwest telling of continued drought and further talk of fly in Nebraska. Lincoln wired Bartlett-Frazier: "Mr. J. S. Ewart, in this morning, has sample of growing wheat from vicinity of Exeter, Neb. The roots are heavily covered with larvæ of the Hessian fly. Great deal damage reported from many different parts of Nebraska. Mr. Newton of Pleasantdale says many fields of early sown wheat are dead because of Hessian fly."

Pringle-Fitch-Rankin were out, with a claim that the Japanese government and private Japanese interests will be heavy buyers of American flour within a few days. Stocks of breadstuffs in Japan and China are said to be low. Recently efforts have been made to get stocks at lower prices than are now prevailing, but northwestern millers say indications are haggling over the price will soon cease and sales will result.

There was an increase of 6,518,000 bu in the world's visible supply, Bradstreet's reporting an increase of 4,218,000 bu east of the Rockies and 2,300,000 bu in Europe and afloat.

New No. 3 corn was offered at 5½c over May c. i. f. Buffalo for shipment before close of navigation, but there was only a limited demand from the east at that figure.

Estimated receipts for today: Wheat, 74 cars; corn, 291 cars; oats, 67 cars; rye, 3 cars; barley, 28 cars; hogs, 28,000 head.

Lake rates to Buffalo were nominally 1½c on corn and 1⅝c on wheat. No charters were reported.

Imperial Japanese Government 6% Sterling Loan,

Second Series,
DUE OCTOBER 5, 1911.

WITH OPTION TO THE IMPERIAL JAPANESE GOVERNMENT TO REDEEM ALL OR ANY PART AFTER APRIL 5, 1907, UPON GIVING SIX MONTHS' NOTICE.

SECURED BY A CHARGE ON THE CUSTOMS RECEIPTS OF THE EMPIRE, AS STATED BELOW.

CREATED UNDER THE AUTHORITY OF IMPERIAL ORDINANCES NOS. 228 AND 229 OF HIS MAJESTY THE EMPEROR, PROMULGATED NOVEMBER 10, 1904.

Coupon Bearer Bonds in the Denomination of £100 and £200.

SEMI-ANNUAL INTEREST PAYABLE APRIL 5th AND OCTOBER 5th AT THE OFFICE OF THE YOKOHAMA SPECIE BANK, LTD., IN LONDON, AND AT ITS AGENCY IN NEW YORK.

Principal and interest payable both in London in Sterling and in New York in United States Gold Dollars at the fixed rate of Exchange of $4.87 per Pound Sterling.

PARR'S BANK, LTD., THE KONGKONG AND SHANGHAI BANKING CORPORATION AND THE YOKOHAMA SPECIE BANK, LTD., ARE AUTHORIZED BY THE IMPERIAL JAPANESE GOVERNMENT TO ISSUE THE ABOVE £12,000,000 BONDS. OF THIS AMOUNT £6,000,000 IS BEING OFFERED FOR PUBLIC SUBSCRIPTION IN LONDON BY THE ABOVE MENTIONED BANKS, AND £6,000,000 HAS BEEN TAKEN UNDER THE AUTHORITY OF THE IMPERIAL JAPANESE GOVERNMENT FROM THE LONDON ISSUING BANKS BY MESSRS. KUHN, LOEB & CO.

THE LONDON ISSUING BANKS MAKE THE FOLLOWING STATEMENTS IN THEIR PROSPECTUS, WHICH HAS BEEN APPROVED BY KOREKIYO TAKAHASHI, ESQ., VICE-GOVERNOR OF THE BANK OF JAPAN, THE IMPERIAL JAPANESE GOVERNMENT'S DULY AUTHORIZED SPECIAL COMMISSIONER IN LONDON.

"This Loan is repayable at par, October 5, 1911, but the Imperial Japanese Government reserves the right to redeem at par all or any of the bonds at any time, after April 5th, 1907, on giving six months' previous notice. Partial redemption to be effected by drawings at the office of the Yokohama Specie Bank, Ltd., London, and the New York Agency of the same bank, in the usual manner. The bonds will be secured both as to principal and interest by a charge, limited to the £12,000,000 and the interest thereon, upon the Japanese Government's customs receipts, subject only to the charge in favor of the existing Loan of £10,000,000 sterling. The Imperial Japanese Government will pay each month one-twelfth part of the sum required annually for the interest payable on this issue to the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation and to the Yokohama Specie Bank, Ltd., as representatives of the bondholders, in Yokohama or in London at the option of the Imperial Japanese Government. Coupons and drawn bonds of this issue will be receivable for their full face value in payment of customs duties at all the custom houses of the Empire of Japan at the fixed exchange of two shillings one halfpenny per yen."

"The average annual yield of the customs receipts of the Empire of Japan, as officially stated, for the five years 1899-1900 to 1903-4 was 15,891,458 yen—£1,622,253. The yield for the year 1903-4 was 17,378,302 yen—£1,774,035; the exchange is taken at two shillings one halfpenny per yen. A revised and increased tariff came into operation on the first of October, 1904, and this, it is expected, will largely augment these receipts."

REFERRING TO THE ABOVE, THE UNDERSIGNED ARE AUTHORIZED BY THE IMPERIAL JAPANESE GOVERNMENT TO ISSUE THE ABOVE LOAN AND HEREBY OFFER FOR PUBLIC SUBSCRIPTION £6,000,000 OF THE ABOVE BONDS AT THE PRICE OF 88 PER CENT AND ACCRUED INTEREST, NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE USAGE, WHICH IS THE APPROXIMATE PARITY OF THE LONDON ISSUE PRICE.

The subscription list will be opened at 10 A. M. on November 14, 1904, and will be closed on or before November 22, 1904. The undersigned reserve to themselves the right to close the subscription list at any time without notice, and to reject any subscriptions and allot smaller amounts than applied for.

ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS, WHICH SHOULD BE MADE ON THE FORM WHICH CAN BE OBTAINED FROM THE UNDERSIGNED, ARE TO BE ACCOMPANIED BY A DEPOSIT OF $25 IN NEW YORK FUNDS PER £100 BOND.

If no allotment be made the deposit will be returned in full, and if only a portion of the amount applied for be allotted, the balance of the deposit will be appropriated towards the amount due on December 5, 1904. If any further balance remains, such balance will be returned. Failure to pay any installments at due dates will render all previous payments liable to forfeiture.

The rate of exchange fixed by the Imperial Japanese Government at which principal and interest of the bonds are payable in New York is $4.87 per pound sterling, at which rate the New York issue price of 88 per cent. and accrued interest, figuring $5 per pound sterling, according to the usage of the New York Stock Exchange, is the approximate equivalent of the London issue price of £90½ per cent. Payment for bonds allotted is to be made in New York funds as follows:

On application,	$25.00	per £100 bond,
On December 5, 1904,	25.00	per £100 bond,
On January 5, 1905,	397.31	per £100 bond.
Total,	$447.31	per £100 bond.

Temporary certificates to bearer will be delivered by the undersigned in exchange for allotment letters duly endorsed, upon payment of final installment. A coupon for payment of the semi-annual interest due on April 5, 1905, will be attached to the temporary certificates.

Payment in full may be made on December 5, 1904, under discount at the rate of two per cent. per annum.

The bonds will be delivered by the undersigned in exchange for the temporary certificates as soon as practicable.

SUBSCRIPTIONS WILL ALSO BE RECEIVED BY THE NEVADA NATIONAL BANK OF SAN FRANCISCO.

LANDS ARE FOR SETTLER.

PRESIDENT SO TELLS IRRIGATION CONGRESS IN LETTER.

Says While Work of Reclamation of Arid Wastes Is Well Under Way Protection Must Be Afforded Men Who Will Make Use of Benefit—Commander Booth-Tucker Writes on the Colonization Work of the Salvation Army.

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Features of the second day's session of the National Irrigation congress were the receipt of a letter from President Roosevelt and the reading of a paper prepared by Commander Booth-Tucker of the Salvation army. The letter from the president extended greeting to the congress and rehearsed the work that already has been done under the reclamation act. He sounded a warning to the delegates in the following:

"It may be true that to the man whose interest is limited by immediate results the admirable work of the reclamation service at times seems slow, but we are building for a great future, and it is far more important that the works built should be permanent and successful than that they should be completed in haste. There will be no unwise hurry; neither will there be any unnecessary delay. Most of the great problems of organization and methods have now been solved and progress in construction and settlement is being made with increasing rapidity.

Must Guard for Future.

"The passage of the reclamation law was a great step toward realizing the best methods to produce water for irrigation. But always and in every place the best use of public lands is their use by the man who has come to stay. There are, unfortunately, in every part of our country, a few men whose interests are purely temporary, who are eager to skim the cream and go instead of using the natural reservoir upon which national irrigation depends, to the permanent loss of every agency which makes for the true development and lasting greatness of the irrigable states.

"Such interests cannot be allowed to control. Now that your first great object has been accomplished in the passage of the reclamation law, you should make yourselves the guardians of the future."

Booth-Tucker on Colonization.

The paper of Commander Booth Tucker of the Salvation army, which was read, was in part as follows:

"The alliance formed between the kindred subjects of irrigation, forestry, and colonization is of the most vital importance in order to assure the success of each. Not only are they naturally correlated, but I venture to say that each adds both to the dignity and feasibility of the other.

"India, we are told, has expended something like $125,000,000 on its colossal irrigation enterprises, combining with it a systematic plan of rural settlements and colonization, which has in nine years resulted in placing 800,000 persons on its once arid and abandoned lands.

Advances in Arid America.

"Second, perhaps, in this remarkable march of nations should be placed the great advances which, thanks to the energetic action of this congress, have taken place in arid America. While last but not least upon the list is the remarkable action of New Zealand in its expenditure of some $20,000,000 under its advances to settlers act.

"The fact that the state of Oregon has invested some $4,000,000 of its school funds in advances to the farmers of that state at 6 per cent seems to me to further demonstrate the safety and wisdom of a policy which shall extend to our rural districts and would be bona fide settlers a system of credit, without which our commerce and trade would languish.

Army Colonies Succeed.

"Our own Salvation army farm colonies bear out the same deductions. Crippled as we have been by the lack of capital, we have been able to establish three farm colonies, with a total acreage of 3,000 acres and a population of 530 souls. With a total expenditure of about $300,000 the repayments have amounted to about $50,000. On our California colony a thirty acre tract was recently sold at the rate of $155 per acre, while one of our Colorado farms has just changed hands at $115 per acre, and the owner says that he would not sell it for $200 per acre. On our town site in Colorado lots have been selling at an average of $200 per lot, or $3,200 an acre, while the business turnover for the year amounts to about $200,000.

"A working people's sanitarium for consumptives has been established under the supervision of an expert physician, where for popular prices good treatment and excellent climatic advantages can be obtained within the limits of any workingman's capacity."

Submits a Colonization Bill.

The author of the paper submitted a draft of a colonization bill providing for the formation of a colonization bureau with a commissioner under the secretary of the interior, the collection and distribution of information regarding suitable lands, loans of $500 to $1,500 in cash, live stock or materials to enable poor families to make homes for themselves on unclaimed lands, and for the issue of bonds to the extent of $50,000,000 for providing advances to settlers at the rate of not more than $5,000,000 per year.

WITNESS MUTE: TWO TRANSLATE

John Getz's Evidence Taken with Difficulty in Judge Chytraus' Court.

Two persons were required to translate the testimony of John Getz, a German deaf mute, in Judge Chytraus' court yesterday. Getz accused Irving Kellogg of robbing him of $30, but after he admitted that he was not positive in his identification defendant was discharged.

When Getz was called to the stand a sign language interpreter was summoned, and then it was discovered that Getz understood only German. It was learned that he had a deaf mute daughter who understood both German and English, and, after some delay, she was produced in court.

Then the taking of testimony began. Assistant State's Attorney Fake would ask a question of the English interpreter. The latter would translate it into the English sign language. Miss Getz would repeat it in German signs, and when her father answered she would translate it into English. The English speaking translator would then make the oral reply to the questioner. The answer to each question occupied an average of from one to two minutes at a time.

HIS TONGUE FAILS TO CLEAVE.

Night Watchman at Dog Pound Succeeds in Confuting Charges of an Irate Woman.

William Alchim, night watchman at the dog pound, appeared before Trial Commissioner Errant yesterday charged with calling Mrs. C. R. Evans, 1672 North Spaulding avenue, a "bulldozer" and with being rude to her.

"If you deny it," said Mrs. Evans, "your tongue will cleave to the roof of your mouth."

Alchim denied the charge and his tongue still remained serviceable.

Commissioner Errant dismissed Alchim with a warning to be courteous.

Detective Sergeant C. R. Wooldrige, accused of impersonating a constable and insulting School Trustee George Duddleston, was exonerated by the withdrawal of the charges.

Patrolman Jacob Sebastian, "czar of Cragin," also was exonerated, after his case had been held under advisement. He was accused of being too autocratic in his rule.

O'SHEA MAY SECURE FREEDOM.

Man Who Killed Wife Expects to Obtain Release on Bonds Next Saturday Without Opposition.

Victor Roland O'Shea, wife slayer, expects to be released on bonds next Saturday, following the disagreement of the jury. His father announced yesterday the application for release would be made then, and the state, it is said, will offer no great objection to the proceedings. O'Shea's mother and sister visited him in jail in the morning.

NEWS OF INSURANCE WORLD.

EDITED BY C. M. CARTWRIGHT.

Eastern News Telegraphed from New York Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin.

The Calumet Insurance company of Illinois, organizing in Chicago, announces that Marvin A. Farr, former president of the real estate board, will be the president. The local directors have been chosen from banking, railroad, and board of trade interests are: Marvin A. Farr, Fred H. Rawson, vice president Union Trust company; George E. Marcy, vice president Armour Grain company; Darius Miller, vice president Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad; E. C. Potter, capitalist; J. H. Hiland, vice president Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad; J. R. Morron, vice president Diamond Glue company; Samuel McRoberts, assistant treasurer Armour & Co.; S. H. Strawn of Winston, Payne & Strawn, attorneys; and John F. Harris of Harris-Scotten company. Others will be added to the board in a few days.

The subscription books of the Calumet will be opened at the Union Trust company in Chicago on Nov. 22. A majority of the stock already has been applied for. Headquarters have been opened in the Association building.

The governing committee of the union was advised yesterday that the Indianapolis local agents had met and repealed their resolution in which they declared they would not collect the conflagration charge. The rescinding of this action is without condition, and the agents now desire to confer with the governing committee to see whether the Indianapolis conditions cannot be modified. The agents made a stiff fight against the companies, but found they were unable to score their point.

Superintendent of Ratings Goodwillie of the Chicago Underwriters' association has issued a report on the plants in the stockyards, showing the improvements made under the new schedules. He finds that 239 buildings have been improved. He takes up each packing house individually, showing what has been accomplished in the way of improving the risk and giving its present condition.

The rating authorities of St. Louis have advised agents that in order to secure the present rates on tornado policies the 50 per cent coinsurance clause must be used. Otherwise, the figures will be greatly increased.

Carroll L. Dewitt of Indianapolis, the newly appointed general agent of the Newark Fire, arrived in Chicago yesterday to get under way some of the preliminary work of his new position.

Insurance companies having liability in the Cleveland lumber districts are further alarmed in the face of the numerous fires on the "flats." The recent small blaze in the yard of the Nicola Bros. company—the third within a few months—has caused some companies to send their special agents to the scene to look over the ground and determine whether the situation is sufficiently serious to warrant cancellation of all policies.

The proposition of the West Virginia Fire Underwriters' association to bring the local agents of Wheeling under the jurisdiction of the stamping office in that city, as anticipated, is meeting with a vigorous protest from the agents. They fail to recognize any advantage to them in the proposed change, and there promises to be much argument between now and Jan. 1, the time set for the readjustment. It is believed the agents ultimately will yield to the advice of the companies.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The Indianapolis association of local agents at a meeting today rescinded unconditionally their recent action in refusing to collect the conflagration advance here. They also passed a resolution asking the companies to reconsider Indianapolis conditions.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Robert Zener & Co. have been given the general agency of the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company for seven counties in central Indiana, succeeding George W. Pangborn & Co.

NEWS NOTES FROM NEW YORK.

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The New York fire underwriters approved the recommendation of the finance committee to remit the fine against W. S. Banta for delay in filing the fire patrol returns. The board decided to proceed against the Potomac Fire Insurance company of Washington for the fire patrol tax due from it. President Henry Evans of the Continental Insurance company stated his intention to present the board with a portrait of Francis C. Moore to replace the one now hanging in the board room.

The headquarters of the Atlas of London is about to be transferred from Chicago to New York. This will be consummated before the close of the year. The Atlas has appointed Richard James Cross, Senator John Kean, and Henry Smallwood Redmond as its trustees. These gentlemen already have served the Manchester in the same capacity.

Insurance companies writing tornado risks in the south will hold a meeting in this city on Nov. 22 to confer as to the proper forms of policies, clauses, and rates. It was called at the suggestion of the Home Insurance company. About fifteen companies handle this class, and responses to letters suggesting the advisability of a conference were so favorable a notice has been issued.

The plant of the G. H. Flagler Autoboat company of Jersey City, burned on Tuesday night, was insured under a general form in the following companies (loss total):

L. & L. & G.	$5,000	N. Y. Fire	$1,000
Colonial, N. Y.	1,000	Springfield	1,000
Prov., Wash.	1,000	Assurance Lloyds	1,000
Fireman's Fund.	500

The companies strongly are protesting against the valued policy and other hostile legislation proposed in Vermont.

Vice President Lee A. Loeb of the North German Insurance company is here from Chicago.

Atlanta, Ga., local agents have organized preliminary to forming an exchange, and prospects are bright for stopping of rebates. The agencies largely responsible for the present conditions are said to be willing to come in, but whether they do so or not the exchange will be organized. Fred W. Cole was elected president and James Dickey secretary.

The Atlas Insurance company has received a license from the state of Virginia and has commenced writing in its own name through agencies which formerly represented the Manchester.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Superintendent of Insurance Francis Hendricks has authorized the American Fidelity company of Montpelier, Vt., to commence business in personal accident and health insurance, employers' liability, fidelity surety, and burglary and theft in the state of New York.

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—At a joint meeting of the board of control and the fire and light committee it was decided to recommend to the council the submission of a bylaw for $700,000 to cover the estimated cost of increased fire protection. This is the city's own proposal and is based on a report from Chief Thompson and City Engineer Rust. It has nothing to do with the suggestions of the fire underwriters. The scheme includes a high pressure system of water from the bay through a series of mains through the congested district—that is, from Jarvis street to Simcoe street and from the water front north to Queen street. Five gas driven pumps will be placed in the station on harbor square and will have a capacity of 8,000,000 gallons in twenty-four hours. The purchase of a fireboat at a cost of $50,000 was considered by the board as a useless expenditure in view of the installation of the high pressure system mains for fire protection.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—At its annual meeting the underwriters' bureau of New England today elected the following officers:

Treasurer—E. B. Cowles.
Secretary—Gorham A. Dana.
Executive committee—J. B. Cornish, Gayle T. Forbush, and H. L. Hiscock.

The bureau has no president. The losses on sprinkled risks in the last year have been above the average, largely due to the elevator fire in Boston last July. The reports disclosed several failures of sprinklers to work properly. The experience of the bureau in this regard doubtless is typical of all New England experiences.

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Secretary B. R. Stillman of the National Fire Insurance company of this city will leave on Thursday for the Pacific coast, going by way of Texas, and will spend the winter months in southern California. The trip will be made mainly on account of his health.

Calls Tennessee Insurance Laws Bad.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—"There is no end to unjust legislation against insurance companies in Tennessee," declared William Kelday in the course of a paper before the eleventh annual meeting of the Kentucky and Tennessee board of fire underwriters, which began here today with about 100 members present. Mr. Kelday described conditions in the state tending to sustain his assertion.

The secretary's report showed the affairs of the board to be in a satisfactory condition. The address of the retiring president, Charlton R. Rogers, was heard with interest.

New business was taken up this afternoon and an address on "Master vs. Beggar" was delivered by S. N. Chambers of the Indianapolis bar.

Owing to his absence from Tennessee Reau E. Folk, commissioner of insurance for that state, will not be present at the meeting and his paper on "Tennessee and Its Insurance Laws" probably will be read by some one else.

NEWS OF THE RAILWAYS.

NEW REPORT OF SALE OF CHICAGO GREAT WESTERN.

Negotiations Said to Be in Progress to Turn It Over to the Northwestern, Which Needs a Line to Kansas City—Annual Meeting of the Burlington Again Postponed for Week—Agreement Against Further Reductions to St. Louis.

Negotiations are said to be going on to bring about a deal whereby the Chicago Great Western railroad is to be absorbed by the Chicago and Northwestern.

Both President Stickney of the former and President Hughitt of the latter were in New York last week, and it is said that conferences were held with the principal owners of those companies. Neither Mr. Hughitt nor Mr. Stickney feels inclined to impart any information regarding the matter except to say that the sale of the Great Western has not been made. It is a well known fact, however, that Mr. Stickney is anxious to sell the road and that those interested in the western roads competing with the Great Western would like to have the road removed from the list of independent lines.

The competition and aggressiveness of the Great Western on many occasions has prevented an advance in the freight rates between Chicago and the Missouri river and the Twin cities. But for the big price Mr. Stickney asks for a controlling interest his road would have changed hands before now.

Of Use to the Northwestern.

The Chicago and Northwestern could make better use of the Great Western than any other interest. The other Chicago-Omaha lines have all an advantage over it because they have outlets to Kansas City and the other southwestern Missouri river points while it does not reach any point south of Omaha. For this reason it has been anxious for years to secure an outlet to Kansas City. The Great Western would give it a direct line from Chicago to St. Joseph, Mo., and Kansas City, via Marshalltown, where the two roads join. For the line from Oelwein, Ia., to Omaha and the twin cities the Northwestern would not have much use, as it has already direct lines to those points. But there is a report current that the northern part of the Great Western may be used jointly by the Northwestern and Milwaukee and St. Paul roads. The latter being owned by the Rockefellers and the former by the Vanderbilts and the close relations existing between them, the joint purchase by them of the Great Western looks plausible. There is a probability that the Wisconsin Central, in which the Rockefellers are said to have a large interest, may become a party to the proposed deal.

Burlington Meeting Adjourned.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad company, which has been adjourned weekly since Nov. 2, was again adjourned yesterday until Nov. 23. It is generally understood that the meeting will be adjourned from week to week until the Northern Securities case, now pending in the courts, is settled.

St. Louis Rates Low Enough.

Executive officers of the roads centering in St. Louis have agreed that there shall be no further reduction in rates to the world's fair at St. Louis, not even for the days when President Roosevelt is to be the guest there.

ANSWER CATTLE RATE CHARGES

Witnesses for Railroads Explain at the Hearing Before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The hearing in the case of the stock raisers and shippers against the western and southwestern roads before the interstate commerce commission yesterday, brought out the fact that cattle rates from the ranches in the northwest were proportionately considerably lower than from Texas points. J. M. Hannaford, vice president and general traffic manager of the Northern Pacific, explained the inequality on the ground of the strong competition of the Great Northern, Burlington, Oregon Short Line, Union Pacific, and Soo Line, with the Northern Pacific.

Although it had been understood that the Great Northern, and Northern Pacific were controlled by one interest (Hill), the witness asserted that each road acted independently in the matter of making rates. The cattle business in the northwest, he said, had been decreasing during the last seven or eight years, except in 1893, when there was an increase. The main cause for the falling off of live stock shipments, it was testified, was the tendency of the farmers to resort to wheat growing instead of cattle raising, finding the former more profitable.

Mr. Hannaford's testimony showed that of last year's earnings 3.4 per cent was from live stock, and of the claims paid for damage 4.5 per cent was on account of live stock and persons in charge of shipments.

"There has been no material increase in rates in the last five years," said the witness. "During the time our road was under the management of the Northern Securities company there was no effort to effect changes."

The forenoon session was occupied with the examination of J. W. Maxwell, assistant general superintendent, and C. E. Hale, traffic manager of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad. Both tried to explain why the rates on cattle from Texas and southwestern ranches had been steadily advanced during the last few years. The hearing will be resumed today.

CHOICE POTATOES UP 2 CENTS.

Small receipts and an active demand resulted in an advance of 2c in Burbanks. All desirable stock was firm. There was a further advance of ½c in choice eggs, while common stock remained steady.

IN THE REAL ESTATE WORLD.

The Underwriters' Laboratories, an Illinois corporation, has leased for ninety-nine years from Mrs. Anita McCormick Blaine 100x100 feet in Ohio street, fifty feet east of St. Clair, at an annual rent of $1,000.

The function of the corporation is to act as a testing station for the National Board of Fire Underwriters. The ground will be improved with a brick structure three stories high in front and one story in the rear to cost $15,000. It is expected to be completed and ready for occupancy early next summer. The laboratories are at present located at 21 East Twenty-first street.

John C. Kreitenstein has sold to John Bell the apartment house at 3625-3629 Lake avenue, with 50x160 feet of ground, for $30,000, including an incumbrance of $15,000.

The store and flat building, with 25x141½ feet of ground, at the northwest corner of Jackson boulevard and Paulina street was conveyed by James B. McAfee to Richard Knowles for $25,000. The latter executed a trust deed covering the property to the Chicago Title and Trust company for $13,000 for five years at 5½ per cent, and then conveyed the property for $25,000 subject to the trust deed to Abraham R. Marriott and Abbie McDall. For a consideration of $20,000 Mr. McAfee also conveyed to the trust company the flat property in Park avenue, 107 feet west of Kedzie avenue, with incumbrance of $8,500.

George W. Merchant has sold to Otto B. Linde two pieces of south side flat property for an aggregate consideration of $49,000. One was the premises 5528 Jefferson avenue, with 50x150 feet of ground, which sold for $22,000, and the other was in Langley avenue, 192 feet north of Sixty-first street, with 55x120 feet of ground.

Edgar M. Snow & Co. have made a loan of $25,000 for five years at 5 per cent to Edward A. Featherstone of Los Angeles, Cal., running five years at 5 per cent. It is secured by 225x387 feet in Chicago avenue, 300 feet east of Halsted street.

The National Life Insurance company has made a loan of $18,000 for five years at 5 per cent to Hannah L. Brown on 60x150 feet, with flat improvements, in Washington avenue, 300 feet south of Fifty-fifth street.

SAFETY DEVICE SAVES LIVES.

Automatic Clutches Stop Fine Arts Building Elevator After It Has Fallen Two Stories.

Automatic clutches on an elevator in the Fine Arts building yesterday prevented the car from falling from the sixth to the main floor. Several women were in the cage when it suddenly dropped. The passengers rushed forward, but Conductor Morris Patrick held them back, and in a moment the elevator stopped with a jerk at the fourth floor. A slipping cable is said to have caused the trouble.

ACCUSED OF FRAUD ON ALUMNI.

Youth Who Poses as Phillips Academy Graduate Said to Have Secured Cash.

Charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, George Cheever, 21 years old, was dismissed yesterday when his accuser, A. C. Batelle, did not press the case in court. Cheever is said to have posed as a graduate of Phillips academy, Andover, Mass., and to have used "hard luck" stories in securing cash from alumni.

Live Stock Insurance Company Quits.

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The Stockmen's Indemnity company of Jackson, which was organized under the mutual [illegible] of Michigan two years ago, applied to the Jackson Circuit court for the appointment of a receiver. It has money enough to pay all outstanding claims, but future prospects were bad owing to its inability to increase its membership.

The Hamilton Fire Insurance company has applied for admission to Michigan.

CLAIRVOYANTS.

AN HONEST PROPOSITION—PROF. JAMES White, Chicago's celebrated clairvoyant, palmist, and spirit medium, is permanently located here. His honesty, test of time, and 12 years of continuous practice in Chicago have proved beyond all doubt that Prof. James White is the leader of his profession. As proof of his WONDERFUL POWER to all who come prepared for readings this week he will tell your FULL NAME, ADDRESS, OCCUPATION, AND THE OBJECT OF YOUR VISIT ABSOLUTELY FREE OF CHARGE. His advice pertaining to love, law, business, wills, estates, lawsuits, buying or selling property, speculation, investments, marriages, divorce, etc., is unequaled. He reunites the separated, causes speedy and happy marriage with the one you love, restores lost affection, removes evil influences—in fact, everything. Prof. White's advice is much sought for on past and future investments, for which he has no equal. He charges not one penny for such advice until the investment has paid a handsome profit. Is this not fair and honest? Great reduction this week. Prof. White, as a matter of advertisement, this week will give his complete life reading for 50 cents; satisfaction absolutely guaranteed or no fee accepted. Everything strictly sacred and confidential. His residence is arranged so you meet no strangers. Don't mistake name and number. PROF. JAMES WHITE, TWO HUNDRED AND NINETY-THREE WARREN-AV., bet. Robey and Hoyne-av., West Side. Lake-st. Elevated and Madison cars to Robey-st.; take you one block from Mr. White's home. Phone West 1522. Consultation hours 10 to 6. Sunday included. No readings by mail.

ALWAYS CONSULT THE BEST.
MME. ROSA, QUEEN OF SEERS.

PRIZE FOR PLANTING OF TREES.

South Side Improvement Association Offers Reward for School Children.

A plan for more trees has been evolved by the South Park Improvement association. Prizes have been offered to the school children who shall bring proof to the association of having caused the greatest number of trees to be planted between Nov. 1 of this year and Nov. 30, 1905. The winner will receive $50.

The district covered by the association is bounded by Fifty-fifth and Fifty-ninth streets, Cottage Grove avenue and the lake.

The trees must be planted within the street lines; no tree to be planted more than twenty-five feet from another sound growing tree; no tree to be less than three inches in diameter one foot above the ground. Each tree must be certified by the owner of the property as being done with the credit due the pupil holding the certificate.

LOW RATE FOR STOCK SHOW.

Railroads Grant Fare of 1 Cent a Mile for Excursion Parties in 300 Mile Radius.

General Manager W. E. Skinner of the International Live Stock exposition, which will be held at the Union stockyards Nov. 26 to Dec. 3, announced yesterday that the railroads had granted a special rate of 1 cent a mile for excursion parties within a radius of 300 miles of Chicago, to become operative Tuesday, Nov. 29. For visitors who desire to remain during the entire week the railroads have made a rate of one fare plus $1.

SEES WASTE IN GARBAGE.

RICHARD FOX SAYS CHICAGO LOSES GOOD FUEL.

If Committee of Philanthropists Would Take Up the Problem, He Says, They Could Establish System and Ultimately Turn It Over to City Without Losing Money—Defects Still Exist in Both Reduction and Incineration Methods.

"Chicago hasn't the slightest conception of its garbage problem."

These words were uttered by Richard T. Fox, superintendent of the citizens' street cleaning bureau, yesterday.

"If the refuse of this city were properly handled it would supply power enough to operate several of the sewage pumping stations. There is a waste of 40 per cent of the garbage of Chicago by throwing on the dump every day stuff which in New York and other cities is sorted out and sold.

"Experience has taught me that as long as that department of the city which has to do with the disposition of garbage and cleaning of streets is under the control of politicians just so long will waste, unscientific and insanitary methods prevail. I can suggest but one remedy, and that is that the whole problem be taken over by a committee of philanthropic citizens such as those backing this street cleaning bureau, who will first reduce the whole matter to a scientific basis and then build, equip, and operate a plant.

"They must needs be philanthropists, otherwise if they were seeking gain only there would be a tendency to slight some things. But I am convinced that if such a committee could be formed it could in four years build and equip a plant that would do the work economically and it could then be turned over to the city as a going concern. It would require a large amount of money, but the committee could get its investment back from the city and could make the interest out of the operation of the plant."

Bad Odors with All Systems.

Mr. Fox was asked to give his views on the comparative merits of the incineration and reduction methods of garbage disposal, which are now being considered by the finance committee of the council. Before coming to Chicago he was in charge of the public service department in the borough of Richmond, in New York.

"Neither the incineration nor the reduction method has proven an unqualified success in New York," he said. "The crematory has not been built that will not emit an offensive odor, and the reduction or rendering plant is just as bad as those near the stockyards, which frequently pollute the air of this city. But for the incineration process there is this much to be said. The offensive odors come from the vegetable and animal matter, and in the garbage of all large cities that constitutes only about 7 or 10 per cent.

"The best plan is to separate first the salable refuse, such as old shoes, paper, bottles, iron, and what not, which in New York amounts to 40 per cent of the bulk. Then another separation is necessary to remove the garbage proper from the combustible matter. This combustible matter when burned produces steam enough in New York to operate the separating plants, and I believe they are now lighting the municipal stables and other institutions from this power.

Hiring Teams Is Extravagant.

"One of the greatest causes of extravagance is in the system of hiring teams. To bring the garbage plant as I have suggested to its most economical basis it would be necessary for the committee to attend to the removal as well as the final disposition. It should have steel carts, the bodies of which could be lifted off and placed on cars or scows for the long hauls, and it should have stables and good horses. I found that the saving in cartage cost in my borough in New York was nearly half I finally got my own teams, stables, and horses.

"In 1899 New York City contracted for the cremation of all of its garbage in certain boroughs, like Bronx, Manhattan, and Richmond, for 45 cents a ton. Six plants were erected by the contractor, and it took him three months to fail. The city took over the plants, and it costs $1.60 a ton to operate them. The garbage in New York amounts to 885 tons a 1,000 population. Though the official reports show much less in this city I believe that is because most of the hotel and restaurant garbage from downtown is removed by a private contractor."

PROMISE GATES AT CROSSINGS.

Two Railroads Agree to Comply with the Sixty Day Notice from Commissioner Blocki.

Two railroad companies assured Commissioner Blocki yesterday that they will comply with the sixty days' notice, nearly expired, requiring the installing of gates at street car crossings. J. G. Drennan, for the Illinois Central, promised protection at Seventy-first street and Stony Island avenue, and Chief Engineer F. E. Paradis, for the Chicago Junction, agreed to put gates at the Forty-seventh and Leavitt streets crossing.

C. H. SLACK SUED FOR $75,000.

Two New York Banks Begin Action on Notes—Time of Maturity in Dispute.

Charles H. Slack, grocer at 45 Randolph street, is being sued in the Superior court for $75,000 by two New York banks upon notes said to be two months past due.

The Importers and Traders National bank and the National Bank of Commerce of New York are the plaintiffs and are suing for $15,000 and $60,000 respectively.

Attorney Harrison Musgrave on behalf of Mr. Slack said there was a dispute in regard to the time when the notes are due.

MANY MEN WANT TO AID IN FRAMING NEW CHARTER.

Subcommittee Swamped with Applications—Ald. Alling Urges Mayor's Term Be Increased to 4 or 6 Years.

There will be no dearth of talent for framing a new charter for Chicago. The subcommittee appointed to secure the workers is swamped with suggestions, each member having received scores of applications for places on the commission.

Up to yesterday noon Elbridge G. Keith had had the names of twenty-eight lawyers urged upon his immediate consideration. Then he departed for the golf links to think it over. John M. Clark spent the entire morning receiving friends of candidates, after which he escaped to the Chicago club. Bernard E. Sunny is out of town, but his desk is a foot deep in a two days' mail of significant import.

It is not likely that the subcommittee will be able to report on the personnel of the commission at the meeting of the executive committee tomorrow afternoon.

When the council state legislation committee met in the morning Chairman Alling stated his views on the charter. He opposed having two branches of the city council, and said the mayor's term should be lengthened to four or six years, and the salary remain at $10,000 a year, or be increased to $12,000. If chosen for six years, he should be ineligible for reelection, in Mr. Alling's opinion.

Instead of two aldermen for each ward Mr. Alling would have one. The ten county commissioners elected in the city, he said, should sit also as members at large of the council. Aldermen's salaries, he held, should be raised to $5,000, a "living wage."

"The aldermen should be submayors for their wards," continued Mr. Alling, "with power to approve the expenditure of every dollar used in their wards for street cleaning, garbage collection, and the like."

SEES FIRE PERIL IN BAZAARS.

Arthur Hawxhurst Tells How Precautions Prevented Disaster, and Urges Care by Public.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—A bazaar has been held for the last two weeks under the auspices of a prominent north side church, and my wife being a member I felt it my duty to investigate the possibilities of a fire, especially as the affair was to be held on the fourth floor of an old building and would be attended largely by women and children.

The conclusions arrived at were that great chances existed for disaster, and while this applies to all bazaars and other like hazards, I felt the danger to life was greatest here, owing to the distance from the street level and the absence of preventives. Consequently I took it upon myself to advise with the priests in charge to point out the facts. They but laughed at the idea and answered there was no possibility of a fire, as everything in the way of light would be electric and heat would be by steam.

Still, I persisted, and told them they should at least have a city fireman on duty, with fire extinguisher and pails of water handy, as it was the unexpected that always happened. I even went so far as to advise indirectly through a friend with the building and fire department, and told my wife if she were to attend our own extinguisher and some pails of water must at least be placed in her booth, and this she had done.

Everything passed off safely until last Friday evening, the night before the closing one, when some one found they could get more illumination by lighting an unused gas jet, and, in doing so, fire was set to the draperies around the booth, with the usual results.

The only appliances on the premises were my extinguisher and the pails of water, and these were immediately thought of by those with whom I had been so persistent and who had laughed—were used by them to the extinguishment of the blaze. Another dreadful Chicago experience was not repeated and all parties interested are now duly grateful.

I am told this by those in charge, and I repeat the incident for the benefit of that class known as "I did not know it was loaded," hoping also that these good fathers and other ministers, from total immersionist to believers in a "sprinkling" system, who will hold bazaars in the future, will remember that a pail of water on hand is as useful for the prevention of fire in this world as it will be for the next, and that it is but common sense and one's duty to use the ounce of prevention in cases like these, rather than afterwards to condole with those who feel but the mockery of it.

The fire losses in this country have grown to enormous proportions. Last year they were $160,000,000. This year they will be at least $240,000,000, and for the last twenty-nine years they have aggregated $5,376,000,000, the insurance companies reimbursing to the extent of $2,000,000,000, but all contributed by the people of these United States who are now paying annually $190,000,000 and who have also contributed since 1860 the enormous sum of $3,416,000,000 in premiums towards this tremendous ash heap, which represents not only the loss of material wealth but labor, brains, and progress of the nation.

The president of the national board of underwriters, in his last annual address, tells us that "half of this waste is due to preventable causes." The little incident given above is a sample, and as all great conflagrations have started from insignificant sources—Chicago being destroyed by the kick of a cow, Boston by a small fire getting a start, and, more recently, Baltimore by a cause not even discernible to firemen when entering the building in which the fire started—it behooves us to be most careful. While it should not be necessary to tell Chicagoans of the misfortunes attending fire, but "lest we forget," and as fires will be with us until the end of time, I call attention to this important matter and to the greater importance of not letting them get beyond incipiency by having the means at hand for their suppression, be it in bazaars, business houses, or homes.
